COMMUNISTS DOWN 8 U.S. COPTERS IN LAOS

EGYPT PLACES TROOPS ON FULL ALERT ALONG SUEZ CANAL

EGYPT has placed its troops on full alert along the Suez Canal in anticipation that it will be forced to reject an extension of the Middle East cease-fire scheduled to expire Sunday. Cairo political sources said Wednesday. The sources said a similar alert was in effect on the Israeli side of the canal and noted that both sides had greatly increased reconnaissance flights over each others lines in recent days. At the United Nations, diplomatic sources said the United States was urging Secretary General Thant to appeal for extension of the cease-fire before any action was taken by the Big Four powers. They said, however, Egypt would not open fire unless it was forced to by Israeli provocations, and predicted the Egyptians would be willing to maintain a cease-fire until they felt all diplomatic efforts for peace had been exhausted.

FLA. BANKER HELD HOSTAGE AS GUNMEN GET $599,915

TWO GUNMEN posing as policemen took a bank president and his family as hostages in Palm Beach, Fla., Wednesday, then stripped the bank vaults of $599,915. About 30 employees of the Palm Beach Bank and Trust Co., warned by President James E. Morgan Jr. not to interfere "because the lives of my wife and daughter are at stake," stood by helplessly as the gunmen scooped up the money and fled in Morgan's car. Morgan, his wife, Fanny, and 9-year-old daughter Sheri, were not harmed in the precision-planned holdup that was strikingly similar to a Jacksonville bank robbery two years ago that netted the gunmen $70,000 in cash. Morgan said two men came to his two-story home at about 8 a.m., knocked on the door, and when young Sheri answered, they flashed some sort of badge and said, "Open up, we're the police." When Morgan walked to the door, the intruders poked a gun in his stomach and told him: "do what we say and nobody will be hurt." The gunmen bound and gagged Mrs. Morgan and Sheri, then forced Morgan to drive them to the bank. Police said the robbery was timed so Morgan and the gunmen arrived at the bank at 8:30 a.m., just as the vault's time clock went off. The bank employees were herded into the lobby while the gunmen looted the vault.

WHITE HOUSE DENIES DISCUSSING INVASION THREAT

THE WHITE HOUSE said Wednesday there has been discussion at the policy-making level of the U.S. government about support for a possible South Vietnamese invasion of North Vietnam. President Nixon doubtless will be asked about President Nguyen Van Thieu's latest invasion threat, broadcast Wednesday in Saigon, when he holds a news conference at the White House starting at 9 p.m. EST. The half-hour session with newsmen, his first since Feb. 17, will be carried live on radio and television. The White House said Nixon wanted to limit the questioning to foreign policy.

RAILROAD PACT TALKS ON VERGE OF DEADLOCK

CONTRACT TALKS between the nation's railroads and the United Transportation Union were on the verge of deadlock Wednesday, with the government ready to offer its own settlement proposals if the negotiations collapse. "It does not look good," said Asst. Labor Sec. W. J. Usery Jr., the government's top mediator in the 17-month contract dispute involving 150,000 train crewmen who are free to strike at any time. The UTU has not set a strike deadline, but legally has been free to strike since a congressional moratorium on walk-outs expired at midnight Sunday. The union and railroads have been unable to agree on work rule changes the carriers say are necessary to make operations more efficient and less costly.

GOV. REAGAN WOULD PUT CAL. WELFARE RECIPIENTS TO WORK

GOV. RONALD REAGAN Wednesday proposed a sweeping reform of California's welfare system designed to remove the "unneeded" from relief rolls and save taxpayers $575 million a year. The program called for putting able-bodied welfare recipients to work, cutting back medical benefits and closing "legal loopholes." Reagan declared this is "perhaps our last chance" to bring under control a welfare and health care system which is costing taxpayers nearly $3.5 billion annually in federal, state and county funds. Reagan's welfare experts said they could not tell how many recipients would be removed from the relief rolls under the governor's program. But they estimated between 25 and 35 per cent of the 1.6 million persons receiving aid to families with dependent children would find their grants reduced. The governor's program was sent to a divided legislature narrowly controlled by Democrats who earlier had denied his request to appear personally and present the package.

CITY-WIDE STRIKE OF BOSTON SCHOOL STUDENTS FIZZLES

A THREATENED city-wide student strike of Boston's 18 public schools fizzled Wednesday with school officials reporting an increased and "unusual" attendance pattern. However, about 400 students attended a brief noon rally in City Hall. They left soon after and went to School Committee headquarters on Beacon Hill where representatives from each school were allowed inside to meet with school officials. Earlier in the day, some 200 Boston English students walked out of class across the street to Boston Latin School and forced open a door with a pole. A false alarm coincided with the attempt and forced officials to evacuate the building. The Latin students returned to classes a short time later. A spokesman for the School Committee said 14,132 high school students attended classes with absences at 5.112, or 26.5 per cent. Normal absenteeism for the period is 12-15 per cent. He said: "Schools that had been the scene of trouble in the past, like Brighton High, were returning to normal, while new schools became involved, like East Boston." At Brighton High, only 216 absences were reported compared to 1,015 who attended school. Other schools returning to normal were Trade, Hyde Park, Jamaica Plain, Girls High and Dorchester, he said.

War On Crime Sets Gas Station Curfew

In an attempt to reduce nighttime crime in the city the Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night approved by a vote of 21 to 2 an ordinance regulating the hours of gas stations.

According to the ordinance "gasoline stations in the City of Newton shall open no earlier than 7 a.m. and close no later than 9 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays, and open no earlier than 7 a.m. and close no later than 6 p.m. on Sundays and holidays."

However, under another clause in the ordinance stations could petition the Board of Aldermen to remain open later and, in the Board's judgement "the public convenience and welfare may be substantially served," exceptions could be granted.

In addition, the aldermen on a 14 to 9 vote a further restriction that all public facilities on the premises of the gas stations also be locked when the stations are closed.

Aldermen See Urgent Need

Request Funds For Work On 3 Schools

The Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night adopted a resolution asking Mayor Monte G. Basbas to appoint architects and submit a request for funds for additions to the Davis, Lincoln-Eliot and Underwood Schools.

According to the resolution the School Committee has transmitted its vote that additions requiring a total of approximately 30,000 square feet of additional educational space are needed.

"The Board of Aldermen agrees that there is an urgent need for such facilities at these schools," the resolution added.

In other action relating to schools the aldermen sent to their City Planning Committee for further study, a report from the Education Committee in which several sites were recommended which could be made available to the state so that a transfer of Newton Junior College could be made to the state.

Aldermen Give $30,000 Assist To Drug Center

A proposed multi - service drug center in Newton received a considerable boost from the Board of Aldermen on Monday night.

The board voted 22 to 1 to appropriate $30,000 to support the proposed drug center but also included a restriction saying the funds could not be spent until a definite location for the center is secured.

The center is currently negotiating for what may be temporary quarters at 283-285 Washington St., Newton-corner.

The group, according to Rev. David Parachini, area drug coordinator, hopes to have a permanent home in St. John's Episcopal Church, Newtonville, by the end of the summer.

Upcoming town meetings in Weston and Wellesley are also being asked to contribute funds for operation of drug center which would also service these communities. Wellesley is being asked for $11,250 and Weston $3,750.

The Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen had recommended that the appropriation be held until a location was definite. However, when it was pointed out that the two other towns involved might be looking to Newton for leadership, the Finance Committee accepted the restriction withholding allocation of the funds until a lease is signed and agreed to go along with the appropriation. The Drug Committee of the Board also recommended the appropriation.

The Finance Committee's reluctance to appropriate the funds stemmed from a recent experience where Project Turnabout was granted an appropriation and subsequently lost its proposed location when neighborhood pressures caused landlord to change his mind about renting the premises on Madison Ave, Newtonville.

Alderman Robert Tennant said he was not opposed to the proposed drug center but was

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Democratic State Committee In Usual Condition--Broke

The Democratic and Republican State Committees usually have one big failing in common. Neither organization would win any prizes for its promptness in paying its bills. Both are in a condition bordering closely on bankruptcy most of the time.

Even when a Republican Governor is serving at the State House, the GOP State Committee ekes out a hand-to-mouth existence. The Democratic State Committee would not even be able to get credit except that Senator Edward M. Kennedy periodically stages a fund-raising event and pays off its bills.

When a new chairman of the Republican or Democratic State Committee is elected, it invariably is announced that his salary has been set at a figure in the vicinity of $16,000 a year. The catch, of course, is that he usually does not get paid.

School Board Revision Set For Hearing

A public hearing will be held by the Board of Aldermen at City Hall on the night of Monday, March 29, on two proposed amendments to the Newton City Charter which would revise the make-up of the Newton School Committee.

Under one suggested change in the city's charter, the eight School Board members would be elected by

Wants Under-19 Crimes Visited Upon Parents

In order to get parents to take better control of the actions of their offspring, Alderman Peter F. Harrington has proposed an ordinance which would make Newton parents legally liable for the criminal acts of their under-19, living-at-home children.

It often happens that a youngster is arrested, booked and convicted without his parents even knowing about it, and Harrington's proposal is aimed at avoiding such a situation.

According to the alderman from Ward 2, "When the police catch a kid acting up, they can detain him, call the parents and advise them of their potential liability, and ask them to come and get the child so as to avoid an arrest and booking."

A similar law was enacted recently in Wisconsin's capital city of Madison, and Harrington indicates that he "read of the Madison law and adapted it for Massachusetts and Newton in my ordinance."

Thoughtful step
Helping a child to write a thank you note for a gift is a step in helping a child develop into a thoughtful human being, says Dr. John Woodward, chairman of the Department of Human Development and the Family at the University of Nebraska.

Opening on Monday, March 8 will be a new gallery, "The Galleries," owned and directed by Newton artist, Norma Trust Sherman. The Galleries will feature significant showings of multi-media art, including selections of painting, sculpture, crafts, graphics and photography.

The concept of a many-faceted gallery, dedicated to exhibiting the work of active, vigorous, dedicated, and recognized artists and craftsmen is one that has led Mrs. Sherman to develop The Galleries into the form of a mini-museum shop adjacent to areas devoted to paintings and graphics. The Galleries are located in the lower level of the Lenards store at 1240 Boylston St., Route 9, Chestnut Hill.

The opening show, Abundance will feature prints by Newton printmaker Renee Collins.

PTA Work Night At Hyde School

The third annual Hyde School PTA Work Night was held on Tuesday evening, February 25. Approximately 70 parents and teachers worked together to brighten and improve the school.

During the two and one half hour work marathon a great deal of work was accomplished. An able group of carpenters produced 12 bookcases which were promptly prime painted by a paint crew.

Eight new bulletin boards and several pegboard panels were made. Other workers made and hung curtains, painted chairs, tables, bookcases, and pianos or worked on other projects requested by the teachers.

PTA Program Chairman Clark and Sylvia Sawin were in charge of the evening's work. They were aided in the advance planning by Phil Natale, PTA President, Dan Murrow, Paul di Cicco, Richard Cooper, and Bruce Pelton.

The PTA is grateful to the Carpenter-Moore Paint Co. of Everett for their help in obtaining the paint, to the Highland Hardware for the donation of paint brushes, and to Mr. Nicholas and Mr. Webb, school custodians.

Diet Workshop To Offer Slim Course To Men

The Diet Workshop has announced that they will begin Diet Seminars for men only on Monday, March 8th at 7:30 p.m. at 317 Washington St., Newton Corner.

This group will be one of the first of its kind as it will cater to men who are "problem dieters" who have frankly felt that trying to lose weight just wasn't possible for them.

The Research and Development Department of Diet Workshop has been utilizing this small, intensive group approach with women who have a history of dieting failures and the results have been most encouraging! Many of these women have lost weight so well that they even reached their "goal". The Diet Workshop has decided that the same type of group should help men too.

Meetings will be brief, diets will be flexible and above all, individual dieting problems will be helped by the mutual support of the group members.

The group instructor, Arlene Davis of Newton Highlands, will be happy to answer questions at 244-0208 (evenings) and she will take reservations as enrollment will be limited to 10 members. During the day calls will also be answered at 244-5847 (call this number any weekday afternoon for The Diet Workshop "Hot Line" - help for desperate dieters.)

wards, one from each of Newton's eight wards.

A second possible amendment to the city charter provides that the membership of the School Committee be increased from eight to ten members, with eight elected by ward only and the other two from the city at large.

Under the existing system, one School Committee member is elected from each of the city's eight wards but is voted upon by all the people of Newton who participate in the election.

A move is being backed by some citizens to confine the voting in each contest to the ward from which the School Committeeman is being elected.

How much support or opposition there is to that suggested revision in the makeup of the School Committee, which would change its members from city-wide to ward level officials, will be at least partly ascertained at the Aldermanic hearing on the night of March 29.

Physician's Wives Bring Health-Mobile To Newton

Several hospitals in the United States are dangerously close to closing their doors because they lack the trained personnel necessary to keep them in operation. Not just doctors and nurses, but pharmacists, public health workers, hospital, laboratory, research and office personnel are badly needed.

The physicians in Massachusetts realize this and they, together with their wives are trying to do something about it. Since many people are simply unaware of the many careers open to them in the allied health fields, the doctors decided to bring the information to the people.

Members of the Massachusetts Medical Auxiliary contacted the Avid Corporation of Rhode Island, asking them to construct a specially designed travel trailer complete with furniture. It is equipped to carry films, slides and printed materials on the many careers available in medicine. The Massachusetts Medical Society has complete-hope, however, that, for the sisters, anyway, teaching positions could be obtained at the other schools in their order named above.

The fundamental reason for closing of Sacred Heart was announced earlier in the week by the Rev. Msgr. William A. Granville, pastor of Sacred Heart, who declared: "We have committed ourselves to an eight-grade elementary school and very possibly a kindergarten for the next six years at least."

Father Corcoran told the Graphic: "The little high school today cannot exist; it's not sound education practice," and he cited the lack of labs and other facilities, as well as insufficient staffs inherent in the undersized high school.

"We have to think in terms of the entire parish," he asserted, adding that people will begin to see the benefits of such thinking in the near future.

At the city-wide forum sponsored by the Newton Citizens for Education, held last Friday night, Msgr. Granville made a similar point by noting the national trend away from small parish schools towards a cluster plan or interparochial services.

He stated that during the past four months, groups Newton's four parishes had been meeting regularly in an attempt to ascertain the feasibility of consolidation.

Accepted In Order Of The Golden Rule

J. S. Waterman & Sons, Inc., 495 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, has been notified of acceptance into the Order of the Golden Rule for the sixth straight year.

The Order is a world-wide association which screens funeral director-applicants on an impartial basis. Acceptance is contingent upon proof that the applicant meets high ethical and professional standards.

Membership is not automatically renewable, as a firm must undergo intensive re-investigation every year.

In announcing the J.S. Waterman firm's reacceptance, a spokesman for the Order said: "The Order was organized over 40 years ago with the highest of purposes. It was the goal of the founders to have funeral director-members throughout much of the world who provide the kind of service which merits public confidence."

Newton Doctors Promoted On Harvard Faculty

Two Newton residents are among the five members of the Faculty of Medicine at Harvard who have been promoted to Associate Professorships according to an announcement by Robert H. Ebert, M.D., D.Phil., Dean of Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Philip R. Steinmetz of Newton has been named Associate Professor of Medicine. Born in De Bilt, The Netherlands (June 10, 1927), he received the M.D. degree from the University of Leiden Medical School in 1951. He came to New York in 1960 as a Postdoctoral Research Fellow for the New York Heart Association, held a research fellowship from the U.S. Public Health Service (1961-63), and received the U.S. Public Health Service Career Development Award in 1964. Dr. Steinmetz serves as Assistant Physician at the Beth Israel Hospital.

Dr. John Shillito, Jr. of Chestnut Hill is named Associate Professor of Surgery at The Children's Hospital. Born in Cincinnati, Ohio (August 9, 1922), he was a member of the Class of 1945 at Harvard College although the A.B. degree was not officially conferred until 1947 following his two years of active duty in the United States Naval Reserve Corps during the Second World War. He received the M.D. degree from Harvard Medical School in 1952.

Dr. Shillito took internship and residency training in surgery at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, beginning an association interrupted only by a year (1957-58) as a neurosurgical resident at John Gaston Hospital, University of Tennessee Medical School. Dr. Shillito's association with The Children's Hospital parallels his service to the Brigham. He served as Acting Neurosurgeon-in-Chief for the past year at The Children's Hospital and has been Senior Associate in Surgery (Neurosurgery) at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital since 1968. He advanced along the academic ranks at Harvard Medical School, being named Assistant Clinical Professor of Surgery in 1968.

Dr. Shillito is associated with several area hospitals, among them the West Roxbury Veterans Administration Hospital where last July he was named Temporary Director of the Neurosurgical Service and to Pondville Hospital in Walpole, Mass. where he is Chief of Neurosurgery. He is also Consultant in Neurosurgery at the Boston Hospital for Women, the Robert B. Brigham Hospital and the Beverly Hospital.

Dr. Shillito lists membership in various medical societies, among them: the Congress of Neurological Surgeons (he served as President in 1968), the New England Neurosurgical Society, the American Association of Neurological Surgeons, the Harvey Cushing Society and the American Academy of Pediatrics. He is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a Diplomate of the American Board of Neurological Surgery.

Evening Classes For High School Students Announced

Al Hurwitz, Coordinator of Arts, Newton Public Schools, announce two new evening classes for high school students, to continue an experiment with special evening classes or unusual interest. The present class, Architecture: Community and Environment, will end with the session on March 10.

Artist and Studio will involve visits to the studios of 15 artists in Newton and the surrounding area, and will cover a wide spectrum of professionals earning their living in the Visual Arts, such as painters, sculptors, craftsmen, etc.

The environment for the production of art is unlike the school art rooms, and students who are seriously interested will have an opportunity to see how artists live, work, and operate. Obviously, such a course cannot be offered in a regular school schedule.

Since many artists' studios cannot accommodate large groups, the class will be limited to 12 students, referred or recommended by the art departments of the high schools. Instructors for this course are Robert Arruda and Seaver Leslie of the Newton South High School Staff.

The second course is based upon Sir Kenneth Clark's Civilization series and will meet at 8 p.m. at the Newton College of the Sacred Heart. An arrangement has been made with the College to use these films as the basis of a course in Humanities.

After viewing the films in the Barry Science Auditorium, the group will meet in a classroom in the same building to discuss the film and cast an eye on the topic for the following week. This class is planned and sponsored by both Social Seminar discussions will be led by John Hurwitz, Coordinator of Arts, and other high school teachers who volunteer to lead a discussion in their fields of interest. There will be 13 sessions based on the 13 films in the series.

Both new classes began yesterday, Wednesday, March 3.

Another Record Sale of Cookies By Girl Scouts

For the ninth straight year overwhelming public support of the cookie campaign conducted by Bay Path Colonial Girl Scout Council has ended with another record for sales. Mrs. George C. Langdon of Marlboro, chairman of the Cookie Sale Committee, reminds the public that homes in 33 communities this week will start to receive deliveries of boxes of cookies.

"This year we stressed that Girl Scouts are pledged to support ACTION 70, a nationwide effort by troops to become more aware of prejudices and to take on action programs involving communities. To expand their programs more funds were needed from the sale of cookies," she said.

A total of 22,909 cases of cookies was sold. Of this, 21 troops sold 17,304 boxes of the five varieties in Newton. "With this income the Council will be able to bring good Girl Scouting to more girls; we'll be able to train more mothers as leaders, and we'll be able to expand our campership and Senior opportunities programs. On the troop level, the five cents each troop receives from each box will enable them to get really involved with service projects, and both will offer high school students one credit for attendance or two credits if a paper or project is presented. ARTIST AND STUDIO has a limited enrollment. Any interested student or community member may audit CIVILIZATION. Anyone interested may call 969-9810, ext. 297.

"Residents of the Newton Corner area have expressed fears that crime in the area will increase if the drug center is located there, Tennant said.

"It is important to give the people in the community an opportunity to express themselves," Alderman Louis I. Egelson agreed.

Alderman William Wolf reminded the board that the zoning ordinance would have to be secured by the drug center for use of St. John's Church. He noted that there may be neighborhood opposition to that location.

Newton's share of $30,000 would be added to a promised grant of $15,000 from the State Dept. of Public Health and the total of $15,000 from Weston and Wellesley to make up the $60,000 budget for the year for operation of the center, Finance Committee Chairman Edward C. Uehlein said.

A Tax On Thrift

Nobody favors the enactment of new or higher taxes. Governor Sargent and members of the State Legislature admittedly face a difficult task in producing a tax program which will enable the Commonwealth to pay all its bills and at the same time provide some financial assistance for the hard pressed cities and towns across Massachusetts.

But one proposal contained in the tax package submitted to the Legislature by the Governor seems especially objectionable. It would impose an 8 1/2 per cent state tax on the interest or dividends realized from deposits in savings or cooperative banks or other thrift institutions.

Such dividends now are subject to federal income taxes but have been exempt from taxation by the State. If this bill is enacted into law, it would place a tax on thrift. It would penalize persons attempting to put aside a portion of their earnings for the time of their retirement, to finance a college education for a son or daughter, to make a down payment on a home or possibly to pay for major improvements to a home already owned.

Those are actions which must be encouraged, not discouraged. They comprise actions which must be encouraged, not discouraged. They comprise the very foundation of our American way of life.

The money which would be raised by this suggested tax on thrift should be obtained by some less objectionable manner. The bill to impose a high 8 1/2 per cent state tax on the interest from savings accounts should be rejected.

Timeless Basics

Modern educators place considerable store in reading ability as a yardstick for measuring the quality of education, particularly at secondary and elementary levels. They express dismay at the reading capacity of many high-schoolers, deplore school systems which fail to develop reading talents and warn of bad days ahead for those tolerating such a shortcoming.

Now comes a top mathematician on the university level, Dr. Lola J. May of Northwestern University. Dr. May says too many children cannot add or subtract. "We have always felt," says Dr. May, "that by the end of second grade, a child should have mastered his number facts — that is, he should be able to add and subtract all combinations of digits up to 20. But understanding the concept and being able to do the job aren't the same."

Dr. May, at the risk of appearing old-fashioned expresses the belief that nothing replaces "the good old drill for learning numbers." She would adapt in these modern days the old drills to something the little red schoolhouse couldn't count on in its educational aids — audio-visual equipment.

The science of education has travelled a long way from the days when a box of chalk, a blackboard surface, and maybe a pointer backed up by pencil and paper were about the only materials needed to put a schoolhouse in operation.

New methods, ingenious use of gifts of science and even imaginative employment of psychology have undoubtedly added to progress.

Yet, some of the old basics by which other generations mastered the three "R's" are by no means ready for discard.

That Season's Here

The old Romans built roads the English say are still in use. Adolf Hitler constructed a big network of autobahns under the noses of his curious but unsuspecting neighbors. He used it to launch his mechanized blitzkrieg, history's most amazing big-time military operation.

Yet, if mileage, complexity of inter-changes and sheer engineering feats are considered, Uncle Sam must be rated the biggest road-builder of them all.

He's not the best. Pothole time is here.

The season will be with us until late spring, probably early summer. It's a costly time of the year. It would be impossible to measure in dollars, the damage it will inflict on anything moving on wheels from behemoth new freight trucks to ancient passenger cars trying to squeeze a little more use into their declining lives. Life and limb will be endangered. Human nervous systems will be subjected to inhuman tests.

John Lindsay, New York's busy Mayor, didn't believe stories he was told of the late-February pothole crop in his Borough of Queens. He sort of gave formal recognition to the 1971 season by going out to see them himself.

Each pothole season seems to out-do the preceding one in volume, width, depth and capacity for deception in trapping the unwary.

For years laboratories have been searching for something more satisfactory than macadam and its allied products. Out on the West Coast experiments in ground glass didn't get far. They proved too expensive.

Here in stoic New England where the biggest pothole crops appear to be raised each year, folks more or less are beginning to accept them as just another unwelcome but inevitable winter by-product. However, should hope be abandoned?

Maybe the time has come to start searching history for Rome's secret of good road-building.

St. Sebastian's To Remain Open

Editor

Newton Graphic

In recent weeks statements concerning the possible closing of Catholic schools have been made by amateur and professional educators alike and have been printed in many local newspapers. These statements have misled many parents who want a Catholic education for their children.

We would like it to be recognized that St. Sebastian's has no intention of closing and has a long-range plan for improvement. We are perhaps unique since we are a Catholic school with a sound financial base and enjoy the consistent cooperation of parents and students.

For the benefit of your readers who are interested in our school, we would appreciate it if you would print the following announcement of the next St. Sebastian's entrance examination date.

An entrance examination will be given on Saturday, March 13, 1971 at 9:30 a.m. at St. Sebastian's Country Day School, 78 Hood St., Newton, Mass.

Candidates that are interested should write or call St. Sebastian's to register for this examination and to receive the brochure and application.

It's Sarge's Move

Editor of The Graphic:

The soaring costs of welfare which are reflected in rising state taxes call for immediate attention and remedy.

To me, the answer is very simple.

The Governor, who signed the statute making Massachusetts one of the most liberal states in welfare benefits, must now lead the drive to abrogate the law.

It has to be changed in order to relieve the taxpayers of added taxes. What those changes in the law should be is a matter for his administration to decide.

They created the present situation and they must now find the answers to it.

The taxpayers of Massachusetts await his action.

Answers Column

Editor

Newton Graphic

Your Editorial column of February 18 made several references to the ADA, specifically our opposition to state aid to parochial schools and our support of a graduated income tax. Perhaps the following explains our position on several major issues:

ADA's program for the 70's:

1) End American involvement in the war in Indochina and the reordering of priorities towards solving domestic problems — hunger, housing shortage, unemployment, etc.

2) Federal takeover of welfare costs.

3) With the cost of welfare assumed by the Federal government, state takeover of the costs of public school education. ADA opposes trying to support both public and non-public schools with state and local tax money.

Immediate financial support should be given to cities and towns to aid them with the expenses of additional students flowing into their public school as a result of the closing of non-public institutions.

This aid should include funds to buy or lease and alter the non-public school buildings for conversion to use as public schools. Several bills to these ends are currently before the state legislature.

ADA opposes state aid to non-public schools as counter to the principle of the separation of church and state (no matter how the funds are compartmentalized, the effect of such aid is financial aid to non-public schools). Such aid is also economically unsound in the long run and would lead to the death of the public school system.

All available funds for education should go to the public schools.

4) State tax reform — ADA supports greater dependence on the fairer and more productive income tax (especially the graduated tax) in order to hold the line on the property tax. Changes in the sales tax should be in taxing services and luxuries, not in raising the per cent or in taxing food or non-luxury clothing.

A graduated income tax is the best way to fund public education without increasing the already burdensome property tax.

ADA welcomes like-minded people into the organization to further these and other goals.

More Language Study

Editor of The Graphic:

It is almost unfortunate coincidence that many of the administrators of the Newton Public Schools have had unpleasant associations with the learning of a foreign language.

It is indeed most deplorable that they are being allowed to let this past experience blind them to the realities of an international world and prescribe for the children of Newton a foreign language program ill-befitting a community of recognized intellectual, social, and material potential.

For the past few years teachers of the foreign language department have tried to make the administration aware of the urgency of the times and of the need for more language study. They are willing to teach at several schools to keep the cost at a minimum. They are eager to send out questionnaires to find out which languages a community favors so as to cooperate with that community and pool its resources.

Neither oral nor written statements have had any effect. Within the next three years the language program in the Newton Public Schools will be scaled down to two languages: a six-year French sequence and a six-year Spanish sequence.

As any language graph will indicate the world languages are Chinese, English, Russian, Hindi, Spanish and German. How are we preparing our young people for the future?

The learning of a language is a simple matter. Were this not so, very ordinary people in the market places of the world could not converse in two or three languages. There is no reason why Russian, Spanish and German should not be taught in most of the junior high schools. There are at present in the Newton Public Schools teachers who could teach these languages.

This number could be increased in the future by employing only those language candidates who are fluent in two or more languages.

No nation has a monopoly on linguists. Newton has its fair share. I have some in my classes. I am distressed when I think of the language program that is to be offered to their young brothers and sisters.

At this stage I begin to question the role of the coordinator. If the principal of a school has complete autonomy and a subject remains in the curriculum or is removed according to his wishes, what is the role of the coordinator? To suggest? But don't the teachers do that?

Perhaps the coordinators should be in the classroom teaching and made aware of the students' potential and of the manner they are being victimized so that a most undemocratic system may prevail.

Other Controls Needed

Editor of The Graphic:

In my opinion Mayor Basbas should put those departments under his immediate control in order before pointing the finger at the School Committee which does need an example to follow. The Public Works Department is certainly not a mode of efficiency? For example, I ask these questions: Why are sidewalks plowed two days after the snow on an overtime basis?

Why are rubbish collections frequently made the day after the scheduled day?

How many hours of actual work does the city receive from its PWD employees?

Efficiency should start in those departments that the Mayor controls. I expect him to give the taxpayers a dollar's worth of services for each tax dollar.

I would hope that the School Committee would be responsive to the questioning by interested citizens and taxpayers instead of hiding behind dark glasses, reputation and flowery oratory.

The questions which I have not heard answered are: Are our teachers being paid in relation to teachers in neighboring communities and not in relation to plumbers, masons etc.?

Is our teaching staff to non-teaching staff in proper proportion as compared to other school systems? Is the School Department's purchasing coordinated with the City's purchasing so that there is saving for all?

The City can gain more if those who are given constructive criticism will listen instead of answering with the usual rhetoric and thus perpetuate the problem instead of solving it.

Sincerely,
Fred Saltzberg

Wendy Neustadt of Newton, a freshman at Grinnell College in Grinnell, Iowa, was a member of the cast for the College Theatre presentation of T.S. Eliot's "The Cocktail Party" last weekend.

Candace Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Block, 63 Warren st., Newton Centre, was on the Dean's honor list for the first semester at Westbrook College where she is enrolled as a senior.

Cynthia A. Mackay of 465 Centre St., Newton was named to the dean's list at Skidmore College for the fall semester. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vyvan P. Mackay, she is a junior at Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs, New York.

So it came as no shock to learn that former Representative David E. Harrison of Gloucester, who in May will shed his mantle as Democratic State Chairman, has never been paid any salary for his work as head of the Democratic State Committee over a two-year period.

Harrison, on the basis of all the evidence available, ran the official Democratic State organization in about as austere a manner as was possible.

For instance, the Democratic State Convention held at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst last June cost $3000 as compared to the $18,000 spent to stage the 1966 Democratic conclave at the Prudential Center in the Back Bay.

Despite that frugality, Harrison was unable to get enough money to pay the $500-a-month rent for the committee's five-room quarters and the telephone bills.

So Harrison is planning to move the committee into more modest accommodations before he makes his exit as chairman.

The Democratic State Committee owes about $45,000 in bills, not counting the salary Harrison is unlikely ever to collect.

Harrison is hoping that enough money will be realized from a fund-raising event to be held by Ted Kennedy in May to enable him to pay off most of the committee's debts.

Then he intends to make a fast getaway out the nearest door after what he must consider a rather unrewarding experience.

Why anyone would accept the chairmanship of either the Democratic or Republican State Committee is something of a mystery to this bystander. But there always is somebody, attracted to the post by one factor or another.

Representative John R. Buckley of Abington is considered the leading candidate for the committee chairmanship although there are other contenders for the position.

Buckley's father, the late Thomas H. Buckley, was a prominent Democratic figure for a quarter of a century span in the 1930s, 40s and early 50s.

He served as State Auditor, was deputy Governor under the late Maurice J. Tobin, was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1956, could have had second place on the Democratic State ticket that year but turned it down.

Frederic C. (Buck) Dumaine, former chairman of the Republican State Committee, had his own enthusiastic system for running that organization.

When it encountered financial troubles, Buck, who didn't get paid either, dug down into his own pocket and loaned the committee $125,000. A millionaire industrial tycoon, he could do little things like that. Even so, he got few cheers from party bigwigs for his efforts.

The problem is that people are not as disposed to make a contribution to a political committee as they are to an individual candidate.

Back in the years, when Sinclair Weeks was the big power in the Massachusetts Republican Party, the GOP State Committee was the top money-raising organization and distributed funds to the candidates for various offices, including the man running for Governor.

In modern times, however, as the Republican party lost its control of the state government, the individual office-seekers assumed the task of financing their own campaigns.

William Baird Needs Lesson

On Manners and Good Taste

Birth control advocate William Baird has reached the point where he is now considered an ill-mannered nuisance by many persons.

Mr. Baird, of course, has every right to urge change in the law which would legalize abortions and allow certain sexual deviations to which William and his adherents see no objection.

However, his methods in pressing his cases reflects both his poor taste and ill manners.

Mr. Baird has made no impression upon most members of the State Legislature except possibly for a few such as former Representative Michael Dukakis of Brookline, last year's Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor, who filed Mr. Baird's bills to legalize birth control, sodomy and homosexuality.

The average law-maker, when asked about Mr. Baird, expresses the strong desire that he get lost and not be found.

A political columnist would second those sentiments when Mr. Baird has the poor taste to picket a meeting attended by gentle Archbishop Humberto Medeiros because the clergyman speaks out against abortion.

It would seem that Mr. Baird might well take a course or two in manners before he makes any further efforts to revise the laws in Massachusetts.

The behavior of some of his cohorts who swarmed onto Beacon Hill to support his bills also left as much to be desired as does his own.

House Members May Balk At

Passing Sargent's Tax Bill

Members of the Massachusetts House of Representatives quite obviously did not place themselves in a better voting frame of mind by killing a proposal to increase their pay $1200 annually ($600 this year and another $600 next).

Word from House Speaker David M. Bartley and other Democratic legislative leaders is that Governor Francis W. Sargent's tax program along with his plan for appointing a new cabinet to head various branches of the state government may be in trouble.

Stripping aside all the flowery rhetoric and the high-sounding explanations, the main reason the lawmakers turned down their own raise probably was that they were apprehensive as to what the reaction might be among the thousands of persons who have lost their jobs because of the economic recession and the loss of federal contracts.

Whatever their precise motives, their refusal to give themselves even a modest raise did place the legislators in a position where they can be more independent toward the Governor's tax program. (It's somewhat awkward to balk at boosting taxes after you have hiked your own salary.)

However, it is a bit difficult for this onlooker to understand how the Legislature, with any degree of consistency whatever, could now pigeon-hole the plan for installing the cabinet-style state government on Beacon Hill.

The last Legislature enacted a law approving the reorganization of the state government and the creation of a Governor's cabinet. This Legislature was supposed to provide about $3 Million so the plan could be carried out and the cabinet created. Now the lawmakers reportedly are becoming balky at appropriating the money.

What Governor Sargent will or can do if the Legislature refuses to give him the money to implement the reorganization plan is not clear to this observer. It does seem the law-makers have a commitment to provide the funds.

Lieutenant Governor Donald Dwight, in fact, is presently recruiting the public officials who will make up the Sargent cabinet, first of its kind in Massachusetts.

Mr. Sargent, incidentally, may take a do-what-you-please-attitude toward the Legislature concerning his tax program.

A portion of the money he is seeking to raise through his $300 Million tax plan would be distributed to the cities and towns of the Commonwealth.

The Governor in all likelihood will sit back and allow the local officials to make the fight at the State House for adoption of his tax bill.

Recent tests of sentiment have shown that a substantial majority of the people of Massachusetts are opposed to the idea of paying any more taxes. That is not surprising. Some poll some day may show that the people desire new taxes, but we doubt it.

Some of the suggested new taxes the Governor is seeking are nuisance taxes. The proposal for a three per cent sales tax on the price of a haircut and the cost of parking an automobile is drawing irritable opposition, as is to be expected.

Little objection will be raised to the proposed 4-cent-a-package increase in the tax on cigarettes. The cigarette-purchaser already is contributing handsomely to the cost of government in the process of smoking himself to death and will be requested to do more.

The proposal for an additional 1-cent per gallon tax on gasoline also is likely to survive, as is the suggested small increase in the state income tax. But the possibility that the tax package will be approved as submitted is slim.

For the present, however, it is unlikely Governor Sargent will push any panic buttons because of the fear that his tax program will be torpedoed or his reorganization plan scuttled.

Ted Rated Next To Muskie In Dem. Presidential Race

On the basis of all the tests and checks of public sentiment which have been made, Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine is the front-runner in the race for the Democratic nomination for President.

Senator George McGovern of South Dakota intends to challenge Muskie in all the states which have popular presidential primaries, including Massachusetts.

However, the odds are against McGovern, and he is likely to get off to a poor start since Muskie almost certainly will defeat him in neighboring New Hampshire, where the nation's first Presidential primary of 1972 will be held.

McGovern says that Senator Edward M. Kennedy told him he will make a good showing in Massachusetts. Some political observers suspect that Ted was just being kind since they doubt that McGovern will make a strong run in the Bay State even though he is a leading advocate against the war in Vietnam.

Ted Kennedy would be the big winner in Massachusetts, but he presumably will notify Secretary of State John F. X. Davoren that he is not a candidate for President and does not desire his name printed on the Bay State ballot.

Notwithstanding Ted's insistence that he will not stand for the Presidency next year, political columnists and commentators are convinced he is the man to whom the Democratic party will turn to if Muskie should falter in his bid for the Presidential nomination.

They cannot see any potent Democratic contenders for the Presidency except for Muskie and Ted Kennedy.

Senator McGovern does not seem to possess any great appeal as a Presidential candidate.

Former Vice President and now freshman Senator Hubert H. Humphrey would like a return match with President Nixon. But Humphrey does not intend to enter any of the popular Presidential Primaries, and most Democratic leaders do not appear disposed to give him a second chance unless he demonstrates vote-pulling ability which he can hardly do without running.

They also are disposed to dismiss favorite sons Bayh, Hughes and Jackson who probably have little support outside their home states and may be seeking to maneuver themselves into positions where they might attract consideration as possible Vice Presidential choices.

The consensus of opinion in Washington today is that Senator Edmund Muskie is the No. 1 prospect for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1972 and that non-candidate Senator Ted Kennedy is No. 2.

At 85 Justice Black Should Retire From Supreme Court

The news services in their despatches carried a story from Washington the other day reporting that U.S. Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black was celebrating his 85th birthday and quoting him as declaring he did not intend to retire.

From this column's viewpoint it would have been more reassuring if Justice Black had declared that he felt at the age of 85 the time had come for him to take off his somber black robe and retire to the quiet of private life.

This writer belongs to the school of thought which believes that some men are forced to retire too early and are obliged to step down from their jobs when their talents and abilities are at their peak.

An officer of a bank or insurance company must retire at 65. But a member of the United States Supreme Court can continue on the job at the age of 85. It does not make much sense.

The fact that Oliver Wendell Holmes had passed his 90th birthday and was nearing his 91st when he retired from the Supreme Court or that Roger Brooke Taney was still serving as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court when he died at the age of 87, does not mean it was right for either man to remain on the nation's highest court until that age.

Justice Black has made a distinguished record as a member of the Supreme Court during the 33 years since he was appointed to the nation's highest tribunal by Franklin D. Roosevelt. But it does seem the time has come for him to retire with honor and dignity and turn over his duties and responsibilities to a younger man.

However, a motion by him to have each station remain open 9 p.m. to 7 a.m. one day every other month and from 6 p.m. until 7 a.m. one Sunday a month failed for lack of seconding.

In addition, an amendment offered by Alderman Matthew Jefferson to have at least one station along Route 16 or Washington St. remain open until midnight on a rotating basis also failed passage.

Alderman Andrew Magni expressed fears that the Board's Franchise and Licenses will now be burdened by petitions from station owners for extension of the hours.

However, Alderman David Jackson declared that in his conversations with station owners it was apparent that they wanted the hours regulated.

Alderman Peter Harrington noted that 45 station owners out of 63 solicited responded to a survey. Only three expressed objections to the ordinance and when it was pointed out to them that they could petition for extension of the hours, they withdrew their opposition, he said.

In presenting his committee's recommendation for passage of the ordinance, Legislation and Rules Committee Chairman Elliot K. Cohen said that since 1960 nationwide crime is up 170 per cent but crime in gas stations has increased in that same period 240 per cent.

Name Change
Iran for many centuries was known as Persia.

John A. Volpe no longer is thrilled with his role as Secretary of Transportation in President Nixon's Cabinet.

He asserts that Mr. Volpe looks back with some nostalgia to his service as Governor of Massachusetts for a total of six years and might possibly be persuaded to return to Massachusetts or Boston and run again for public office.

Then he points out that Mr. Volpe moved from Winchester into downtown Boston during his final term as Governor and was a Boston resident when he resigned as Governor to become Secretary of Transportation.

This writer, in truth, never really did understand John Volpe's action in resigning from the Governorship at the start of 1969 to become Secretary of Transportation.

It seemed that he was giving up the highest office within the gift of the people of Massachusetts to take a less important position.

But it was assumed that the cares and responsibilities of the Governor were beginning to wear heavily on Mr. Volpe.

Whether that was the explanation or not, we now find it difficult to visualize Mr. Volpe returning to seek election as Mayor of Boston although it does make interesting speculation.

Escorted by parents, the bride wore an empire gown fashioned of ivory satin styled with a rolled collar, bishop sleeves and a satin train attached at the waistline. Gold crystals and pearl beading vested the bodice and trimmed the sleeves.

Her matching beaded satin Camelot cap held in place a lace and illusion mantilla. She carried her Bible with a cascade arrangement of white hybrid orchids accented with gold leaves and Stephanotis.

Miss Debra Wise of Brookline was maid of honor. Mrs. Arthur Goodman of London, England, sister-in-law of the groom, joined three cousins of the bride, Mrs. Richard Perlman of Trenton, N.J., Miss Irene Soloway of Jamaica, Long Island, and Miss Judy Lowenstein of Trenton, N.J., as bridesmaids.

Master Daniel Goodman and Master Simon Goodman, both of London, England, nephews of the groom, were ring bearers.

The best man was Arthur Goodman of London, England, brother of the groom. Ushering were Howard Stotland of Montreal, Canada, Edward Mandell of Brookline, cousin of the groom, Jeffrey Freedman of Waban, another cousin of the groom, and Laurence Gould of Bordentown, N.J., cousin of the bride.

Following a honeymoon in Acapulco and Mexico City, Mr. and Mrs. Goodman will live in Waltham.

Art Exhibition At 2nd Church All Next Week

A selection of the art work of Herbert Seidel, a East German artist, will be on exhibit in the Parish House of The Second Church in Newton, 60 Highland st., West Newton, from Sunday (March 7) through Sunday (March 14). The United Parish of Newton invites the public to attend this exhibit which will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Herbert Seidel was born and has lived most of his life in Berlin. He started out as a skilled worker in the aircraft industry, studying art on the side, but it was as a prisoner of war in France that he became a committed Christian and artist.

From 1948 to 1958 he restricted himself to the austere medium of the black-and-white woodcut, feeling that it lends itself readily to the Biblical portrayal of reality. Today he also works in color, using chiefly oils and water colors. His works have been exhibited in East Germany, in the Inter-Church in New York City, and has appeared in numerous Western publications.

Miss Wolper, Mr. Stafford Plan to Marry

Miss Linda Shuman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Harold Shuman of Chestnut Hill and William Barry Blumsack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Blumsack of Winthrop, exchanged vows recently at the Spring Valley Country Club in Sharon.

Rabbi Eliot Somers and Cantor Simon Kandler of Temple Emeth, South Brookline, officiated at the 6:30 o'clock candlelight service. A reception followed at the club.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride's gown was fashioned of ice white French silk satin. Jeweled Chantilly lace was richly embroidered on her wedding band neckline, scalloped cap sleeves, A-line skirt and chapel length train.

A matching lace and jeweled petal cap was fastened with her bouffant shoulder length butterfly illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of white Persian lilies, lilies of the valley and glacial ivy.

Mrs. Irwin Lacritz of Bangor, Me., was her cousin's matron of honor. She wore a gown of coral and silver re-embroidered French lace designed with a full skirt and long sleeves of matching coral chiffon.

Miss Carol Glassam of Newton Center was honor maid. Her apricot and pink floral print pant dress had bishop sleeves, a high ruffled collar and an empire waist band of apricot velvet ribbon. They both carried a French bow-knot of delicate spring hyacinths and open tulips.

Dressed like the maid of honor, the bridesmaids were Miss Shelley Aronson of Newton Centre, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Stephen Goldman of Burlington, Mrs. Russell Klein of Waltham and Mrs. Henry Talberth of Watertown.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Shirley Platt of 7 Larkspur road, Waban, and the late Mr. Herbert J. Platt. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Cohen of Plainville, Ohio, are the groom's parents.

Rabbi Phillip Kieval officiated at the 12 o'clock noon service. A reception followed at the temple.

Given away by her brother, Mr. Russell Lee Platt of Waban, the bride wore an ivory satin gown. Jeweled lace marked the fitted bodice, high neckline, long sleeves and hemline.

Her illusion mantilla was edged with similar lace and she carried ivory colored roses with carnations.

Identically costumed, but in wine colored velvet, the bridesmaids were Miss Susan Wolf of Newton, Miss Judith Lazar of Needham and Miss Jodie Cohen of Plainville, Ohio, sister of the groom.

Waban Club Family Party This Sunday

The annual Family Party of the Waban Neighborhood Club will be held this year Sunday (March 7) beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the clubhouse on Beacon Street.

Things will get off to a good start with a "Hamburgers as you like them Supper" with all the trimmings, baked beans, molded salads, and old fashioned ice cream sundaes with various toppings.

Six o'clock will bring Mini Movies for the kids under the supervision of a junior committee. The magical moment will come at 6:30 p.m. when Herbert and David Downs, a father and son team of magicians, promise to keep everyone spellbound for an hour.

Herbert B. Downs of Needham deals in both facts and flum dust. He also teaches graphic arts and mechanical drawing at Weeks Junior High School in Newton and is said to have at least 250 tricks up his sleeve.

He admits that there are tricks to all trades, but his is a trade of all tricks. His son David of Wellesley Hills, a magician in his own right has added music to his magic and will delight the audience by playing his guitar and leading in group singing.

Prices are kept an anti-inflationary low, so families with children are able to attend.

Man's Nature To Be Topic

Man's true nature will be explored at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon on "Man" include this verse from the first chapter of Genesis: "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."

A citation to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states:

"Jesus taught but one God, one Spirit, who makes man in the image and likeness of Himself, — of Spirit, not of matter. Man reflects infinite Truth, Life, and Love. The nature of man, thus understood, includes all that is implied by the terms 'image' and 'likeness' as used in Scripture."

An invitation is extended to all by First Church of Christ, Scientist to attend services at 391 Walnut street, Newtonville, beginning at 10:45 a.m.

Newton High's Gymnasts Win Big Over South

Albi Shapiro was the only Newton South winner, in the side horse, as the Newton High gymnastics team pulverized their cross-town rivals, 90.25 to 69.10, last week in the last match of the season for both teams.

Mike Slinger, third in the floor exercise, Doug Lane and Leon Tighe, 2-3 in the high bars and Bob Milgroom, third in the rings were the only other point scorers for South.

The Lions were severely hampered by the fact that Captain Andy Cohen, the team's star and a consistent winner and placer in about four events per match did not compete.

Lagging Lions Wrap Up Foes In Final League Hoop Games

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Newton South's hockey team was only 5-4 in the Dual County League this winter, good for fifth place, but they completely rearranged the standings above them in the last two weeks of the season.

First the Lions up-ended Wayland to halt the Warriors 34-game unbeaten skein and send them plummeting to a second loss immediately afterwards. As that week ended Bedford found itself on top of the heap.

Last week South faced Bedford in the last game of the year. The Buccaneers led 2-0 in a very physical game, after two periods.

There, the defense, which has been the Lions' forte all season, stiffened against the repeated onslaught of the enemy, and blanked Bedford for the remainder of the contest. But the South offense, dormant, most of the game, and indeed, most of the season also came to life. Wing Steve McElroy shocked all-league netminder at 43 seconds of the final stanza and the momentum swung.

At 7:27, borrowing a page from Derek Sanderson's book, intercepted a pass at center ice and tore down unprotected left side unopposed on Redmond. He put the move on and beat Redmond cleanly with a backhand for an unassisted score.
A stunned Bedford team fought back, but South goaltender Paul Modern was superb, turning aside 30 shots. As against Wayland when he collected 37 saves Modern was the backbone of the defense.

Defenseman Clem Virgilio was the only Lion all-star, picked on the second Dual County team after an honorable mention nomination last year. Modern, who was second-team in 1970 was only honorable mention this year.

Defenseman Stan Mescon also earned honorable mention accolades.

Headlights and Highlights From Newton South High

By JANICE E. KAPLAN

Many new and creative additions have been added to the 1971-72 Newton South syllabus. As students begin to register for next year's courses, they may notice that each department has reviewed its curriculum and added innovations. Most have been added to give students a broader choice of subject material, and a chance to explore many diverse areas.

The English department is rearranging the course structure of junior and senior curriculum one and two classes. The new English curriculum will allow students to select their courses each semester, choosing teacher and theme of the elective.

A similar system currently exists for fourth and fifth year French classes. Next year, it will be expanded for broader study in French literature, civilization, culture and history. The program proved unsuccessful in the beginning as curriculum one and two were mixed. However, the program is in the process of being re-evaluated and changed.

In an effort to give students the opportunity to pursue interesting topics without great pressure, the Science department has presented the option of taking certain courses on a Pass-Fail basis. Certain classes in biology, chemistry, physics, and physical science are being offered on this basis.

The Social Studies department, too, has changed. A new course conducted in Spanish will be "Contemporary Society in Latin America", dealing with all area South of the United States. Current problems in Latin America and their great relevance to today's world will be expounded.

A United States History course dealing with the Twentieth Century has also been added. To the disappointment of many, Honors U.S. History does not appear in this year's syllabus.

Many are breathing sighs of relief at the changed gym curriculum. Boys will have a choice of team or individual sports - or a combination of the two. Girls will be given the chance each semester to select the sport and level in which they wish to participate. For example, this spring semester offers such activities as jogging, badminton, tennis (all levels) and lacrosse.

Hoopsters Of South High In 2-14 Record

The Newton South High hoopsters were bombed by Wayland, 74-58 and toppled by Bedford twice, 44-40 and 81-57, last week to end their season with six straight losses and a 2-14 record.

South trailed by only three points, 31-28, at the half to the Warriors, but were outscored 20-10 in the third period. Frank Griffin, who tallied 18 points for the winners, notched six markers over the decisive stretch to lead the way. The Lions were paced by guard Dana Gorton, 12 points, and forward Bob Levine, 10 points.

Bedford's All-Dual County star Joe Dooley was the key factor in both victories over the Lions. In the first contest Dooley scored two free throws to put the Buccaneers on top for the first time in the game late in the third quarter after South had taken a 28-22 half-time lead. He notched 11 in all. Gorton was high man for South again with a dozen points and guard Doug Noble chipped in with 10 points. Newton South scored only four points in the last quarter.

Dooley was the big man in a different way in the next game. He hit with authority all night long and wound up with a big 23-point effort. South hit better, too, but not good enough. John Staulo, a sophomore forward, was on fire in the first half and was instrumental in leading the Lions to a 21-13 first quarter lead. He finished with 18 points. Gorton had his third straight double-figure game with 11 points and Eric Lane contributed 10 markers.

YMCA to Start Spring Series Of Swim Lessons

The Newton Y.M.C.A. will begin its spring series of Tiny-Tot and Polliwog swim lessons the week of April 5. The Tiny-Tot lessons for children 3-5 years will be held on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, between 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. The Polliwog lessons for children ages 6-7 years will be held on Thursday from 2:45 p.m. to 3:15 p.m. and also on Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

In both of these groupings the classes meet once a week for one-half hour, extending over a ten-week period. The children are taught to swim and develop general watermanship. Old skills are improved as well.

All classes are taught by certified aquatic personnel. A teacher-student ratio of about 1 to 5 is maintained.

A general registration will be held next Monday, March 8 at 9 a.m. on a first-come basis. For further information call the Newton Y.M.C.A. at 244-6050 and ask for Physical Education Department.

The editors-in-chief of the 1971-72 DENEbola have been selected. Janice Kaplan and David Schlakman were chosen to lead next year's DENEbola.

A panel consisting of this year's editors and faculty advisor chose them to follow current editor-in-chief, David Freeman. Applications for other editorial and staff positions are currently being reviewed and other editors will be announced shortly. The new editors are looking for people with fresh ideas who are willing to devote much time and energy to the production of the Newton South newspaper.

Tigers Take 1st Tech Tourney Win By 62-46

By POB WORDEN

Suburban League Champions Newton High School supplied with a stellar 23 rebound performance by 6-3 center Jeff Dunn conquered their first opposition in the Tech Tourney, walking by Bishop Stang 62-46.

Newton completely dominated the boards pulling down 53 rebounds to Stang's 26. Chuck Pendergast and Bob Loughlin paced the scoring parade firing in 15 points apiece.

Pendergast was faced with perhaps the biggest challenge, he confronted high scoring guard Gerry Kavanaugh. Gerry averaged 27 points a game this season, but Pendergast put a K C Jones on him, shutting him off to a mere eight points.

The big difference in the game was at the free throw line. Newton sank 20 charity tosses in 42 attempts while Stang only hit on 4 of 12. Bishop Stang put a scare in the Tigers, rushing out of the starting gate with a slim 15-15 first stanza count. But, those red hot shooters went cold and Newton took command at the half, leading 29-22.

Tomorrow will be the real test for Newton. They face top seeded Somerville, who carded a 17-1 slate in the Greater Boston League, tap off time is 5:00 p.m. in the Garden.

It looks like Brockton is back in the groove again. They rolled over Archbishop Williams in the late game.

Newton coach Jerry Phillips used his bench a little more than usual as the huge Garden floor tired out his players very fast. The large floor has been known to throw off a player's shooting which might have bearing on Stang's cold 21-70 shooting totals.

South Matmen Take Second Spot In Eastern Matches

Co-captains Steve Etkin and Bill Hurwitz captured individual titles and Newton South High wracked up 105 points, but could not match the individual power of two-time defender Wayland High and had to settle for second place in the Eastern Sectional wrestling championships, last week at Brookline High.

Hurwitz, 115 pounds, finished his dual match season unbeaten with a 12-0-2 record and was winning a sectional crown for the first time. Last year he was third. Etkin, who has lost only two matches in his high school career was 15-1 this winter and copped a sectional title for the third straight year.

Wayland, undefeated in 45 straight matches handed South its only loss this season and was again untouchable in the sectionals with six champions and five other award winners.

South had nine more placers for a total of eleven, nine of whom qualified for the state meet. The top four placers in each category from each section advance to the states.

Paul Arduino, 101, and Larry Feldman, 158, grappled their way to seconds. Mike Forman, 107, Richard Hill, 128, John Frieze, 157, and Aremam Kojanian, 188, all scored third-place finishes, while Dave Smith, 121, was fourth, Bob Staulo, unlimited, fifth and Jerry Berkowitz, 140, was sixth.

Arduino, Feldman and Staulo also won places last year.

Newton South claimed second in their section for the third successive year. In 1968 the Lions were victorious.

Day Care Center Starts Scholarship Fund Drive

Mayor Monte G. Basbas visited the Newton Day Care Center recently to help launch the Center's Scholarship Fund drive.

The Day Care Center is operated by the Newton Community Service Centers, Inc. and located in modern spacious quarters at the United Presbyterian Church at Park and Vernin Streets in Newton Corner.

Several Newton agencies under the leadership of the Newton Community Service Centers worked together for almost two years to make the Day Care Center a reality. It has been in operation since last summer.

The Center is open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. five days a week all year. Hours may be arranged to meet family needs. Children from 2 years and 9 months up to 6 years of age are eligible. The Center provides an enriched childhood experience. While stressing nursery education, the combined efforts of an educational, social service, public health, and nutritional staff aid in the development of the whole child.

Currently 48 children are enrolled in the program representing a diverse and stimulating cross section of educational, economic, social, ethnic and cultural backgrounds. The staff of a director, headteacher, teachers, teacher's aides, student teachers and volunteers is an equally interesting composite of society.

Many of them have professional qualifications beyond state requirements. The Center itself is licensed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Why a Day Care Center in Newton? There are many answers. It enables mothers to work to supplement inadequate family income, it encourages mothers to continue their schooling; and it provides for parents and children with special needs at home. The complex society in which we live places numerous stresses on family life.

The Center seeks to allow parents to alleviate some burdens by extending the care they provide at home in a comfortable, encouraging setting. Day Care does not take responsibility from the parents, rather serves as a consistent link between home and the outside, between parent and child, between child and growth.

A spokesman pointed out that the Newton Day Care Center in its more than half a year of operation has successfully fulfilled this goal. It has drawn a large number of young volunteers from Newton High School, High School of the Sacred Heart, Wheelock College, Bigelow Junior High, the Newton Junior Red Cross and other groups and agencies.

These teenage boys and girls have not only enriched the program at the Center, they themselves have been enriched by their work with children. Just the existence of the Day Care Center has produced multiple benefits throughout the community, the spokesman explained.

Yet there is one segment of the population which the Center has been unable to serve, and which probable needs it the most. It is the low income group which is unable to pay the full tuition, but struggling hard to stay self-supporting.

Initial scholarships for a child to enable the mother to get a job or to take that refresher or training course which would provide her with the skills necessary to get a better paying job might well change the life of an entire family. To aid people who want to help themselves the "Newton Day Care Scholarship Fund" has been established.

The Day Care Center would like to tell its story to the community, to individuals as well as organizations, so a speakers' bureau has been set up. A half hour program with slides and photographs and speaker is available to groups wishing

Transcendental Meditation Lectures Start On Monday

Introductory lectures on Transcendental Meditation will be presented in Needham on Monday, March 8, in the Multipurpose Room of the Glover Memorial Hospital; in Wellesley Hills on Wednesday, March 10 in the Parish Hall of the Unitarian Church; and in West Newton on Thursday, March 11, at the 1st Unitarian Church, all at 8 p.m.

These lectures, the first of a series of two, will be presented by Alfred Della Paolera and Michael Weinsell, instructors in the technique of Transcendental Meditation. Mr. Della Paolera is the New more information. The speakers' bureau is coordinated by Mrs. Keith G. Willoughby of 32 Nehoiden Road, Waban. Any requests should be addressed to her. The Day Care Center will be happy to plan a program exactly to the needs of an organization or club.

Contributions to the "Newton Day Care Scholarship Fund" are tax deductible and should be sent directly to the Newton Savings Bank, 1188 Centre Street, Newton Center, Mass. 02159. Any amount, large or small will be welcome.

England Coordinator of the International Meditation Society located at 27 Concord Avenue, Cambridge.

These first lectures will cover the effects of Transcendental Meditation (TM) on health, social behavior, the unfolding of full mental potential, and world peace.

Transcendental Meditation develops the capacity for full enjoyment and accomplishment in life. It is practiced for a few minutes morning and evening. During this time the body gains profound rest while the mind technique develops creative intelligence and improves the clarity of the thinking process. By developing the inner mechanics of thinking and experience, TM insures the full development of the individual. The practice is unique since it involves no concentration or contemplation, no suggestion or control. It is easily learned by anyone.

During the practice of TM the mind experiences subtler states of the thinking process. The body spontaneously reflects this increasingly refined mental activity. Scientific investigation of this phenomenon has found that a unique physical state develops which involves a combination of physiological changes.

During the practice of TM, dioxide elimination, cardiac output, heart rate, and respiratory rate significantly decrease while skin resistance greatly increases. The metabolic rate of the body is reduced by an average 20 percent; and yet, analysis of the chemical content of the blood shows that the normal balance of oxygen to carbon dioxide is maintained and the rate of anaerobic metabolism does not increase.

The inference drawn from this physiological evidence is that the body is in a profoundly deep state of rest; however, electro-encephalographic (EEG) measurements show that the mind is awake and able to respond to stimuli. These and other measurements indicate the distinct difference between the spontaneous effects of Transcendental Meditation and any other techniques including auto-suggestion or hypnosis.

In fact, the combined physical effects of TM are unique in that they indicate a fourth state of consciousness which is as natural to the individual as the other three states—waking, dreaming, and deep sleep.

The technique is as ancient as mankind, universal in its application, and anyone who incorporates it into his daily routine can enjoy maximum effectiveness and development to an evolved state of life. At this time in history it is brought to the world by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi and presented in terms of Transcendental Meditation.

The second lecture in this series will be presented at the 1st Unitarian Church in West Newton at 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 18 only. These lectures are free and the general public is cordially invited to attend.

Instruction in the technique itself will be given in Cambridge on Sunday, March 21, but the three additional sessions of instruction will be presented in West Newton of the convenience of local suburbanites. For further information call Mrs. Della Paolera at 876-4581.

Prints Of Stahley Keach Now on Exhibit at Library

The abstract shapes in pen and ink of printmaker Stanley Keach, Jr., of Newton Upper Falls are on view at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street, Newton Corner, through mid-March.

"Although I am an abstract artist, and although I sometimes use literal subject matter (such as armadillos, cartoon characters, playing card characters, houses) in my drawings, it is usually the case that such subject matter is used primarily as a vehicle for line, color value, and especially experimentation with shapes in two dimensional space. Right now I am particularly interested in contrapuntal juxtaposition of shapes in positive and negative space and in the combination of fluid, organic shapes with mechanical pattern."

Mr. Keach, with the Newton Community Service Centers in a youth service program, is a graduate of Olivet College, Olivet, Michigan, where he studied extensively with printmaker-sculptor Stephen Hazel, and was a teaching assistant in the field. Currently a member of the Cambridge Art Association, Mr. Keach has shown his work at the 5th annual National Print Show, 1967; Marshall Print Show, 1967; Marshall Print Show, 1968; Print and Drawing shows at Ward-Nasse Gallery, Newbury Street, Boston, 1970; and in numerous private collections.

The works on view at Newton's Main Library are a fractional representation of the several thousand drawings Mr. Keach has made over the last two years, ranging in size from postage stamp to 2 x 3.

Library hours are 9 to 9 daily, 9 to 6 Saturday, and 1 to 4 Sunday.

Delinquent And Neglected Youth Laws Discussed

Speaking on the subject of child welfare at the 18th annual Legislative Clearing House, sponsored by the United Community Services, and held at the State House recently, Representative David J. Mofenson of Newton discussed a bill he has co-sponsored which would establish new juvenile court procedures and revise the laws concerning neglected and delinquent children.

In commenting on the measure, he stated: "Among other things this bill sets guidelines for determining when a juvenile can be taken into custody, sets standards for determining the propriety and place of detention for both delinquent and neglected children and provides a non-waivable right to counsel at all stages of delinquency proceedings."

Mofenson's bill, which is set for a hearing before the Judiciary Committee next Wednesday (March 10) at 1 p.m., is co-sponsored by Senator Andrea F. Nuciforo of Pittsfield, Representatives John R. Buckley of Abington and Thomas C. Wojtkowski of Pittsfield and the Massachusetts Law Reform Institute.

The annual legislative clearing house session affords agencies and interested parties an opportunity to be apprised of important social welfare and health legislation before the state legislature. It was held

Mofenson Urges OK On Corporal Punishment Ban

Representative David J. Mofenson of Newton recently testified before the Joint Legislative Committee on Education to urge enactment of a bill he has co-sponsored with the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) which would prohibit corporal punishment in the public schools of Massachusetts.

In arguing for the bill, Mofenson told the committee: "A teacher may not be aware of the reasons for a child's misbehavior. The child may be emotionally disturbed, mentally retarded or in poor health."

The Newton Democrat asserted, "It is too late in this commonwealth's history to countenance any longer the use of corporal punishment."

Also among those testifying for bill was ADA legislative chairman, Elizabeth Parnes of Newton.

Although some cities and towns have outlawed corporal punishment, there is no state prohibition of it.

Work of Newton Acad. Is Cited In National Journal

Self-confidence — the ability to meet fear head-on, understand and conquer it — isn't always an inborn trait. In the complex development of a child, environment must often work in tandem with heredity to provide the optimum conditions for favorable emotional and physical growth.

The Academy of Physical and Social Development in Newton Centre, recently featured in the February 15th issue of Time Magazine, has combined an enthusiastic and novel approach to "confidence-teaching" in an atmosphere very much similar to that of an ordinary gym in appearance.

Working with both children and adults, the academy uses physical activity, psychological perception and trust to constructively direct natural competitive energy in students. Under the direction of Summer ("Mike") Burg and Martin Karlin, programs in gymnastics, basketball, fencing, hockey, judo and karate have been refined to play a two-fold role in the development of character.

Children seeking self-esteem, those with physical and emotional handicaps, and others who find the acquisition of confidence difficult, come away from the academy with a different outlook — one which effects their view of themselves and the society in general.

At the academy, team and individual sports are designed to build pride, confidence and ability. A qualified staff, modern facilities and 7000 square feet of floor space in their own modern building (they lease The Academy Cinemas), provide members with everything they need in the way of activity. Communication, however, represents the unmeasurable variable that makes the whole thing tick.

Young Local Musicians Are With Mass. Wind Ensemble

The Massachusetts Wind Ensemble, the first known organization of its kind, is comprised of a select group of high school wind musicians chosen by audition from over 250 student applicants from throughout the state.

Under the direction of Frank L. Battisti of the New England Conservatory of Music faculty, the group of 59 talented young musicians meet each Saturday at the Conservatory for three hour rehearsal sessions.

The success of this project is demonstrated by the fact that the students travel from as far away as 100 miles to participate. Because of this the name of the group was changed from the Greater Boston Youth Wind Ensemble to the Massachusetts Youth Wind Ensemble. Organized in March 1970, the Wind Ensemble performed its first concert on November 21, 1970, in the Conservatory's famous Jordan Hall.

These musicians have been chosen to participate in the annual National Wind Ensemble Conference to be held this year at the New England Conservatory of Music and will be featured in performance on March 6 with well-known guest conductors and with individual members of the Ensemble presented as soloists.

They will also play on April 1 at the Massachusetts Music Educators' Conference in Chicopee.

Considerable national interest is evidenced by the many inquiries received from educators and music journals from throughout the country. The international interest in the Ensemble is reflected in an invitation to take part in the International Festival of High School Bands to be held June 14-28 in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Participants in this festival are selected from all over the world, providing an unusual opportunity for these students to come in contact with people and cultures of all lands.

Four area members of the group include: Thomas Babin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Babin of 85 Albert Road, Auburndale, alto-clarinetist; Jane Bloom, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joel Bloom of 88 Annawan Road, Waban, an alto-saxophonist; William Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cooper, clarinetist and Kathy O'Donnell, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Joseph E. O'Donnell, a flutist.

Touraine's Brookline Store Is Remodeled

There will be a beautiful new look to a familiar spot in Coolidge Corner. Touraine has just completed remodeling, redecorating and enlarging its Brookline store, which is now 50 percent larger than it was before.

Highlights of the new store will be the shoe department, introducing to the Brookline area the Foreign Affairs Shoe Collection Touraine's Harvard Square store is famous for. "Junior Place", the junior and junior petite's own place for sportswear, dresses, coats, anything and everything... the glamorous "East Meets West Shop", for resort fashions any time of the year. Additional space is also being provided for better dresses.

A gift flacon of French perfume will be given to every lady attending the gala opening, and merchandise certificate totaling $1000 in fashions and accessories will be given as door prizes.

Ribbon cutting ceremonies are scheduled to begin this morning at 11 o'clock, attended by John S. Marsh, president of Norfolk County Trust Company. George Brown, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, will cut the ribbon, signifying that the new Touraine is open.

Newton Woman Foster Parent to Peruvian Girl

Through the Foster Parents Plan, Inc., of New York City, Miss Loraine Cohen of Lake view avenue, Newton, has "adopted" Julia Acosta, an eight-year-old girl from Peru.

Before Miss Cohen became Julia's foster parent, the family struggled to survive on 46 cents a day earned by the mother selling charcoal. There are six in the family, all in school except the youngest child. Their home and possessions were lost in the devastating earthquake. At present the family lives in a temporary shelter of bamboo mats. With them is a dependent grandmother. Their diet is of rice, beans, oatmeal, hard rolls, sweet potatoes and soup.

Because of Miss Cohen's generosity, Julia's family will receive immunization against typhoid, diphtheria, smallpox, tetanus, tuberculosis and polio. They will receive a monthly cash grant, distribution of such goods as vitamins, blankets, towels and soap, medical and dental care and the special help of trained so-

Buckley First Speaker At Meeting Of Citizens Lobby

The Citizens Lobby, a grass roots organization, has been formed in Newton. The people involved have banded together to lobby in what they consider the public interest for specific bills now pending before the State Legislature.

The group organized in the belief that private citizens working together can influence actions by the Legislature.

Attorney Lois Pines of Newton is president of the Lobby which has been actively supporting a school bus safety bill. Members have been contacting legislators and developing a state-wide letter-writing campaign in an attempt to help achieve the passage of that measure.

The group also plans to dedicate itself to environment and consumer protection and penal reform.

Sheriff John J. Buckley will be the guest speaker at a meeting to be held by the organization at 8:15 p.m. next Wednesday night (March 10) at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Norman Moss at 146 Algonquin road, Chestnut Hill (not far from the Chestnut Hill Country Club).

Buckley will talk on panel reform and how individual citizens can help bring about change in the correctional system.

Elected Sheriff of Middlesex County last November, Buckley's victory resulted primarily from the emphasis he placed on the issues of reform in correction and county government.

He was appointed to the office last April by Governor Sargent following the death of the late Howard Fitzpatrick.

Since assuming office he has introduced a number of important reforms, including a work training and release program. A second program for legal services and mental health counseling, designed by a study group at the Boston College Law School, will be operative shortly.

Sheriff Buckley is a strong advocate of citizen participation in government.

Virginia has 567 miles of coastline.

Zoning Board KO's Town House Variance Pleas

The Newton Zoning Board of Appeals has refused to allow variances for two Newtonville sites on which a builder had proposed to erect a total of 11 townhouse units.

On the six units planned for 40 Highland Avenue, the Appeals Board, by a 3-2 vote, upheld the decision of the Land Use Committee of the Board of Aldermen, which recently had refused a construction permit to the builder, Homes, Inc., because of the firm's plans did not include sufficient frontage on Highland Avenue, as prescribed in the zoning laws.

The Zoning Board's rejection of the variance request for 154 Lowell Avenue was based on the setback, square footage and parking requirements of the zoning code which the company had failed to meet.

Although the Lowell Avenue request was turned down unanimously, Homes, Inc. may still resubmit plans for that development.

St. Jean's school has been under the direction of the Sister's of St. Anne for 45 years.

Boy And Rescuer Freed From Pit

For nine-year-old James Bishop of 181 Charlesbank Road, Newton, it was naturally a frightening experience - being stuck in mud up to his neck. What was unusual was the fourth-grader's relative composure during his harrowing one-hour tribulation.

According to the Watertown police officers who helped pull James out from the muck of an excavation pit at Galen and William Street at the Newton-Watertown line, the boy's attentiveness and cooperation is what enabled the men to rescue him.

James had gone down the unfenced pit to retrieve a ball for some playmates about 4:15 Sunday afternoon. When he got caught in the mud, his buddies tried to help him, but to no avail. They finally were able to get some adult aid, in the form of a telephone call to the Watertown police, who arrived on the scene about 5 o'clock.

By carefully following the instructions of the policemen, James was hoisted up and out of the mud-trap, but not without another problem developing. One of the officers helping was himself sucked in to the mud up to his waist.

Firemen, who appeared at the site about 5:25, were ultimately able to free the patrolman, Richard Aria, Jr., from the hold of the mud.

Cerebral Palsy To Be Discussed

The Greater Boston Cerebral Palsy Foundation of 30 Wesley St., Newton, will be the subject of a talk by its director Frank Fuller at the meeting of the Friends of the Sensorially Deprived at Impler House, 417 Common St., Belmont on Wednesday, March 10 at 8 p.m. The meeting will also hear Dr. Perrin Wilson analyze work done with 92 cases of cerebral palsy.

101 YEARS YOUNG—And having found the secret enjoyed by so few—long sought for by Ponce de Leon—and coveted by so many generations since, Miss Annie L. Osgood is already a year into her second century of life. A single candle, marking the first 100 years, burned in the center of the cake as she cut and served the first piece Monday afternoon, without ever revealing how she attained this remarkable age.

Centenarian Is Feted At Eliot Nursing Home

One of Newton's oldest, if not the oldest living resident, is Annie L. Osgood of the Eliot Manor Nursing Home, 25 Mechanic St., Newton Upper Falls, who celebrated her 101st birthday Monday afternoon (March 1) at the nursing home.

A beautiful anniversary birthday cake was presented to the centenarian by her only surviving relative in the area, her second cousin, Mrs. Eleanor Arell of Dedham, who joined with a number of her friends in celebration of the event.

Though her hearing is impaired and she requires assistance in walking since breaking her hip several years ago, she is in comparative good health. Bright and cheerful, she is up and dressed daily and is an avid reader, especially of mystery stories.

Born in Stoneham on March 1, 1870 to Charles and Loret Osgood, Miss Osgood first lived in Newton, for many years in Dorchester, then in Brighton and finally this past year she came to Newton Upper Falls.

Newton Symphony Concert To Be Held Sunday Night

The Newton Symphony Orchestra will present its next concert this Sunday evening, March 7 at 8 p.m.

Boston's three leading music critics reportedly will come to review this important concert.

Interest in the performance runs high because of the near professional results that music director Michel Sasson gets from his community orchestra and because of his exceptional skill in programming.

Symphonic Variations of Antonin Dvorak, an acknowledged orchestral masterpiece, was last performed in Boston by the Boston Symphony in 1902. Mr. Sasson realizing the merit of enormous appeal of this beautiful work will begin the program with it.

Reaction to the piece has been so enthusiastic in pre-concert rehearsals, it is expected that Newton's concert audience will find the work one of the highlights of the season.

The orchestra will also present Stephen Geber, outstanding Boston cellist, as guest soloist. Mr. Geber's technical command and a remarkably beautiful tone give him the artistic mastery required to interpret the Shostakovich Cello Concerto in E flat which he will perform.

One movement of the concerto is devoted to cello solo, giving a wonderful opportunity for display of the playing described by Rochester critics as both "sensitive and flawless," and which inspired Boston critic Michael Steinberg to write that he believed "there cannot be many orchestras in the world with a principal cellist with more command of the instrument."

A graduate of the Eastman School, Mr. Geber has been a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1965 and a faculty member of Women Voters Discussion Units To Feature Charter

Newton's City Charter, Present and Possible will be the subject of the next set of units presented by the League of Women Voters of Newton.

Four years ago the Newton League studied and discussed present Charter of the City and reached a position in favor of the election of a Charter Commission. At the same time, League members agreed on nine other positions affecting the City's Charter.

A tenth position had been reached several years ago. After ten months of study and deliberation, seven members of the nine - member Newton Charter Commission issued a majority report in favor of the new proposed Newton Charter.

Two members of the Commission have refused to accept the proposed Charter and have issued a minority report in opposition to the adoption of the proposed Charter.

A Newton League of Women Voters committee, chaired by Mrs. John Montgomery, and consisting of the following members: Mrs. Joseph Alexander, Mrs. Joseph Appelbaum, Mrs. Samuel Beaser, Mrs. Luis Fernandez, Mrs. Solomon Fleishman, Mrs. Malcolm Green, Mrs. Savid Jackson, Mrs. Elia Lipton, Mrs. Charles Pfund, Mrs. Lawrence Rubin and Mrs. F. Dow Smith has been studying both the present Charter and the proposed Charter for some time.

In the first set of discussion units (two more sets will be held in the fall before the question of adoption of the proposed Charter appears on the local ballot) the committee will present material on the Home Rule Amendment and methods of changing charters, the Executive Branch, and the School Committee.

Consensus will be reached in the areas of length of terms and methods of election for both the Mayor and School Committee, composition of School Committee, powers of appointment and dismissal held by Mayor, creation of a Citizen Assistance Officer in the Executive Branch of local government, and in the area of determination of authority for the maintenance and repair of school buildings. For further information on this committee, contact Mrs. John Montgomery, 527-1253.

Discussion units will be held at the following places: Wednesday, March 10, in the morning, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Newtonville Library, Walnut Street; 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Roy Green, 28 Lenox Street, West Newton. There will be no Wednesday evening meeting.

Drinan Calls on Newton To Be "City of Peace"

A meeting of the Newton Democratic City Committee was held at the Grace Episcopal Church on Monday, February 22.

Chairman Robert Kraft introduced Alan Lecarie, Election Commissioner of the City of Newton, who explained the redrawing of the Ward lines in the city.

Because the Ward lines were not balanced, a suit was filed in Superior Court and, after a hearing, Judge Chmielinski ruled in June, 1969, that the city must redistrict immediately but only for city elections. As of January 1, 1971, new ward lines were drawn which will be in effect for this year's municipal election. However, the present existing ward lines will be adhered to for the 1972 election.

The eight wards have now been divided into 42 precincts, but in order not to confuse the electorate all voters will be able to cast their ballots at their present polling locations.

Mr. Lecarie expressed fear that if the State does not allow each city and town to redistrict, then the City of Newton will be forced to report the population, which is called for under the Quinn amendment, under the old wards and precincts, and this will be the basis of redistricting the House, Senate and Governor's Council, which will mean Newton will be operating with two sets of ward lines for the next ten years.

The Election Commissioner expressed his appreciation to Senator Irving Fishman and members of the Board of Aldermen who were helpful in the redistricting plan, which obviously entailed a great amount of work.

Mr. Lecarie left a map of the city with the new ward lines for the members of the City Committee to peruse, and announced he will speak to any group in the city to facilitate the election procedures.

Chairman Kraft thanked the Election Commissioner for his presentation, and the time spent with the City Committee.

Congressman Robert F. Drinan discussed the many activities he has engaged in during his short tenure, distributing to the members a copy of his remarks inserted in the Congressional Record entitled "The Brutality of American Intervention in Laos". Included in the publication remarks was H.R. 4101, a bill to amend the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended.

The Congressman announced he would meet with the Democratic Study Group in Washington, a committee of 130 members, who are to discuss what to do about Laos. It was Drinan's suggestion that Newton, with its nationwide reputation for activism, should consider itself the "Peace City."

He also pointed out particularly the vast untapped source of 11 million 18 and 19 year olds who will be voting in 1972, stating that if only 10 percent of this number were to write to their congressmen demanding they vote to end the war or they will be faced with lack of support in upcoming elections, this could very well bring about a change in our current policies.

Drinan also suggested a "permanent teach-in" in Washington, where people could invite such speakers as Melvin Laird and William Rogers to meet and discuss the burning issues of the day. Drinan pointed out many of the pressing needs in our own Third District, particularly the problems of the aging, and the surplus food program, asking for the formation of a volunteer task force to look into these matters and report back with recommendations for improving the lot of the elderly and the poor.

Congressman Drinan touched upon many other issues, concluding with a warning that unless the Democratic Party comes up with a consistent, coherent foreign policy we will be defeated in '72. We must develop a domestic and foreign policy that will attract the voters in '72, he said.

Chairman Kraft introduced Gene Blumenreich, who brought to the attention of the members the Theatre Party to be held on March 31st at Brandeis University Spingold Theatre. Representatives Guzzi and Mofenson are working with Gene on the tickets for this affair, which is the City Committee's annual fund-raising event and always an enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Constance Kantar proposed a resolution to be submitted to our Congressional leaders concerning the latest invasion of Laos. The resolution was passed unanimously. Congressman Drinan stated he will have the resolution printed in the Congressional Record.

Drinan answered many questions from the floor concerning welfare, the Diskey-Lincoln Project, defoliation and Vietnamization, the alleged Berrigan conspiracy.

In answer to a question regarding the McGovern Commission on the National Convention, Betty Taymor as co-chairman of the Massachusetts Reform Committee, stated she would be willing to discuss the committee's work on bringing Massachusetts into compliance with the Democratic Party guidelines.

At the meeting of the Newton Democratic City Committee the following resolution was unanimously passed:

BE IT RESOLVED that the Newton Democratic City Committee, numbering 280 members, deplores and condemns the latest extension of the Indo-China war; and implores our Congressional leaders, our Senators and Congressmen, to support the McGovern-Hatfield Bill, as well as any other Bill which would set a firm date (such as that suggested in H.R. 54 of July 4, 1971) to withdraw all United States troops from all Southeast Asia; and, in advance of that, to support any bill which would prohibit United States air or ground support, advice and/or any other military assistance to the South Vietnamese troops now in Cambodia and Laos.

SENATE APPROVES VOTING AGE OF 18 FOR ALL ELECTIONS

THE SENATE unanimously approved Wednesday a constitutional amendment which would lower the voting age to 18 in all elections — from City Hall to the White House. If it is approved by the House next week, as is expected, 38 states must then ratify the amendment before it can become part of the constitution. All 50 legislatures are meeting this year, although some have already completed their sessions. The Senate approved the amendment after only a brief debate and sidetracked any riders which could have jeopardized passage. By a 68-23 vote, the Senate killed a rider offered by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., which would have granted full congressional representation to the District of Columbia in both the House and Senate. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield reluctantly moved to table the Kennedy proposal, warning it would touch off a filibuster that could delay passage of the 18-year-old vote amendment.

NIXON PROPOSES $1.1 BILLION PLAN FOR RURAL AMERICA

PRESIDENT NIXON proposed Wednesday giving rural America $1.1 billion under his revenue sharing plan with no strings attached on how to spend it. But it would eliminate some very popular specific programs and opposition developed swiftly. If Congress approves the President's plan, such things as the Appalachia Regional Commission, and other such organizations, would be abolished. So would the Agricultural Extension Service and tree-planting programs which give federal grants for people-plants, farm pond construction and other activities. Nixon said the states could continue these programs if they wished. Such decisions would be up to the governors.

MEDINA DENIES ORDERING CALLEY TO KILL CIVILIANS

THE TWO CENTRAL figures in the massacre at My Lai came face-to-face Wednesday at Ft. Benning, Ga., where Capt. Ernest L. Medina firmly denied he ordered Lt. William E. Calley Jr. to "kill or waste Vietnamese people." The testimony struck at the heart of Calley's defense that he was merely following Medina's orders when he and his men slaughtered villagers who were delaying an American military sweep through the Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai on March 16, 1968. Calley sat motionless, his arms resting on the table as Medina—a man a psychiatrist said Calley regarded almost as a father — contradicted Calley's earlier testimony. Medina, too, is charged with 102 killings during the operation and also could be put to death if found guilty at a later court-martial.

ANGRY JEWS STAGE MOSCOW HUNGER SIT-IN

MORE THAN 100 angry Jews crowded into the Soviet Parliament building Wednesday and tried to stage a sit-in hunger strike to back their demands for permission to go to Israel. Soviet police drove them out more than five hours later as they prayed in a darkened hall. The group of 110 persons from six Soviet cities sat down in the reception room of the Supreme Soviet Parliament less than 100 yards across Karl Marx Street from the Kremlin. Their demonstration began after a group of Jews from Rega visited headquarters of the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee and had their appeal for permission to emigrate to Israel rejected.

3 BRITISH SOLDIERS SLAIN IN BELFAST

THREE BRITISH soldiers were shot to death Wednesday night in Belfast, Northern Ireland, long the site of sectarian violence between Catholics and Protestants. British army headquarters announced the shooting deaths, and a police spokesman reported the wounding of a policeman in a separate shooting incident earlier in the day. They gave no details of either incident. In addition to the shootings, bomb explosions Wednesday damaged a bank and a cigarette factory in the capital, a police spokesman said. There were no injuries in the explosion, he said. The three shooting deaths marked the second day of slayings by gunfire in Belfast. One man was killed and three wounded Tuesday in what police described as a possible shootout between rival factions of the underground Irish Republican Army.

COMMUNIST FORCES 'STRETCHED TO THE LIMIT'

THE ESCALATION of the Indochina War into three nations has put a severe strain on Communist manpower and cut North Vietnam's home defense force to only 15,000 regulars, U.S. military sources said Wednesday in Saigon. Communist forces were described as "really stretched to the limit" in South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos with more than 186,000 North Vietnamese troops spread over the three-country theater. North Vietnamese commanders, military sources said, have committed about 30,000 men to counter South Vietnam's offensive against the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos while holding about 20,000 more in reserves outside North Vietnamese borders.

HUB'S WELFARE ROLLS 15% OF CITY'S POPULATION

BOSTON has a larger percentage of people on its welfare rolls than any other large city in the country, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said Wednesday. HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Service reported 15 per cent of the city's population on welfare, edging New York's 13 per cent. More than one out of every 10 persons in the large cities are on welfare, HEW said in a report on the welfare population in the nation's 20 largest standard metropolitan statistical areas. "These figures starkly illustrate the plight of America's urban areas," said HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson. Richardson said the country's welfare rolls increased by two million last year.

FORMATION OF NEW CONSERVATIVE PARTY ANNOUNCED

FORMER COMMISSIONER of Administration and Finance John J. McCarthy of Chatham Wednesday announced formation of the Conservative party of Massachusetts and said it would field a full slate of candidates in the 1972 state elections. "This is already a statewide party," said McCarthy who was defeated by Josiah Spaulding last year for the Republican U.S. Senate nomination. "We're beginning to be organized in every corner of the state," McCarthy said he would not personally oppose Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., who comes up for re-election next year. "But we're not going to shy away from running someone against Brooke, the crown prince of liberals. We're not a far right party," McCarthy said. "I think conservative is a good clean word. We want to conserve what we have."

He is scheduled to graduate from M.I.T. in June, 1972.

Though reverberations are still being felt in the city of Newton as a result of recent controversial proposals for low and moderate income housing, two new alternative plans were aired at a public hearing at Newton City Hall on Monday night.

Considerable neighborhood opposition was expressed to petitions by the Auburndale Development Corp. for zone changes, which would allow construction of new and duplex houses on approximately 10 acres of land on Stanford St. in Auburndale.

The developer presented two alternative plans to the Land Use Committee of the Board of Aldermen and the Planning Board.

One plan calls for a total of 120 residential units. It involves the land owned by the petitioner and approximately 12,000 square feet of land fronting on Stanford St. now under option, making a total of 10 acres.

Sarge Now Seeks Help From Spiro After Spurning Him

Governor Francis W. Sargent and Senator Edward W. Brooke want no part of Vice-President Spiro Agnew, when they're running for office, but they would like the Vee to put his shoulder to the wheel and help raise some money for the Republican party in Massachusetts while he's here to speak at the annual dinner of the Middlesex Club.

That may come as a surprise to some Republicans who know that Mr. Agnew is not on the political dance card of either Governor Sargent or Senator Brooke. In fact, Mr. Sargent politely, if somewhat undiplomatically, requested both President Nixon and Vice-President Agnew to remain out of Massachusetts while he was running for the Governorship last fall.

Public Hearing Airs Plans For Low Income Homes Here

This plan (labeled Scheme 1) would involve 108 units of row housing or town houses consisting of 16 one bedroom, 30 two bedroom, 42 three bedroom and 20 four bedroom units. It would also include six duplexes of two units each containing three bedrooms.

The second plan (labeled Scheme 2) calls for 74 units of row housing, consisting of 10 one bedroom, 20 two bedroom, 30 three bedroom and 14 four bedroom units and 10 duplexes of two units each with three bedrooms.

The housing, according to Atty. Lawrence Shubow, lawyer for the petitioner, would be built with financing from the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency.

Rentals would be set by state and federal guidelines and condominium ownership would also be involved eventually. Twenty five per cent of the units would be made available to the Newton Housing Authority for low income housing under a federally subsidized leasing program.

If the petitions are approved a limited dividend corporation would be formed by the developer. The Auburndale Development Corp. is a new business entity created by John R. McIsaac Co., Inc. Boston based contractors and engineers, Shubow said.

"This proposal offers a modest but significant chance for Newton to provide low and moderate income housing," Shubow declared.

He conceded, however, that there is a dilemma in that "the more bedrooms you have, the more babies you have." He estimated that the proposed housing would bring about 75 additional children.

However, Shubow commented, existing projections for the Burr School point to a drop in the enrollment. In addition, the project would

Fact Finder Sought To End Teacher Wage Hike Impasse

In an attempt to resolve an impasse in salary negotiations with the Newton Teachers Association, the Newton School Committee on Monday night voted to request the appointment of a fact finder by the State Labor Board.

School Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith said the decision had been made because negotiations have been going on since November "and the gap is still too wide."

The Teachers' Association is seeking a salary schedule that would add 40 per cent to the total salary budget, Beckwith said.

In a recent news release the School Committee Chairman reported that the total salary increases being asked for would add over $6,000,000 to the school budget and would reflect a $17.50 increase on the Newton tax rate. Other benefits being sought would add even more, he said.

"We told the negotiators for the teachers that if they had proposed something in the area of a cost of living increase negotiations could have continued," Beckwith declared.

"It would be totally destructive to continue in this way. Both the teachers and the public are being agitated. It could be destructive to the schools," Beckwith said.

The School Committee will continue to negotiate other items in the teachers' proposals "as often and as long as it takes to solve them," the Committee Chairman stated.

Beckwith said the announcement that he would make the proposal for the appointment of a fact finder was made to the teachers at a negotiating session that preceded Monday night's School Committee meeting.

Plans for the tribute were discussed in a meeting last week in the office of Newton Mayor Monte G. Basbas.

Joining the Mayor were Thomas Medaglia, the Parade Adjutant General; Francis Howley, Past Parade Adjutant General; and Jayne Driscoll, Parade Secretary.

Brooke Named To Aging Com.

As he begins his fifth year of service in the United States Senate, Senator Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts has received an important new committee assignment: The Special Committee on Aging.

This is one of the Senate's "study" committees and, in the last few years, the body has probed deeply into the problems of older Americans, particularly in the economic and health spheres.

Those subcommittees on which Brooke will serve include:

1. Long-Term Care - This group has special responsibility in the field of nursing homes, which has distinct importance and relevance for Massachusetts.
2. Housing - This ties in with the Senator's duties on the Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee.
3. Consumer Interests of the Elderly.
4. Health
5. Federal, State and Community Services.

Brooke recently asserted that, "No item of our national agenda has higher priority for me than that of helping the elderly people of the United States have the comfort, dignity and independence to which they are so richly entitled."

regional committees out of the 10,000 student nominees.

Though they will not receive financial support from the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, they are recommended for fellowships and assistantships granted by the graduate schools to which they have applied.

In announcing the awards, Dr. H. Ronald Rouse, National Director of the Foundation, said, "We are encouraged each year to find so many young men and women who combine intellectual curiosity and brilliance with a deep concern for society's needs.

"Today there is too much pessimism about the future of higher education, and a temporary oversupply of Ph.D.'s has been magnified out of all proportion.

"It is important that fine students be encouraged to consider careers of college teaching, where their talents add quality and relevance to higher education."

Peace Center Delegate Is Back From Talks in Paris

Dr. Charles E. Brown, chairman of the Newton Community Peace Center announces today, the return of Mrs. Carol Holland, local Peace Center delegate along with 170 other American Men and women, from a week-long Conference of citizens who have talked with principals in the Paris talks and others on what the requisites for peace in Southeast Asia really are.

The Citizens Conference on Ending the War in Indochina, as the project is called, is sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC) Clergy and Laymen Concerned (CALC) and the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR) with the Newton Peace Center participating in the delegation.

"The Conference afforded a large number of American citizens access to and thoughtful discussion with many persons long familiar with the Indochina struggle," explained Stewart Meacham, peace education secretary of the AFSC.

Participants have met with representatives of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of Vietnam (PRG), formerly the National Liberation Front), the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North Vietnam), the Republic of Vietnam (Saigon) and the U.S. Delegation.

Meetings were also arranged with representatives of the National United Front of Cambodia, the Laotian Student Union and various independent South Vietnamese groups opposed to the war (including Buddhists, Catholics, students and groups supporting the Saigon Administration's National Assembly).

Before leaving, Allan Brick, national program director of the FOR, said that in addition to meeting with officials government representatives at the peace talks, "we are anxious to learn a great deal more about the recent upsurge of civilian resistance to the war in the large cities of South Vietnam. We want to reach a better understanding of what the Vietnamese people themselves are struggling for."

The Rev. Richard Fernandez, director of CALC, indicated that the conference has come at an extremely propitious moment, given the United States second invasion of a sovereign country (Laos) in less than eleven months. Mr. Melvin Laird, the clergyman continued, "has told us that the invasion of Laos doesn't represent a widening of the war - we are interested to see what both Asian and Europeans see in this new move."

The American Friends Service Committee was founded by a group of Quakers in 1917 to offer young men an alternative to military service. Today its 600 staff are engaged in peace education, refugee relief, technical aid to developing countries, international conferences and community development work in this country.

Clergy and Laymen Concerned is a 34,000 member inter-religious and anti-war group. It is five years old and has offices at 475 Riverside Drive, New York City.

MRS. CAROL HOLLAND

The Fellowship of Reconciliation is an association of men and women of all faiths who recognize the essential unity of mankind and have joined together to explore the power of love and truth for resolving human conflict. The organization was founded in 1915 and has a nationwide membership of more than 20,000 men and women.

The Newton Community Peace Center is a local Community Organization of 225 members which operates on the assumption that there is much that can be done by individuals and an aware community to promote the cause of world peace. It believes that education in Newton is one of the most effective ways of halting this present disastrous and enlarging trend toward war and creating a local climate in which peace might be a vital possibility. To implement this purpose, Mr. Brown urges many local groups - in the community, in the churches, and synagogues, clubs to arrange a speaking engagement for Mrs. Holland to offer opportunity for this suburban community to understand better what the requisites for peace in Southeast Asia, really are.

For further information and open speaking dates for Mrs. Holland, please contact Mrs. Elizabeth Merrill, executive secretary at the Newton Community Peace Center office, phone 969-7900. Early reservations are urged.

he primarily for Newton residents so many of the children would be those already attending Newton schools, he said.

Shubow also maintained that the proposed project would be less dense than the housing proposed on nine of the ten sites involved in the recently rejected Newton Community Development Foundation plans.

Neighbors who opposed the project cited already overcrowded schools in the area, increased traffic with poor access roads and the density of the proposed project.

Richard Staley of 20 Freeman St., Auburndale presented signatures of 25 abutters and abutters to abutters opposed to the petitions.

Mrs. Nancy Dallaire, vice president of the Burr School PTA spoke of overcrowded conditions which currently exist in that facility and the problems which would result from further increases in school population.

She also noted the possibility of parochial school closings which could create further problems. Capacity enrollment in Warren Junior High School was also cited by Mrs. Dallaire.

Mrs. Richard W. Swift, president of the Auburndale Community Association, reported that group's opposition to the proposal.

It would create an increased traffic flow in an area of single family homes with only limited access, she said. She also talked of the overcrowded schools in the area.

Mrs. Helen Heyn presented the opposition of the Charles River Watershed Association. At the conclusion of the hearing 5 residents raised their hands as being in favor of the petitions and 27 indicated their opposition.

The Honorable Monte G. Basbas has issued a proclamation celebrating March 7-12 as Girl Scout Week in Newton.

In his proclamation, the Mayor saluted Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. on the occasion of its 59th anniversary and called upon all citizens to join with Newton Girl Scouts in their efforts to "improve the quality of our environment and build better relationships among persons of all ages, religions, races, and nationalities."

Those Sob Stories

Efforts of persons and organizations interested in American draft-dodgers who have fled to Canada in the last few years didn't get very far with the Dominion government as it handled the case of a young American plane hi-jacker.

Without too much delay, Ottawa directed his extradition to the United States to face the music on this side of the border. Originally, he ordered the pilot to fly to Cuba but accepted Canada as a sort of second choice. In the long run he may prove to be lucky the plane lacked enough fuel to get from the Northwest to the Antilles.

American hi-jackers reaching Cuba have a way of disappearing. The presumption that Castro puts most of them to work cutting sugar cane is fairly acceptable but Fidel has been known to boot out some and he has enough trouble of his own without bothering with those who come in equipped with American criminal records.

The hi-jacking to Canada had one unsavory by-product. It appeared to spark another flood of sob stories and sticky articles in the American media about Canada's steadily growing crop of draft-dodgers and deserters.

As usual the flood was threaded with propaganda hinting eventual amnesty and 'welcome homes' for those who chose to renounce their American citizenship until conditions here met with their approval.

Our men back from Indo-China and those yet to return don't and won't have much time to spend weeping over the plight of those seeking cover in Canada and Sweden for the duration. They face problems, too. One of the biggest is getting a job or picking up where they left off in their education.

The past has proved this nation pretty forgiving by nature. It will be stretching forgiveness pretty far, however, if those sob stories lead to placing draft-dodgers and deserters into competition with those who served their country when they were called.

How About the IRS?

Some were not convinced the law had caught up with Al Capone until the day in 1931 when he was unceremoniously thrown into a cell in a tough federal penitentiary called Leavenworth.

For a long period as the nation's top hoodlum-gangster he had ruled over what was euphemistically called an empire. He was wealthy. He was powerful. He combined his wealth and power in ruthless fashion to make the law only something to be cast in fine print, put between covers and locked up on library bookshelves.

For him, arrests were merely annoying "pinches", something to be straightened out by his lawyers, while he added more territory to the dominion he ruled and reaped more gold by constantly diversifying his defiance of law and decency.

Capone's downfall was not preceded by any spectacular raid by heavily-armed peace officers. He didn't even know when his road to Leavenworth and later even tougher Alcatraz really began.

The start actually was made in Washington. It came the day someone in the Capital said, in effect, "Let's try the IRS on him." It was a long tough job. It wasn't spectacular. The work was carried on in silence that at times must have seemed bookkeeperish.

When it was finished, the government had fashioned a foolproof case. Loose parts fell into place—whether they concerned the parent illegal liquor operations, white slavery or corruption.

Hardly a day passes in these disturbing times without reports of drug raids, multiple arrests and narcotic seizures — many the "biggest ever" for the locales in which they occur. Substitute liquor for drugs in the accounts and you'll find they are almost word-for-word a repetition of the daily news fare of Capone's days.

Today's drug commerce is the deadliest, the most vicious and potentially the most dangerous this or any other country has known. It's not a commerce run by high school pushers, or miserable pedlars in their 20s. It's a multi-million dollar operation which is expanding every day.

Maybe the IRS could start some of the top drug operators on their way to cells in good, stout, tough federal penitentiaries for a long time.

Newton Solons Push Tax On No Return Bottles

Representative David J. Mofenson (D-Newton) recently testified before the Joint Committee on Taxation to urge support of a bill he has cosponsored with Rep. Paul Malloy to impose a tax on non-returnable bottles.

The bill provides for taxes in increasing yearly increments and would require manufacturers to pay a two cent per bottle tax in 1971 and 1972, a four cent per bottle tax in 1973 and 1974, and a six-cent per bottle tax in subsequent years.

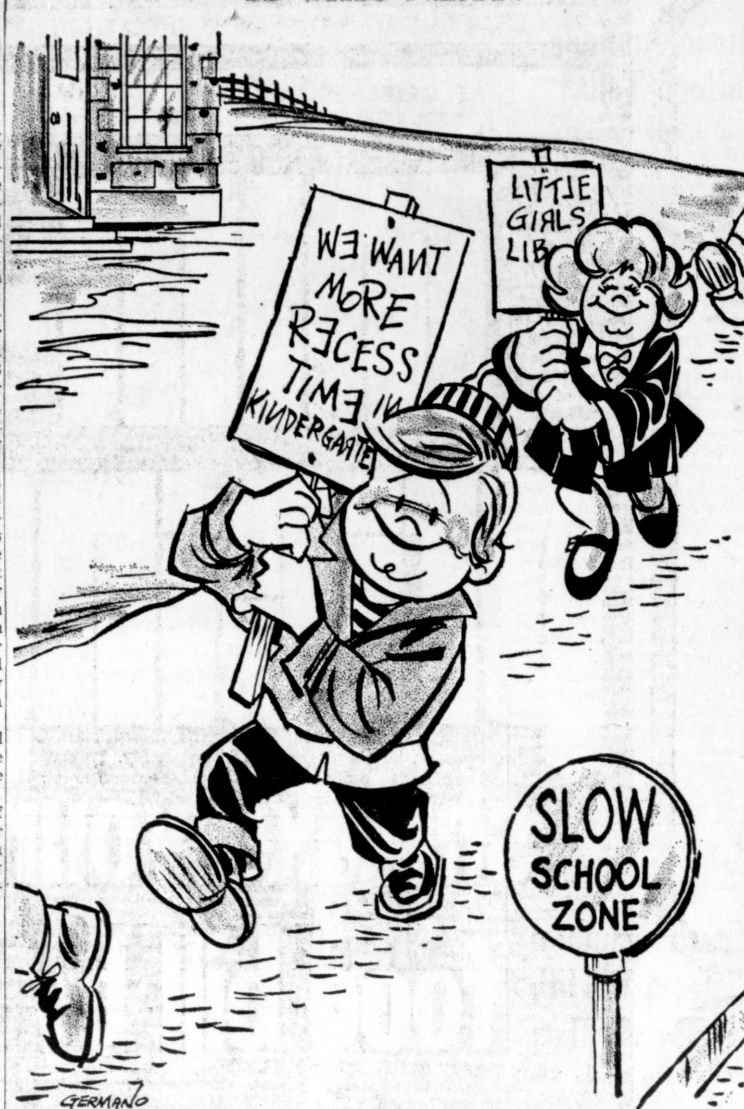

The bill also provides that revenues are to be used for highway clean-up. In commenting on the bill, Representative Mofenson stated, "We tend to underestimate the problems caused by throwaways, but the threat is grave and should not be minimized. This country uses and disposes of 36 billion non-returnable bottles each year, including 21.5 billion beer bottles. And a bottle discarded in the trash pile or thrown by the roadside, remains a bottle."

"It is hoped that this social pressure tax will cause manufacturers to produce other kinds of containers, thereby solving the problem of the throwaway. If an answer is not found soon, we stand a good chance of being buried by our junk," Mofenson concluded.

IS THIS NEXT?

- POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS - (Continued from Page 1)

But Mr. Sargent can be very practical when it comes to raising funds for the Bay State GOP, and the Republican State Committee is in such dire financial straits you would think a Democrat had been Governor for the past six years instead of two gentlemen named John A. Volpe and Francis W. Sargent.

Spiro Agnew may or may not be an asset for the Republican candidate in a state-wide campaign in Massachusetts, but he is the No. 2 box office attraction in the nation on the banquet circuit, the No. 1 man being President Nixon who is usually busy with other matters these days.

So Governor Sargent decided to take advantage of Vice-President Agnew's money-raising talents, and he joined with Senator Brooke in requesting the Veep to appear at a fund-raising cocktail party while he's in Boston for the Middlesex Club dinner.

One admirer of the Vice-President asks why he should do anything for Messrs. Sargent and Brooke.

It is not as simple as that, of course, and anything Mr. Agnew does to raise money for the Republican State Committee in Massachusetts to some extent will help both President Nixon and Mr. Agnew himself.

Rumors that Agnew might be dumped next year by President Nixon and someone else picked for second place on the GOP national ticket have pretty well faded away.

It is now generally taken for granted that Agnew will be tapped to team up with Richard Nixon again.

Meanwhile, there will be considerable interest in watching the reception Vice-President Agnew gets in Boston when he's here for the traditional Middlesex Club fete.

One safe prediction is that the members of some group will picket him.

Speculation Starts Early On 1974 Race For Governor

Speculation already has started as to who the leading candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor will be in 1974.

Political fortunes can take many turns and twists in a three-year period. Some of the office-holders who loom now as likely contenders could be washed out of the picture during that span. New faces also could come into focus.

However, a long-range projection at this point would include State Senate President Kevin B. Harrington of Salem, House Speaker David M. Bartley of Holyoke, State Treasurer Robert Q. Crane and State Auditor Thaddeus Buczek, like Harrington, a Salem resident.

Congressman Michael Harrington, a cousin of Senate President Kevin Harrington, has been mentioned as a gubernatorial possibility, but it is somewhat unlikely he would give up a seat on Capitol Hill to stand for the Governorship.

If he did, he would become one of the very few Congressmen willing to do so. The last was the late Christian A. Herter. Most Congressmen enjoy their jobs and prefer to keep them.

Next November's Boston mayoralty election could produce a candidate for Governor. In 1967 political experts widely predicted that the man elected Mayor of Boston then would be the Democratic nominee for Governor in 1970.

Time was to prove them right. Kevin H. White did become the Democratic gubernatorial standard-bearer, but his popularity had eroded under the force of his tough problems and hard decisions. That could be true also for the next Mayor, whether he be White or someone else.

One of the interesting bits of conjecture when Beacon Hill politicians sit down to gossip and chat centers on the possibility that Lieutenant Governor Donald Dwight and House Speaker David Bartley, practically next-door neighbors in Western Massachusetts, might be the opponents for the Governorship in 1974.

That is based on the generally held assumption that Governor Sargent will have had his fill of the Governorship and its problems by the end of his present term.

There are times when it appears that Mr. Sargent, like the fabled James M. Curley, enjoys the stress and strain which rest upon the man serving as Governor of Massachusetts.

Move To Lower Drinking Age Causes Row On Beacon Hill

Members of the Massachusetts Legislature granted 19 and 20-year-old boys and girls the right to vote in state, city and town elections, but the law-makers are not disposed to give the same youths the privilege of buying a drink of beer, wine or hard liquor.

Whether the 19 and 20-year-olds should have the right to purchase liquor has become a hot issue on Beacon Hill, with strong feelings being expressed on both sides of the question.

A variety of bills on the subject, one seeking to lower to 18 the age at which boys and girls may buy liquor, are awaiting action by the Legislature. Present indications are that they will all be killed.

Supporters of such a change in the law point out that 19-year-old boys and girls may now stand for election to seats in the Legislature and that some personable and popular youth undoubtedly will win such an election in the near future.

They maintain that it would be paradoxical for a 19 or 20-year-old boy or girl to participate in making the laws which govern the people of Massachusetts but at the same time have that law-making body deny them the right to buy a drink.

Those on the other side of the issue reply that drinking liquor can only hurt the 19-year-olds and that it will be early enough for them to start when they are 21. It is an interesting controversy, but the 19-year-olds are not likely to win the right to buy booze this year.

Martha Mitchell Insulted Doctor Called For Daughter

A doctor who was called to a Houston hotel to treat Mrs. Martha Mitchell's 10-year-old daughter thought he spruced up his appearance pretty well for the great occasion.

Mrs. Mitchell considered him a seedy-looking character somebody might have pulled out of an old sack.

Never one to conceal her feelings, Martha voiced her appraisal of the doctor's appearance, and the doctor was never so insulted in his whole life.

Dr. Henry Withers says he showered, shaved, combed his hair, put on a "beautiful" shirt, a brand new sports coat and slacks before leaving for the suite Mrs. Mitchell was occupying at the Warwick Hotel.

Mrs. Mitchell, who was in Houston to be honored by its Rotary Club as its Valentine's Day sweetheart, says that Dr. Withers looked like a busboy, that his hair was "frazzled," that he was wearing "funny-looking clothes," and that she asked her FBI agent where he got "this creature."

Dr. Withers started to leave until he remembered he had been called to treat Mrs. Mitchell's 10-year-old daughter, not Mrs. Mitchell. Withers claims that at one point Martha told him: "I'll just call the President."

Things can't really be as bad as they seem when we have time for that kind of nonsense.

Dr. Withers has a big practise in Houston. We would have a different sort of complaint about him if we called him to attend a 10-year-old girl and he stopped to shower, shave and dress himself up as he did for Martha Mitchell.

The dispatches devoted substantial space to relating what Mrs. Mitchell said about the doctor and what the doctor replied about "that obnoxious woman—Mrs. Whatch-a-ma-call-it."

But they never did get around to reporting what was the matter with the little girl.

She was taken to Texas Children's Hospital in Houston where she was treated for four days and then discharged. Hospital officials claim they had no difficulty with Martha.

LETTERS TO THE GRAPHIC

School Board Spending

Editor of The Graphic:

Something occurred at the February 22 School Committee meeting in Newton which needs discussion.

In rebuttal by Mr. Beckwith to Mayor Basbas' proposal to limit the irresponsible power of the School Committee to spend large sums of money he used the most interesting expression.

"Many decades ago" the Commonwealth fathers "in their wisdom" decided it best the School Committee be financially autonomous and not responsible. In those first three words he gave away his show. First, the Commonwealth fathers were men like ourselves, prone to the same errors of thought and judgment, no more guided by divine inspiration than we.

Who sees in part shall prophecy in part, and at that time they were considering budgets in terms of thousands rather than many millions. Who could seriously contend that in today's world with its fantastic costs compared to "many decades ago" that all considerations of that time are not now badly in need of re-evaluation?

Does not the head of the School Committee, an educated man, not know that when a very large quantitative change occurs it becomes qualitative?

Consider this: The huge population growth expected in the next 30 years will create entirely new cities in entirely new areas. Suppose it was given you to write the charter for one of them.

The world is threatened by death from pollution — would you give the health department unlimited spending authority? With the threat of inundation by garbage over us, would you give the sanitation department unlimited authority to spend to dispose of waste?

With the threatened crisis everywhere due to mounting civil disorder, would you give the police department unlimited authority to spend to maintain order? These functions are at least as vital as education, but you would not dare risk financial strangulation by one or all of them. And a School Committee presently budgeting approximately $23,000,000 million dollars with a rising prospect is certainly a present threat of civic strangulation to Newton.

Very truly yours,
John Gosfield
Newton, Mass.

Want Boycott

(The following letter was received by Mayor Basbas, with a copy for reprint by The Graphic, from the AFL-CIO headquarters.)

Dear Sir:

The Greater Boston Labor Council, AFL-CIO at its regular meeting, February 10, 1971, passed a motion supporting the International Ladies Garment Workers Union in its labor dispute with Blauer Manufacturing Company, 160 North Washington Street, Boston.

This action came as the result of the bad faith bargaining of the Company and its attempt to shift its operation to Alabama throwing fifty women out of work who have been employed at the firm over fifteen (15) years.

This run-away firm sells products that many cities purchase, such as raincoats, for police and fire fighters. New York and Boston Fire Fighters have voted to boycott these products.

With our many employment problems at present, the Greater Boston Labor Council does not feel that Newton City Officials should give aid and comfort to this firm by purchasing its products.

We are requesting that you in your official capacity take action to assist the many members of this fine organization in their struggle to obtain

Opposes Mayor

Editor of The Graphic:

I would like to register a strong protest against the proposals made by Mayor Basbas and others to curtail the power of school committees, granted to them by the State Legislature, to determine local budgets for public education. These proposals are before the Local Affairs Committee and the Education Committee of the General Court.

The proposed bills, instead of saving the taxpayers money, would make it extremely difficult to place the responsibility for both the school program and the school budget.

First of all, approximately 85 per cent of school budgets are spent for personnel and are determined through the collective bargaining process, which, as with the collective bargaining process for all other municipal employees, is not subject to reduction by any appropriating bodies.

Second (Newton has only to look at the school building program to see what happens when budget and program responsibility are split among the mayor, board of aldermen, and school committee. The new Newton High School, when first requested by the school committee in 1960, would have cost $4 to $5 million. Today it is priced at close to $20 million.

Refusal to request the necessary appropriations by previous administrations and delays caused by lack of effective communication and cooperation by the three branches of government have thus cost the Newton taxpayers at least $15 million. I would hate to see these kinds of delays and rising costs afflict the educational program as well.

It is naive to think that the mayor and the board of aldermen, who have the responsibility for the rest of the city budget, would have more time or wisdom than the school committee to make budgetary decisions that are in the interest of the children as well as the taxpayers.

It makes much more sense to keep control of the school budget in the hands of the school committee. They also are elected directly by the people and are directly answerable for their decisions.

I urge fellow citizens who have the best interest of the taxpayers and the school children at heart to write to Sen. Philibert Pellegrini and Rep. Donald R. Gaudette, chairmen of the Local Affairs Committee, to oppose Senate Bills 711 and 722, and House Bill 1563, and to Sen. Mary Fonseca and Rep. Michael Daly, chairmen of the Education Committee, to oppose House Bills 3763, 921, 3191, 2197, 2018, 362, 4770, and 2385, and Senate Bill No. 444.

Frank Giles Cleared After 7 Years Under Indictment

Frank S. Giles of Methuen was indicted back in 1964 on the basis of evidence gathered by the now defunct State Crime Commission

He was indicted on two counts of perjury and 38 other counts.

Giles had been the Republican leader in the Massachusetts House of Representatives and at the time of his indictment was State Public Safety Commissioner and head of the State Police.

A few days ago, almost seven years after his indictment, the last perjury charge against him was dismissed because he had not been given a speedy trial.

He was convicted in 1965 on the two perjury counts, but two years later the State Supreme Court order overturned one conviction and ordered a new trial on the other count. Two judges declared the charges were "contrived" by the Crime Commission. The other charges were dropped in 1968.

The announcement that Giles had been cleared attracted relatively little attention. Some persons

Unfair Claim Practices Are Target Of Rep. Mann's Bill

Representative Theodore D. Mann has filed House Bill No. 2834 to give the consumer greater protection against unfair insurance claim settlement practices. The proposed legislation defines certain abuses and provides penalties for them.

In filing the bill, Rep. Mann declared:

"Let me stress that in most instances the relationship that exists between the insurer and the insured is governed by the highest ethical standards. Unfortunately, however, there are always the few who indulge in abuses that call for remedial action. My bill is directed to correct what may be termed isolated situations."

The bill, Rep. Mann explained, provides penalties where any of the following unfair claim practices are involved:

a. Knowingly misrepresenting to claimants pertinent facts or policy provisions relating to coverage;

b. Failing to adopt and implement reasonable standards for the prompt investigation of claims;

c. Not attempting in good faith to make prompt, fair and equitable settlements of claims in which liability is reasonably clear;

d. Compelling policyholders to institute actions at law to recover amounts due by offering substantially less than amounts ultimately recovered through such action.

Other provisions of the bill provide that the Commissioner of Insurance, either on his own initiative or because of a complaint, may call for a hearing to determine whether or not an insurance company has engaged in one of these unfair claim practices. The Commissioner would have the authority to impose a fine of not more than one thousand dollars for each violation.

City Delays Revaluation

Citing the half-million dollar price tag and the possibility that, in the near future, the state may take charge of property assessment, Newton Mayor Monte G. Basbas announced Monday that the city's hoped-for revaluation would be postponed.

The revaluation was to have been based on a so-called "full and fair" system, with all property assessed at its market value, instead of the present practice of assessing at a rate nearing 50 per cent of market value.

Basbas originally announced his intention of seeking funds for a revaluation last fall, having noted that many complaints were made that older homes in Newton were being assessed at lower percentages of their market value than newer homes. The "full and fair" system is supposed to do away with the inequities in assessments.

Peace Of Mind Goal Of Local Sitter Service

Married couples with references, possibly with children of their own and definitely possessing good character, a sense of responsibility and sound judgment—these are the types of people whom Mr. and Mrs. Roger L. Plante of Dover, founders of University Home Services, Inc., have available to perform numerous home tasks which might best be described as family-sitting.

Some of the services offered are babysitting, chaperoning, food serving, house watching and tutoring, all done by the qualified couple who have come to the client's home so that the parents or guardians may feel assured that all is well while they are away on extended trips.

To "avoid any strained relationship when the couple arrives to babysit," Plante indicates, University Home Services requires an interview between family and sitters prior to the sitting period, when that is feasible. "The children, having already met the couple," Plante adds, "would be looking forward to spending the time with their new sitters."

Computer-Composer, Developed Here, In Smithsonian Exhibit

The Muse, a desk top musical computer-composer developed by Triadex, Inc., Newton, has been accepted by the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C., for display in the National Museum of History and Technology's Division of Music.

The Muse joins the original Edison tin foil phonograph and over 4,000 other musical instruments in a collection which represents unique modes of musical instrumentation since the 16th century.

The Muse was presented recently to the Smithsonian by Alvin R. Mulica, Vice President of Triadex, and accepted for the Smithsonian by Assistant Director Silvio Bedini.

The Muse is the first musical computer designed for the consumer market. It will become part of a special Smithsonian exhibit - "Music Machines American Style." The Muse, with its accompanying computerized colored light show, will be added to this exhibit as part of a special section to feature the development of electronic musical devices in America.

Said Mrs. Cynthia Hoover of the Division of Music, "The purpose of the exhibit will be to show the impact of science and invention on the performance, reproduction and dissemination of music in America."

The Muse is the invention of Professors Edward Fredkin and Marvin Minsky of Cambridge. Fredkin and Minsky are two of the nation's leading experts in the field of artificial intelligence. They developed the Muse jointly, Fredkin working in his basement, Minsky in his kitchen. Both share a love of music.

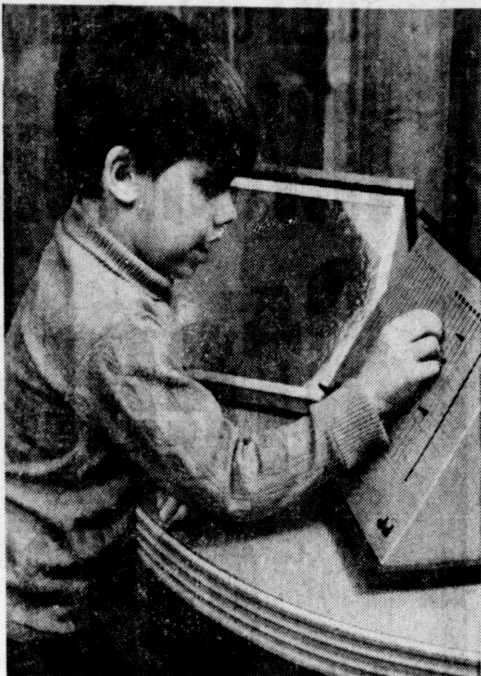

Says Fredkin, "My motivation in designing the Muse was to develop a more humanistic application of computer technology. Basically in the world there are but two ways to deal with music. Either one becomes a professional by devoting a great part of one's life to music, or one reacts in a pleasant, and perhaps creative way to music. In this machine we offer the opportunity to bridge these extremes. The Muse offers one the capability of being musically creative without being technically proficient; and, in addition, the musically trained can carry the capabilities of a machine like this to greater levels."

Ted Lagodimos, Music Director of Triadex, in demonstrations of the Muse at schools and universities, has found enthusiastic response. Five-year-olds in a kindergarten class in Long Island, N.Y., are finding pleasure in creating and taping electronic compositions using the Muse and rhythm instruments.

Fredkin, who is Chairman of XYZ Corp., parent company of Triadex, and John D. Johnson, Jr., President of Triadex, have found that a musical computer-composer priced thousands of dollars lower than other competitors has created great interest among young people.

A publicly owned company, Gladding Corp., is producing 15,000 Muse units a year, representing $1.8 million in Triadex sales. Thousands of units are already in stores in New York, Boston, Washington, Baltimore and eight other key American cities, plus Toronto and Montreal. There is also other international distribution.

The Muse is a graphic application of a binary system, whose logic pattern controls

EXPLORES THE MUSE — Joshua Waldorf, age 6, son of Rabbi and Mrs. Frank W. Waldorf, of Newton Centre, explores some of the 14-trillion note combinations possible with a new musical computer-composer, the Muse, a Newton product.

the development and variations of a melody. It produces the tones of the diatonic major scale: C, D, E, F, G, A, B, C, but with no sharps or flats. The model currently in production has a total range of six octaves, compared with seven on a piano.

Over 14 trillion different melodies or tonal patterns are possible with the front-panel slide switches. Four short slide switches control the volume, tempo, pitch and fine pitch. Eight slide switches control the interval, or notes, to be played, as well as the theme, or sequence, in which the notes are heard. Each piece of music will develop according to the settings each time it is played.

The programming will determine the duration of theme variation, until it begins anew. One piece, named "Michael's Tune," will play variations 24 hours a day for 30 years without repeating itself.

Because the Muse creates one note at a time, it is not a synthesizer in the conventional sense of being able to add or subtract harmonics to or from a basic tone.

Says co-inventor Minsky, "A synthesizer makes tone qualities, but no melodies. The Muse does just the opposite. It makes interesting musical line structures."

Product design for the Muse is by Selame Design Associates, well known New England corporate design firm. Housed in a triangular box, the Muse has a face approximately 14 by 12 inches. In one corner is a 5-watt speaker. The remainder of the panel contains the 16 control switches.

Two or more Muses can be linked together by using one as a master clock to control the others. In this way, two, three or even four-part harmony can be produced.

Composer Tony Luisi of Philadelphia, Pa., has used the Muse to create a series of compositions for TV and movie.

soundtracks. Channel 5, Boston, has been using the Muse and its light show as background for TV visuals.

In theatrical applications, producer John Bos of the University of Pennsylvania plans to create Muse music for a series of multi-media events at the University's Annenberg Center for the performing arts. The Cambridge Community Players have used the Muse with a jazz quartet for improvisational theater.

By next Christmas the Muse will be in the holiday catalogs of major stores — and "Michael's Tune" may be in the hearts of thousands of Americans, along with the familiar Christmas carols.

Record Building Low In February

Seasonable inclement weather, soaring construction costs, the sluggish pace of the national economy and the continuing drop in commercially attractive sites contributed to February's being the slowest building month in Newton in at least 16 years (the period for which the Building Department has records).

Only 13 building permits were issued last month, and none of them were for new structures. The financial value of the construction covered by the permits was $18,863, which compares unfavorably with the $84,050 for February, 1970, and shows up even worse in comparison with the February 1966, amount of $169,975.

The February permits involved applications for the erection of signs and alterations on several residential and non-residential structures.

MRS. MARSHALL D. LEVINE

Alexandra Zavelle Becomes Mrs. Marshall D. Levine

At a traditional Quaker wedding in Wellesley Friends Meeting on Saturday, March 6, Miss Alexandra Zavelle became the bride of Dr. Marshall David Levine.

School Principal Speaker At DAR Meeting in Newton

The members of the Lucy Jackson Chapter DAR of Newton Lower Falls, heard Mr. Richard Whittemore, principal of the Hillside School for boys in Marlborough, Mass., at their March 8th meeting.

Mr. Whittemore's subject was "Past, Present, and Future of the Hillside School." It is known that this boarding school is for the "promising boy with a promising future."

A slide-talk program enabled Mr. Whittemore to show pictures and case studies of three Hillside boys... a follow-up of yesterday's student, today's student and a graduate student. Guidance, special help with Hillside-home-life type of environment, provides the boys with the support and the opportunity to realize their full potential, developing fine character and eventually producing good citizens.

Since the DAR is a strong supporter of this school, Mr. Whittemore's talk was most enthusiastically received.

TV Commercial May Become A Wedding Classic

By KATHLEEN NEUMEYER

UPI — A ballad written as a ditty for a television commercial for a bank is supplanting "Oh Promise Me" at weddings.

Paul Williams, 30, the lyricist for "We've Only Just Begun," said he received more than 50 requests to use the song at nuptials before sheet music for it even was published.

Several hundred high school and colleges have asked permission to use the words as the theme for their yearbooks.

Williams and his partner, Roger Nichols, wrote the song more than a year ago when an advertising agency, Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne, needed music for a commercial for Crocker-Citizens National Bank.

LONG WAY TO GO
The commercial features a short film of a wedding, with the first two verses of "We've Only Just Begun" played in the background. As the newlyweds leave on their honeymoon, the words, "You've got a long way to go. We'd like to help you get there," flash across the screen, and the name of the bank.

"We wrote the third verse for their second commercial," Williams said. "That one shows a man leaving for his first day on a new job and his wife seeing him off. We wrote a bridge between the verses and had the song."
"Mark Lindsay recorded it on an album, then The Carpenters came out with the single, which has sold about two million copies so far."
Williams, a small, round man with shoulder-length, fine blond hair, began writing lyrics three years ago.
"I was an actor," he said, "but I don't know if I gave up acting or it gave me up."
He was filming "The Chase" with Marlon Brando when he began fiddling with the guitar of a fellow cast member, and wrote his first song.

OTHER HITS
He has had hits with "Out in the Country" sung by Three Dog Night, "The Drifter" by Steve Lawrence, and "Someday Man" by the Monkees. "We've Only Just Begun" has been recorded by Dionne Warwick, Lawrence Welk, Glen Campbell, Jerry Vale and Claudine Longet, among others.
"Before this song my publishers called me a writer of standards that never were hits," Williams said.
"I try to write about the positive side of life. God knows there's enough negativity," Williams said.
"I'm a rank sentimentalist and I like my songs to have a message, but I believe a spoonful of sugar helps the medicine go down."

Some High School Students In Hub Acted Like Hoodlums

How far should high school students be allowed to go in demanding changes in the school they attend?

That question has been posed as a result of recent developments in Boston which saw students boycott their classes, create disturbances, hold public rallies, meet with the School Committee and advance suggestions and demands of varying degrees of merit.

The answer of most people is that the students should be allowed to advance suggestions and that any constructive proposals be adopted but that they should not be permitted to rule a school system.

Most persons, including educators, lean far over backwards in dealing with demonstrating high school students because of the reluctance to terminate the formal education of a boy or girl, 17 or 18 years old.

There is substantial evidence, however, that responsible public leaders, newspapers, television and radio stations, directly or indirectly, gave too much attention and encouragement to the striking students in Boston.

This culminated eventually, as was almost inevitable, with students from three other high schools breaking down the main door of Boston Latin School with a long and running through the school breaking windows and injuring two students. They finally were thrown out by members of the Boston Latin School football team.

That was sheer, unadulterated hoodlumism. It was a disruptive action intended to interfere with the rights of those students at the Latin School who desired to pursue their studies.

As Boston School Committeeman John J. Craven observed, it's impossible to run a good school system without discipline, and the Boston high school students who engaged in disorders showed a clear lack of discipline.

Craven was the target of some criticism for adopting a hard line toward the students when they disregarded initial appeals that they return to their classrooms while their demands were being considered.

He proposed that students over 16 years of age who refused to go to school be dropped from the school rolls; that students under 16 who remained away from classes be disciplined as truants; and that outside agitators who encourage students to remain out of school be prosecuted in court for doing so.

Subsequent development, including the unruly invasion of Boston Latin School, indicated that Craven knew what he was talking about. He outlined a formula which school officials would do well to study when a disorderly band of students decide they don't want to go to school.

Rabbi Zuckerman Begins Joint Education Series

The Combined Adult Education Series sponsored jointly by Temples Emeth, Emanuel, Reyim and Mishkan Tefila will begin with the opening lecture to be delivered next Tuesday evening (March 16) by Rabbi Arthur J. Zuckerman. A second lecture will be given by a noted scholar.

The series will offer 10 courses beginning at 8 p.m. with the first one to be on the topic "The Jewish Student Rebellion—Evaluation and Prescription." On this subject Rabbi Zuckerman declares "It is essential to distinguish between two fundamentally different kinds of radical Jewry. The other rejects what he finds in contemporary Jewry because of his vision, sometimes utopian, of what Judaism is capable of becoming."

Rabbi Zuckerman, director of Hillel at the City College of New York since 1945, holds a Ph.D. in Jewish History from Columbia University. He is Adjunct Professor of History at the City University of New York, Professor of Medieval Jewish Civilization at the Reconstruction Rabbinical College and member of the editorial board of "The Reconstructionist".

A graduate of City College of New York, he is a native of New York City. Upon ordination as rabbi by the Hebrew Union College Jewish Institute of Religion, he received the Henry Morgenthau Jr. Traveling Scholarship for study at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem and at the University of Vienna in Austria. He was Visiting Professor in Medieval Jewish History at the Institut International d'Etudes Hebraiques in Paris in 1956, and carried out intensive research in the major archives of the south of France in towns which had once been great centers of medieval Jewish life. He received an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from the Hebrew Union College, Jewish Institute of Religion in 1957. He was organizer and first director of the Hillel Foundation of Michigan State College and at the University of Washington.

Rabbi Zuckerman's second and concluding lecture on March 23 is called a "Reconstructionist Appraisal of American Jewry." A question period will follow the lectures and refreshments will be served. Registration is open to the general public and is free to students.

Quinn Charged In Court Suit

Newton Police Chief William F. Quinn, in a civil rights suit filed in Boston's Federal Court last Friday (March 5), was charged by a city patrolman of violating the latter's rights as guaranteed by the 14th Amendment of the Constitution.

Patrolman Walter B. Haywood's suit seeks to enjoin Chief Quinn from depriving the officer of regular hours (he was put on the night shift recently) and overtime benefits which Haywood alleges go to officers with less seniority.

Haywood unsuccessfully tried in February to get an injunction in the state courts. The Federal case will be heard by Judge W. Arthur Garrity, Jr.

Haywood has indicated there is no connection between the federal suit and the anticipated ruling of the State Supreme Judicial Court on the issue of Haywood's refusal to accept 200 hours punishment duty without pay for supposedly sleeping in a police vehicle. The officer's refusal was upheld in a Middlesex County Superior Court decision and the city appealed to the higher court.

Cute Gimmicks Used to Gyp The Homeowner

(UPI) — Beware of home improvement swindles, cautions a family economist. Dr. Gary Hansen, chairman of the Department of Family Economics and Management, University of Nebraska, said some of the most common tricks are:

—"You've won a prize!" Some salesmen use this gimmick to get a foot in the door and then sell you the latest improvements in siding, storm windows or burglar alarms.

—The fake bargain. The salesman offers you a "wholesale price for a home item because you've been chosen as a 'model' for your neighborhood.

—The phony emergency. Non-existent dangerous leaks are found in the water heater or pipes in your home.

—Bait and switch. Extremely low prices are quoted in advertisements, and when you respond you're encouraged to buy a better product.

Newton Tigers Lose To Somerville In Tourney

By BOB WORDEN

Paced by a 28 point output by 62 guard Frank DiLegro coupled with a Newton 2 point fourth quarter, Somerville continued their yearly Tech Tournament domination, ousting the Tigers 55-37.

After three periods of play Somerville had a mere three point cushion but, a tight zone along with a shooting display by DiLegro ended a fantastic season for the Suburban League Champions.

The Tigers shot a dismal 11 in the final stanza and 15-51 from the floor. Bob Loughlin led the scoring parade for Newton chipping in with 11 points. Jeff Dunn added 10 markers and guard combination Chuck Pendergast and Mike Blauer had 14 between them.

The first period was a close one all the way. Bob Collins put Somerville ahead at the first check point 14-12 on a 25-footer. Newton evened the count early at 16-16 on a lay-up by junior Steve Platt.

Pendergast stole the ball near the conclusion of the period and dashed the length of the court like a streak of white lightning and layed the ball in to leave the Garden City within two points, 23-25 at the half.

Loughlin put the Tigers within one point late in the third period on a twisting drive that made Elgin Baylor look sick. Then Mike Fahey hit a bomb moments before the end to give Somerville a slim 38-35 three-quarter lead. It was all Somerville after that. DiLegro hit on two quick jumpers and Newton just couldn't get untracked. Loughlin hit the Tigers first, hoop after a 5:17 lull. But, that was all Newton could put on the board.

Some Facts on Soccer Personalities — Chris Williams of the Astros is the only player-coach in Pro Soccer who was born in America. Jack Mensill who was the coach of the Beacons is now the General Manager of Reading in the English League. Also, Patty Mulligan who was a Beacon Fullback is now a regular on Ireland's International Team and is also with Chelsea in the English first division.

There are approximately 40 semi-pro teams who are so fed up with this State Association that they are going to drop out of the U.S.S.F.A. and start their own league. Is this progress? I don't think so. In the past years there has been more growth in soccer outside of the State Association than in it. At the rate they are going, they will be a state association with no leagues, teams, players or referees.

Sideline comments: It was a great season for the black and orange. They beat out not only Brookline but Brockton. Brockton is launching a serious drive to the Class A crown. And wouldn't it be sweet for a Suburban League team to win all the marbles.

Newton was really tight for this encounter and they had their problems at the free throw line, shooting 7-19. See you around and about . . .

Soccer Talk

By PAUL ELDRIDGE

On February 28 the election of officers for the State Association was held. The Soccer Breakthrough Committee's slate of candidates went into the election with five votes to none for the incumbents, yet lost 4-2. This is how it happened. One of the delegates, who was also an officer, did not vote the way his league told him to vote.

Two of the established leagues were told that they could not vote. Then they brought in three new leagues nobody had even heard of — one from New Hampshire and two from Rhode.

These leagues were represented by the sons and nephews of the aforementioned officers of the State Association. None of this shenanigan can be blamed on the National Association of the U.S.S.F.A. as they have a policy of staying out of the internal affairs of the State Association unless they are asked to interfere.

I think the time has come for the National officers to step in and straighten out the mess and declare this farce of an election null and void. I would also like to advise the BAYS to hold off joining the U.S.S.F.A. until this situation is straightened out. You have a great league as it is now — don't ruin it by getting involved with the present State Association.

Newton Gymnasts Split In Final Season Meets

Andy Cohen captured three events in one meet and won one in a second meet as the Newton South High gymnastics team split its final two meets of the season, last week.

Cohen was the driving force behind the Lions' 85.8 to 76.65 victory over Weymouth Worth. The senior who has led the Lions for the last two years, took the high bars, parallel bars, and the rings. Plus, he added a third in the long horse.

The graduating captain had plenty of help, though, as seven different additional South teammates scored. Skip Singer and Gary Framson, notched places 2-3 in the floor exercise event, Albi Shapiro and Dan Dinkel went 1-2 in the side horse, Leon Righe was third in the high bar. Doing Lane placed second in the long horse and Billy Milgroom gathered second-place points in the rings.

South won four events and placed two men in every event, but the parallel bars in a very convincing triumph.

The story was somewhat different later in the week when South closed out its season with a 94.4 to 87.9 loss to powerful, 8-2 Natick High.

Cohen was again the individual star, taking the rings and grabbing seconds in the high bar and parallel bars. Tighe, high bar and Shapiro, side horse, also won. Lane, a second, and Doug Levine, a third were the only other Lion scorers.

South Matmen Take Third In State Champ Contests

Co-captains Steve Etkin, 135 pounds, and Bill Hurwitz, 115, each finished second in his specialty to spark the Newton South Lion wrestling team to a third-place finish in the state championships, last week at Wayland Field House.

South tallied 44 points to record its highest team finish ever. Wayland and Lowell tied for the title with 75 points. The Lions, 15-1 in dual matches were runners-up to Wayland in the Eastern Sectionals two weeks ago and suffered their only loss of the year at the hands of the Warriors.

Etkin, whose record was the same as the team's this winter, and 37-2 in three years of dual matches was decided by Lowell's Rich Frietas, 9-3 in the finals. Hurwitz was topped by John Henderson of Billerica, 7-2.

One hundred and eight pounder, Mike Forman grappled his way to a third-place finish with a 2-0 victory in the consolation. John Frieze, 170 pound category, was awarded a referee's split decision, also for third place. And Arman Kojoyan, son of Coach Aredis Kojoyan, wrestled his way to fourth place in the state in the 188-pound class.

County Hospital '71 Budget Is Explained

The 1971 budget requested by Middlesex County Hospital is $3.9 million - an increase of only 9.2 per cent of what was requested for 1970. The major portion of this increase is for 31 additional nursing positions which would allow the hospital to open additional chronic care units a hospital spokesman said.

The increase also reflects hoped for increases in basic nursing salaries and regades for present nursing staff it was stated. Hearings before the state legislature's Committee on Counties have already been held on a bill submitted by the Massachusetts Nurses Association which would raise county nurses' salaries to the same level as state employed nurses. At present, county nurses are the lowest paid nurses in Middlesex County it was asserted.

Since the hospital has been unable to offer competitive salaries, a number of nursing positions have remained unfilled. This has prevented the hospital's opening of a second 20-bed chronic unit. The hospital has a waiting list of patients needing the type of rehabilitation services emphasized at Middlesex County Hospital.

Hospital officials feel there is no "fat" in the proposed budget. Although the hospital is under pressure to re-open all of its units, the entire hospital cannot be re-opened until the new positions are made available. The 200-bed hospital is presently only half open. State regulations require a minimum number of nurses per patient thus the remaining beds can not be opened until the necessary number of nursing positions are approved.

If all the requested nursing positions are approved and nurses can be found to fill them, it would allow the hospital to open all of its licensed bed space.

When the hospital is entirely re-opened it will operate at a much more economical cost, as certain costs are constant whether the hospital is entirely open or only partially so, the spokesman pointed out.

Last year the ratio of personnel salaries within the budget was 68.25 per cent and it is expected that this will be about the same in 1971. This is well within the proper scope of any operating budget. (Exact figures will not be known until after the legislature acts on the bill concerning the proposed pay increases and on the hospital budget.)

No new equipment or other departures from former budgets are included in the 1971 budget. The only major structural renovation requested is $60,000 for additional bathrooms. These are required by the State Department of Public Health under its licensing regulations. (The number of bathroom facilities per number of patients required for licensing by the state has been increased since the hospital was built just over 40 years ago.)

The budget also includes the annual requests for contractual maintenance to repair the leaky roof, re-pointing its brick walls and repairing the tilting chimney. These requests have been granted in the past, but the funds have not been used because the budget was passed too late in the year to get the contracts let and repairs made before bad weather prevented such outside work. These contracts must be let and used during the calendar year and can not be carried over until spring of the following year.

The budget is presently being reviewed by the County Commissioners. After they revise the budget, it will be submitted to the state legislature's Committee on Counties is expected to begin in March.

The hospital budget is submitted to the state legislature and voted on separately from that of the general county budget as required by law. The budget is usually not passed until June, forcing the hospital to borrow money to operate under until passage. It also prevents the hospital from opening additional units because it is not known which sections of the requested budget will be approved. This is a line item budget. In other words, funds must be used only for specifically stated things, the spokesman pointed out.

Rep. Guzzi Supports Bill For Bilingual Education

Adding his voice to the chorus of concern raised over a "literary gap," State Representative Paul H. Guzzi of Newton testified last week before the legislature's Joint Committee on Education to express support of a measure that would provide bilingual education in the Commonwealth's public schools.

Families with non-English speaking backgrounds are coming to reside in Massachusetts in increasing numbers, Guzzi declared in citing Newton as one community which would benefit from the proposed bill because of its significant Italian speaking population.

Guzzi described the "one generation literary gap" that tends to develop from the schools' inadequate language courses as having an adverse effect on the income potential of persons with poor ability in the reading and speaking of English.

children of "limited English speaking" ability in one language classification must establish a transitional bilingual education program for all the children in the language classification. The Commonwealth would reimburse the local school districts for the extra costs of providing bilingual education.

3. For the creation of a special unit in the department of education to help administer bilingual programs throughout the Commonwealth.

4. For full parent participation in the planning and evaluation of the bilingual programs serving those children.

5. For teachers' aides and community coordinators to assist in the teaching and implementation of the program and also for a director of bilingual education in each district serving 200 or more children.

Bureau Established

Washington — The internal national bureau of weights and measures which set up the metric system of measurements was established here in 1875.

We didn't make it any easier to look at. Just easier to drive.

You'd never know it to look at it, but that's a Super Beetle without a clutch pedal.

What it does have is something called an automatic stick shift. "Automatic" because you can drive it up to 55 mph without shifting at all. "Stick shift" because you shift it when you go over 55. Once.

And that's just to help you save gas. (In keeping with a grand old Volkswagen tradition.)

As a matter of fact, this Super Beetle still gives you 25 miles to the gallon. It still takes only an occasional can of oil. And it still won't go near water or antifreeze.

If it were anything but a Super Beetle, you'd probably pay dearly for all this luxury. Instead, the Super Beetle with an automatic stick shift costs a mere $XXXX.*

All of which reinforces what we've been saying for 25 years.

(Courtesy Massachusetts Department Agriculture)

The sap is beginning to run in the sugar maples, says the Mass. Dept. of Agriculture, and this is the first sign of returning spring, despite the deep snow still in the Berkshire woods.

Massachusetts produces some 40 to 50 thousand gallons of pure maple syrup each season, all of which comes to market unmixed, as syrup and as maple candy. Most of our producers are in the Berkshires, and many welcome visitors at sugaring-off time.

A request to the MDA, 100 Cambridge street, Boston 02202, will bring a folder describing the process and a list of sugar houses open to the public.

Greenhouse cucumbers from nearby farms have begun to appear on produce counters, another welcome early sign of spring. The greenhouse cukes are distinguished by the bright green color of the natural skin. They have no preservative added, so there is no sticky or waxy feeling to the skin.

Native eggs continue in the Best Buy category, as do broilers, roasting chickens and fowl. Butternut and blue Hubbard squash are still plentiful. Crisp-Aire apples, greenhouse lettuce, native parsnips are all Best Buys this week.

Newtonville Garden Club Hears Slide — Talk On Charles River

Miss Lucy Fisher, a retired professor at Wellesley College, gave an illustrated talk and exhibit on "The Lure and Lore of the Charles River, Past and Present" at the Newtonville Garden Club recently at the Newtonville Library Hall.

Miss Fisher traced the history of the river from the days when explorers of the new continent discovered it, through Colonial days. Several slides and prints of old Newton were shown. The problems of the river today with encroachment and pollution, concluded the program.

She urged people to become involved by joining associations interested in ecology and serving on working committees.

Mrs. Mary Freniere's second grade class from Cabot School, who are studying about the Charles River, were special guests.

Mrs. Charles Laffin, club president, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Charles Peterson has been appointed nominating chairman. Mrs. Edmund Anthony announced that the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts has arranged a trip to Majorca for interested members and their immediate families for eight days in April.

Mrs. Walter Brown, conservation chairman, gave a report on "recycling." She noted that metals, paper and glass can be recycled, but plastics do not lend themselves to this process.

Mrs. Wallace Moyle, who is currently teaching in Boston one morning a week with the "Growing Thing" program sponsored by the Garden Club Federation, presented a report on this project which she said is being enthusiastically received.

Men's Wear ...

Best Ways to Care For What You Wear

By WALTER LOGAN

If this so-called permissive age ends up getting lipstick on the collar of your wool suit you probably can remove it by rubbing it with a clean cloth dampened in cold water. If that doesn't work a little detergent might help.

If you get lipstick on your shirt collar you're in real trouble but you can loosen it up for washing with a little petroleum jelly, and try to explain that. If it looks greasy put the fabric face down on a blotter and sponge the back with cleaning fluid.

If you're buying shoes, don't hurry - most of the corns and callouses in this country are caused by people who buy their shoes too hastily. If they are too tight and you don't have a shoe horn use a piece of waxed paper at the back.

If you are storing woolen clothes wrap them in old newspapers since moths and silverfish hate the smell of old newspapers. If you have any newspapers left over stuff the pockets of your wet raincoat with it and the corners will dry out faster.

If your cufflinks, tie tacks and other jewelry are looking tawdry shine them up with toothpaste. If you wear French cuffs on your shirts have them rolled instead of creased and then there won't be any creases to get dirty. And if you are storing lightweight cotton shirts see they are freshly laundered without starch - silverfish like starch.

If your closet is too crowded the clothes will press together and wrinkle themselves. If it is damp the clothes will get mildewed and if it is too damp you can keep a small light burning in the closet.

If you drive at night wear light colored gloves - then people can see your hand signals. If you get nicotine stains on your fingers you can get rid of them with a teaspoon of baking soda and enough lemon juice to make a thick paste.

Rainy Weather

If you are out in the rain the bottom of your trousers leg probably will get wet below the raincoat. If you want to stay reasonably well pressed, press the seam back with your fingers and it will look better. If you hang up a damp suit it will shed wrinkles better if you shake it vigorously first to straighten out the fibers.

If you wear the new wider ties and are prone to spot them by dribbling food down your chin you can avoid the spots by wearing a napkin in your collar, bib fashion. If you do get spots on a silk tie you can dust them with talcum powder and then brush them out.

If you get mud spots on your trouser legs from rainy weather hang them up to dry and then brush off the mud. If that doesn't work wet them again and rub out the mud. If that doesn't work better send them to a cleaner.

If you want your shirt collars to roll in a more dashing way use folded pipe cleaners instead of stays and roll them anyway you want to. If you put on five pounds your shirt size can go up half a size and your old ones will feel too tight.

If you get blood stains on a washable shirt soak in cold water for 30 minutes. If that doesn't work soak in lukewarm ammonia water (3 teaspoons per gallon) and it should come out. But if it is just cranberry juice and not blood, soak in plain cold water.

If you still wash your wool socks roll them up in a terry cloth towel when you're finished - this hurries drying and limits shrinking. And if you wash out the insides of your rubbers and galoshes occasionally your shoes will still be shiny when you take off the outer wrappings.

If you are buying a new suit wave your arms around in the air to see if it feels comfortable. If you have your suit hand pressed instead of just steam pressed it will keep its shape longer.

Swedish Polar Expert Retraces Perry's Trip

By BJOERN F. HOEHEM
UPI — An Italian and a Norwegian-born Swede plan to repeat the 1909 North Pole expedition of American explorer Adm. Robert E. Perry.

It will probably be the last big expedition tackling the vast polar region in northern Greenland without use of today's modern equipment.

Swedish Leader

The Swedish polar expert and commercial air navigator Einar Sverre Pedersen, 51, will lead the expedition.

Many contemporary polar explorers doubted that Perry actually found the geographical North Pole during his expedition 60 years ago. But no one doubts that Pedersen will lead the expedition to the right place. The Chief navigator of the Scandinavian Airlines System SAS is recognized by experts as one of the world's leading polar explorers.

Pedersen designed the polar gyro, a navigation instrument that made commercial air traffic over the North Pole possible. Pedersen himself has flown over the pole about 200 times.

Using sleighs drawn by 300 Eskimo dogs, the trek will set out from Qanaq in Greenland sometime in February.

Trek Initiator

The expedition's initiator is Italian explorer Guido Monzini. He will be accompanied on the journey by Pedersen, seven other Europeans, a Chilean and 25 Eskimos.

Eskimo women in Qanaq are currently making garments from polar bear fur while the men are building the sleighs and training the dogs, Pedersen said.

"All nylon clothes are banned. Monzini has been eager to make the expedition a true copy of Perry's adventure."

The Eskimos taking part in the expedition are descendants of those who took part in Perry's journey, he said.

Two of the Eskimos actually claim to be grandsons of Perry, who spent long periods in Greenland.

No dinner, but . . .

CUZCO, Peru (UPI) — ON Holy Thursday in this Peruvian mountain village, families eat a 12-course lunch, including soup, potatoes, mutton, and other dishes, and a series of desserts. It also is the custom to have no dinner on Holy Thursday.

BY MICHAEL DENNIGAN

One night 100 years ago a group of gourmets sat down in a Paris restaurant for a rare meal. Even for Paris it was rare.

The menu included: "Consomme of dog with canary seed: Brochettes of dog liver a la maitre d'hotel: Mincee saddle of cat with sauce mayonnaise . . . Dog cutlets with peas: Ragout of rat a la robert . . . Chicory salad . . . Plum pudding with sauce and horse marrow: Desserts and wines."

In those days, the freezing winter of 1870-71, this was a feast. For Paris was in the third month of its siege by the Prussian armies. The population did not have enough to eat, there was real suffering and hardship and in the zoo there were no more elephants, zebras, buffalo or snakes.

The zoo beasts had all been slaughtered to provide food for the hungry Parisians, daily braving Prussian shelling of the city. They were cut off from the bountiful French countryside.

Exhibitions, anniversary meetings and speeches in Paris have been marking the 100th anniversary of the great siege. But the siege, which led the French to invent airmail by using balloons and to use microfilm for the first time, also had its lighter side.

Matched Horses Eaten While official figures reported in the newspapers of the day record that the Parisians ate a total of 25,523 cats, there was no count of the horses, dogs and sparrows that graced the tables of the besieged city. It is known, however, that among the horses eaten were a matched pair presented to the emperor by the czar of Russia in happier times.

There were other problems: Report from general commanding the fort of Vincennes, Dec. 16, 1870: "Chief of 200th battalion, drunk. At least half the men, drunk. Impossible to assure the service. Obligated to relieve them of their posts. In these conditions, the national guard is a fatigue and an additional danger."

The national guard, 384,000 Parisian civilians enlisted at short notice to defend their city, tried to forget its problems. The guard was commanded by two generals and seven admirals. To hold the front line against the Prussians there were only 70,000 regular soldiers. The rest of the French army was prisoner, along with the emperor.

In the event, efforts were made to rally everybody. A proclamation in October, 1870, to the ladies of Paris, posted all over the city, called for 12,000 "Amazons of the Seine" to aid the national guard.

Their duties would be "all domestic and fraternal services compatible with moral order and military discipline." As well as learning to handle a rifle (with a range of 200 yards), they would be taught first aid, marching in military style and correct dress.

This was carefully described: "The costume of the Amazons of the Seine will consist of black trousers with orange stripes, a hooded black wool jacket, a black cap with orange piping, with cartridge pouches and bandolier as well," the proclamation said.

It described a curious mixture of today's pants suit and Arab guerrilla uniform.

Virtue Defense Scheme There was also a scheme to defend the virtue of Parisiennes if the worst happened and the "barbarian hordes" of Prussians roamed the city at will.

This was to equip all women with thimbles charged with prussic acid and attached to a hypodermic needle. The inventor, Jules Allix, described the scene as he saw it: "They prick the bothersome Prussians and they remain clean and pure, leaving a circle of dead men all around them."

There also was the question of hitting back at the Prussian besiegers before they got too close. Many politicians demanded the city shower the invaders with "Greek fire" — flaming liquid used with great effect as a tactical weapon during the Crusades.

Under the rain of Krupp shells falling on the city, the politicians gave up the idea, especially when - as recorded in the newspapers of the day - it was decided that Greek fire burned only things and people that were wet. There were some calls to invent a gun able to spray the Prussians with hot water, but the debate never got any further.

In January, 1871, Krupp's cannons poured shells on Paris at the rate of three a minute. Twenty-two days later the Parisians capitulated, and the upshot of the war was their surrender of border territory to expanding Germany.

The seeds were sown for two world wars in the space of 70 years, and the loss of millions of lives on five continents.

Theatrical Experiment By Players Wednesday

An innovative theatrical experiment will be tried at the general meeting of the Newton Country Players next Wednesday (March 17) at the Pomroy Playhouse, 84 Eldredge St., Newton Corner. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

Following a brief business meeting, THE CONTRACT, a one act play by Joseph Golden, directed by Donald Auspitz, will be offered in two extremely different ways. Using two casts, the play will first be presented in a life like manner, the purpose being to make the audience forget that they are in a theatre, watching actors. Dona Thorman and Howard Rosenfield play the roles of an aging movie star and her contract representative in this naturalistic version. In the second approach, the play will be shown in a visual, stylized, intellectual form, using the actors as performers . . . not real people . . . never allowing the audience to forget that they are in a theatre! Pat Pellos and Randy Radkay assume the roles in this most unusual rendition.

After the intriguing comedy is interpreted from two points of view, the director, Mr. Auspitz, will lead the audience in a discussion. It is a theatrical experiment not to be missed. Everyone is invited to attend as guests of the players, and join the group in coffee after the meeting.

There was also a scheme to defend the virtue of Parisiennes if the worst happened and the "barbarian hordes" of Prussians roamed the city at will.

This was to equip all women with thimbles charged with prussic acid and attached to a hypodermic needle. The inventor, Jules Allix, described the scene as he saw it: "They prick the bothersome Prussians and they remain clean and pure, leaving a circle of dead men all around them."

There also was the question of hitting back at the Prussian besiegers before they got too close. Many politicians demanded the city shower the invaders with "Greek fire" — flaming liquid used with great effect as a tactical weapon during the Crusades.

Under the rain of Krupp shells falling on the city, the politicians gave up the idea, especially when - as recorded in the newspapers of the day - it was decided that Greek fire burned only things and people that were wet. There were some calls to invent a gun able to spray the Prussians with hot water, but the debate never got any further.

In January, 1871, Krupp's cannons poured shells on Paris at the rate of three a minute. Twenty-two days later the Parisians capitulated, and the upshot of the war was their surrender of border territory to expanding Germany.

The seeds were sown for two world wars in the space of 70 years, and the loss of millions of lives on five continents.

County Democrats Make Plans For 4th Patriots' Day Dinner

Members of the Middlesex County Democratic Club, at a meeting recently at the Lexington Motor Inn, developed plans for their Fourth Annual Patriots' Day Banquet.

Tickets are now available for the holiday dinner-dance to be held Monday evening, April 19th, at the Marriott Motor Hotel, off Route 128, in Newton, the same location as last year, according to Attorney Joseph A. Travallone of Winchester, president.

A sizeable number of members at the meeting unanimously accepted the recommendations of a planning committee.

Attorney John A. Zamparelli of Medford, Register of Deeds for the Southern Middlesex District, was named general chairman of the dinner committee.

The annual gala of the county-wide Democratic Club has attracted outstanding state and national political and civic figures as guests during the past four years. Senator Edward M. Kennedy spoke before a capacity crowd of more than 450 people at last year's banquet.

The president told members that a committee under the chairmanship of District Attorney John J. Droney will make recommendations at a future meeting for another outstanding speaker at this year's event.

"The Middlesex County Democratic Club chose Patriots' Day for its annual banquet as a means of commemorating the holiday for its special significance to Middlesex County," President Travallone said. "Such a general and informal meeting was established to remind all citizens of their constitutional heritages as they developed from the American Revolution in 1776."

He said tickets, while available to the general public through any committee member of officer, were limited to the seating capacity. He urged all who wished to attend to make reservations at the earliest possible time to assure a seat.

During yesterday's meeting, various committee assignments were announced by the president and by the general chairman of the dinner committee.

Attorney John J. Bowers, vice president, of Lowell, will chair an arrangements committee which includes Executive Directors Attorney David I. Eilman of Wilmington, Attorney Charles Shea of Burlington and C. Brendan Noonan of Cambridge.

The administrative committee chairman is Attorney Lawrence Fahey of Belmont, treasurer of the organization, Attorney Richard Kelley, of Belmont, is chairman of the program committee, while ticket committee chairman is vice-president Azad Juknavorian of Lowell, in charge of membership workers is Ruth McMenimen of Lowell, secretary of the MCDC.

The entertainment committee members are under the direction of Frank Mahoney, Somerville. Attorney Joseph D. Naylor of Stoneham heads the hospitality committee. Francis E. Makarewicz and William C. McInerney of Lowell were named co-chairmen of the publicity section by the president.

Newtonville Intersection To Get Light

The State Department of Public Works has approved a Newton Traffic Commission request to install a traffic light at the corner of Brookside Avenue and Albemarle Road in Newtonville as a replacement for the crosswalk now at Watertown Street and Brookside Avenue.

The state agency recommended that the crosswalk be relocated on Watertown Street between the Horace Mann School and the Newtonville housing for the elderly, and that another crosswalk be added on the intersection's western side.

The DPW also notified the Traffic Commission of its approval of an application to make Crescent Street one way from Thornton to Waban Street.

Man Begins Battle Against Sahara Desert

By IVAN SVERINA

A dangerous invader is threatening the life of the West African republic of Mali, and the United Nations has moved in to help.

The invader is the Sahara Desert, whose sands are advancing inexorably southward upon Mali at the rate of three feet each year.

U.N. scientists have joined with Mali to stop the advance which, according to Josef Parkan of the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), will become critical for Mali in 15 to 20 years unless halted.

Part of the problem, in addition to the loss of arable land, is a steady migration of farmers from the area of Mali's cities, and resulting overcrowding and poverty.

4.5 Million Population Mali, with a territory of 584,942 square miles — twice the size of Texas — has a population of 4.5 million.

Parkan, a Czech, is a specialist in tropical forestry and chief technical adviser to UNESCO's rural Polytechnic Institute 60 miles north of the Mali capital of Bamako. He says people from the north have been drifting southward as fast or faster than the Sahara has been advancing along a 2,500-mile front.

The main job of the institute, which is financed by the U.N. development program, is to stop the spread of the Sahara through reforestation, crop rotation and the systematic feeding of cattle who hitherto have grazed.

According to Parkan the Sahara was manmade to begin with, and he believes what man has done he can undo.

Parkan says that paintings discovered in the heart of the Sahara show people swimming in water, and hunting, "which clearly proves that from 6,000 to 3,000 years ago, and even later, the desert as we know it had large reserves of water and the kind of vegetation we have to go so far south today to find."

Temple Reyim's Kallah Weekend Starts March 19

Temple Reyim of Newton, at 1860 Washington Street, will hold its third annual Kallah Weekend beginning Friday of next week (March 19) with the evening services at 8:15. The guest speaker for the series of lectures and discussions, on the theme, "What Can A Modern Jew Believe?", will be Dr. Trude Weiss - Rosmarin, editor of The Jewish Spectator.

Friday evening services will include a talk on "God, Meaning and Definitions;" an "Oneg Shabbat" and discussion will follow. Sabbath services, on the morning of March 20, will be followed by a luncheon and then by the second lecture, on "Man and His World — The Jewish View of the Secular City," with discussion following.

On Sunday morning, March 21, the final lecture, "The Rationale and the Road of Jewish Eternity," will be preceded by coffee at 10:30. As well as the question periods after the lectures, a follow-up discussion will be held the next Sunday, March 28, with Rabbi Philip Kieval.

Dr. Weiss - Rosmarin teaches Jewish philosophy and history in the New York University Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. Her writings and lectures have had a significant impact on contemporary Jewish thought and practice.

The committee for the Kallah Weekend is chaired by Gerald N. Cohen, and includes Mrs. Joseph Appelbaum, Mrs. Saul Chipman, Mrs. Albert Miller, Dr. Theodore Singer, Dr. David Stollar, Mrs. Samuel Waldstein, and Mrs. Milton Weiss, working with the guidance of Rabbi Kieval.

1930s — too rapid and persistent deforestation and eventual erosion of fertile soil by over-use of the land without crop rotation.

Another UNESCO scientist, French archeologist Cyr Descamps of the Sorbonne University, recently discovered in the north of Mali a large bone fishhook used by fishermen today, also found in the sands, he said, was the vertebra of a giant fish.

In its race against time and the Sahara sands, the Mali Polytechnic Institute is drumming modern conservation methods into students who come 80 per cent from Mali but also from neighboring Dahomey, Togo, Upper Volta, Niger and Mauritania. Already, 60 graduates of the institute are out on the battle line, fighting the desert and modern know-how and methods.

The program also calls for Governor Francis W. Sargent to express the greetings of the Commonwealth, for humorist-cartoonist Al Capp to deliver the Lincoln Oration and for Attorney Charles H. Morin to present the annual report on "The State We're In."

Chairman Lowe indicated that the list of invited head table guests includes: U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot Richardson, U.S. Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe, Senator Edward W. Brooke, Lt. Governor Donald Dwight, the

Temple Emanuel Group Return From Israel Trip

Seventy members of Temple Emanuel of Newton have just completed one of the largest pilgrimages to Israel. This tour is part of an annual program recently initiated by the synagogue in its desire to create greater understanding of the State of Israel.

The Temple Emanuel Pilgrimage, which extended from February 11 to February 21, was led by Rabbi and Mrs. Samuel Chiel and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Suttenger. Mr. Suttenger is president of the Congregation and Mrs. Suttenger is President of Sisterhood.

The ten-day tour was filled with outstanding events. Visits to Jerusalem, Masada, Yad Vashem and several kibbutzim highlighted the trip.

The group's initial entrance into Jerusalem was on foot in the manner of pilgrims and they participated in services at the Western Wall. After the climb to the top of Masada, Rabbi Chiel spoke to the group at the fortress's synagogue, reminding the group of their responsibility to give renewed vigor to their religious commitment.

The visit to Yad Vashem, the Martyrs' Memorial to the Six Million, was an extremely moving albeit painful experience where Rabbi Chiel chanted the "El Moleh Rachamin" (Memorial for the Deceased) and led the entire group in the recitation of the Kaddish.

Jackson Home Acquires Two Letters On Early Life Here

The Jackson Homestead, Newton's city-owned museum at 527 Washington Street, has acquired two original and highly interesting letters dealing with the life and times of early Newton and of the state mansion's early residents, it was announced by Henry A. Blake, chairman of the Homestead's Board of Trustees.

In the announcement, Mr. Blake stated that the museum was indebted to the Rev. Charles Russell Peck, Vicar Emeritus of Boston's Old North Church for the gift of the letters to the Homestead.

The correspondence of March 1847 is between Thomas Hastings Russell and William Jackson whose consent he respectfully sought for "entering into a matrimonial engagement" with his ward, Maria Louisa Wiswall.

In his letter, as was then the custom, the suitor, who later had a long career as a State Street attorney, gave his background and qualifications, adding "I shall be extremely happy to give you any further reference as you may desire, or any information related to my business and business prospects."

Giving his consent, in reply, William Jackson, whose family occupied what is now the Jackson Homestead, wrote of the relationship between his wife and his ward, saying: "To her more than parental watchfulness, care, kindness, your truly interesting young friend owes much, very much, for what she is. The mutual maternal and filial affection which has always existed between them has invested this kind aunt with all the rights and privileges of a parent. Her approbation, therefore, to the union to which you allude will include mine."

Records indicate that Thomas Hastings Russell and Maria Louisa Wiswall were soon married on October 6, 1847 and raised a family of five children.

Maria Louisa Wiswall is no stranger to visitors of the Jackson Homestead where thousands have viewed her portrait, an early American primitive, displayed over the huge fireplace in the dining room. The portrait was also presented by Vicar Russell who is the present donor of the letters.

Maria Louisa herself was a descendant of one of Newton's earliest settlers. Early records reveal that she was orphaned just after her seventh birthday and that "the honorable William Jackson of Newton assumed trust of her guardianship." She was a member of the Jackson family, residing in the Homestead, and was always treated as such.

Roosevelt Day Dinner To Have Local Chairman

Mrs. Alan S. Korman of 404 Waltham Street, West Newton, is chairman of the twenty-third annual Roosevelt Day dinner of the Massachusetts Chapter of the Americans for Democratic Action, which will be held on March 13. At the Sheraton-Plaza Hotel, Copley Square, Boston.

Senator Harold Hughes of Iowa and Leonard Woodcock, President of the United Auto Workers, will be the featured speakers at the dinner.

Senator Hughes, who was elected to the United States Senate in 1968 after serving three terms as Governor of Iowa, is known nationally as a strong proponent of humanitarian issues and participatory politics.

He is chairman of the Senate's Alcoholism and Narcotics Subcommittee and probably the foremost spokesman nationally for progressive drug legislation. Mr. Woodcock, one of the most liberal of labor leaders, recently joined with six other union leaders to form an alliance with educators and students to lobby against the war in Indochina.

Attorney Gordon A. Martin, Jr. of 31 Grant Avenue, Newton Centre, is the chairman of ADA and will preside at the dinner, which is expected to attract some 1,000 persons from all over Massachusetts.

Tickets are available at the ADA office at 27 School Street.

Also on Friday, police were informed of an attempted entry into the Norumbega Council of Boy Scouts headquarters at 2044 Beacon Street in Waban.

The unsuccessful try was reported by council member Adolph Anderson who told police that jimmy marks were found on the front door.

Careers, Ecology Theme for Meeting of Medical Society

Medical careers and ecology were subjects for the joint meeting of the Charles River District Medical Society and the Women's Auxiliary to the Society held at the Sidney Hill Country Club in Newton recently.

The Health Career Mobile Unit sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary was open for inspection. The idea for this unique community service project originated with Mrs. Clinton Bagenstose, president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Massachusetts Medical Society and guest for the evening.

The Unit will spend the month of March visiting the different schools in the five towns of the Charles River District. Its purpose is to introduce both the guidance counselor and the school children to the many and varied health careers that abound today. The material describing about 200 of these avenues of study are brought directly to the school via this well equipped mobile unit.

It is hoped that the school children will become acquainted with health careers and if interested in further study, will be able to plan their curriculum accordingly.

During the summer months when schools are on vacation, the mobile unit was used as a drug abuse and information center. It was manned 24 hours a day by volunteer doctors and nurses to help people with drug problems.

The Unit also contains a film library on pertinent health subjects. These films are loaned free to any interested group as well as to the schools for viewing.

It is also noteworthy that at this meeting the members of the Charles River District Medical Society unanimously passed a resolution in favor of "a clean environment for the

Patrolman Cleared In August Shooting Death

Patrolman James M. Reddish, 27, a six-year veteran of the Brookline police force, was exonerated of wrongdoing in Newton District Court when Judge Francis J. Larkin ruled there was "no probable cause" of the manslaughter and assault with a dangerous weapon charges which resulted from the shooting death in Newton, last Aug. 11, of a Brookline youth.

Reddish claimed, and Defense Attorney John White argued, that the bullet which proved fatal to 14-year-old Leon Smith following a stolen car chase, was fired as a warning shot into the air, but went awry as the policeman slipped on some wet grass while squeezing the trigger.

The defendant's testimony differed greatly from that given by Mrs. Rose Hurwitz, 47, of 29 Mayflower Road, Chestnut Hill, who stated she witnessed the shooting, which occurred in the driveway of 41 Mayflower Road.

Responding to questioning by Prosecutor John Mee of the Middlesex District Attorney's office, Mrs. Hurwitz declared that Reddish "picked up his arm above his waist and fired a shot." She indicated that she was 12 to 15 feet from Reddish when the fatal shot went off, hitting Smith in the abdomen after the bullet had pierced a closed door of the garage which he had entered.

Mrs. Hurwitz said she could not remember the policeman saying anything, but that he did look "pale and overwrought." She also asserted, under cross-examination by Attorney White, that she was sure Reddish was stopped when he fired the shot.

The officer, when asked by White whether he had, at any time, pointed his gun at the fleeing youth or if the boy had been in his line of vision when the gun was fired, answered negatively to both inquiries.

Reddish, suspended from the Brookline Police Department immediately after the incident, was reinstated Jan. 21 and assigned to perform clerical duties.

Several Hearings Held Here On Monday Night

A group of Newton Centre residents turned out on Monday night to express opposition to a petition by Raymond J. Ciccolo for permission to use a lot adjacent to Volvo Village at 714 Beacon St. for parking.

At a public hearing before the Land Use Committee of the Board of Aldermen and the Planning Board, Atty. William E. Halliday Jr., representing the petitioner, said the automobile agency did not seek to increase its service capacity but merely to get customers cars off the street.

The lot would contain a 10-foot landscaped green strip along Beacon St. and have a basketweave or stockade fence to shelter it from the view of Beacon St. and also a similar fence from the front to the rear of the property, Halliday said.

Dr. Leonard Cibley of 251 Grant Ave. said he objected to the congestion created by the automobile agency and the resulting difficulties for patients trying to get in and out of his office.

Opposition was also registered by the Newton Centre Neighborhood Association. A representative of that group said they objected to any encroachment of business into a residential neighborhood unless it provides a vital service to the immediate neighborhood.

Mrs. Ruby Davis of 693 Beacon St. presented a petition of neighbors in opposition to the petition.

Another resident of the area said he would approve if the petitioner would build the parking facility underground and create a landscaped playground on the ground level.

A show of hands at the conclusion of the hearing indicated one home owner in favor of the petition and 20 opposed.

Some neighborhood opposition was also expressed to a petition by the Fessenden School for permissive use to construct a hockey rink and parking lot at 215 Albermarle Rd.

Lawrence Perrera, the attorney representing the school, said the facility would be enclosed and would be of masonry construction with a laminated wood framed roof system.

He noted that although a contract has not been awarded a rough estimate of the cost of the hockey rink would be about $750,000.

The use of the rink would primarily be for the school, but officials are willing to discuss community use if the school and community could work out the details, he said.

It would not be for large sporting events but arrangements might be worked out for use by specific teams or groups, Perrera stated.

James Doyle, representing the Newton Youth Hockey Association, spoke in favor of the petition. "We are interested in any ice facility in the city," he said. He noted that four years ago only 60 boys belonged to the association but that there are now 450 and 200 had to be turned away this year.

There was some confusion at the hearing regarding notice received by neighbors of an application to the Licensing Board for a seven day wine and malt beverage license at the Albermarle Golf Club.

The headmaster of the Fessenden School reported that they knew nothing of the application and that there was no connection with their petition.

Carmen Is Chairman Of Hub Metropolitan Cancer Drive

Alderman William Carmen's appointment as Metropolitan Boston Cancer Crusade Chairman by Thomas Allsopp, State Chairman, coincides with the distribution of the "Cancer Cures Smoking" match books to drug stores, hospitals, clubs and doctor's offices throughout the Commonwealth.

It is through the diligent efforts of Mr. Carmen that the drug stores and hospitals agreed to distribute the match books. Mr. Carmen is a partner in Carmen Management company, the real estate management organization.

Active in numerous philanthropic and civic affairs, he is past National Commander of the Jewish War Veterans and a life member of the NAACP.

He has devoted many years to the causes of youth and brotherhood not only in his home town of Newton, but also throughout the Commonwealth and the Nation.

The match book project started when an Art Director, driving along the expressway, noticed a homemade sign which read "Cancer Cures Smoking." The Art Director's Club thought the message should be carried to a broader audience and approached the American Cancer Society with the idea.

In order to undertake a press-run of 100,000 book matches the club sought another underwriter, in addition to itself, to share the expense and The New England Printing and Publishing Week Council agreed to underwrite the cost.

Mr. Carmen's territory as Area Chairman covers from North Reading in the north, to Revere in the east, Walpole in the south and Framingham in the west. Mr. Carmen received his Bachelor of Science Degree from Boston University. He is married to the former Beverly Lipson.

The Carmens have three daughters: Mrs. Jon Davis Ruby and Dawn. Mr. Vincent Bombacci, Boston Art Director's Club President, is an Art Director with the Design Group. Mr. Frank Madden, Jr., First Vice Chairman of the Printers and Publishing Week Council, is President of Atlantic Typographers.

Fishman Worried About Public School Survival

State Senator Irving Fishman of Newton, speaking to the Newton PTA Council at the Angier School in Waban, expressed concern over threats to the public school system represented by several measures which will come before the State Legislature this year.

Fishman, who stated that he has "always opposed aid to private schools," asserted his objections to measures like Bill 345, which if passed by the Legislature and approved by the people in a 1972 referendum, would remove the constitutional prohibition against the state or local communities paying the salaries of lay instructors in non-public schools.

Bills that would authorize such expenditures include H1311, H3186, H3784 and H4166. House Bills 359 and 3967 are even more sweeping, as they would aid individual pupils in privately-controlled schools, Senator Fishman declared.

According to Fishman, the sole alternatives to the above types of legislation is in those bills that would aid localities in helping absorb private school students into the public schools.

For example, he said, Senate Bill 490 calls for the state to provide up to 60 per cent of the cost of purchasing or renovating a private school building acquired because of a private school's closing.

Similar to the Senate measure, which would become effective July 1, 1975 if passed, are House Bills 542, 1506, 3194 and 3011, the last one providing for full payment by the state.

Another collection of bills involves the Commonwealth reimbursing cities and towns for the increased expense of providing for a hundred or more pupils from shut-down private schools (S492, H491, H2203), for any increased expense (H537) or for a rise in school population of at least two per cent (H2590), Senator Fishman reported.

Fishman also mentioned those local measures, as now proposed in Newton, aimed at controlling spending by school committees, a reaction to soaring school budgets and the committees that enact them.

He called the public school system "part of our culture and the strength of our democracy," and asserted that the survival of that system is what is at stake in the decisions made in regard to the diverse legislative proposals.

Catholic Group Meeting Mon.

The Court of Our Lady, 1500, of the Catholic Daughters of America met Monday evening in the Pope John room of the Parish Center of the Church of Our Lady Help of Christians in Newton. The Court Chaplain Rt. Rev. John J. McManmon, pastor, offered Mass immediately prior to the business meeting which was conducted by Worthy Regent Phyllis Arico.

Plans were discussed for the annual party for Golden Agers which will be held later this month.

Girl Scouts' Cookie Sale This Weekend

A new approach in their drive to sell cookies this year will be tried by members of the Bay Path Colonial Girl Scout Council who will sell directly to the public from special tables in banks, grocery stores and in large shopping areas. The majority of the sales force will be Senior Scouts.

Normally Girl Scout cookies are sold by troops in a door-to-door activity, Mrs. George C. Langdon of Marlboro, Cookie Sale Committee Chairman, explained that "During rough winter weather it is sometimes impossible for the girls to contact each household. That is why we plan to have a short direct sales period in stores and shopping centers."

"We trust that the public again will purchase Girl Scout Cookies this weekend, so that we can continue our many worthwhile troop activities," she said.

Mrs. Francis Duffy, Chairman of the Newton campaign, announces that Girl Scouts from Troop 475, Mrs. Lawson Gassett, Leader, will be in front of Kings' on Watertown St.; Troop 596, Mrs. David Kendall, Leader, will be in front of Star Market in Auburndale; Troop 879, Mrs. Joel Leighton, Leader, will be in front of Star Market in Newtonville.

Senior Troop 585 will assist them and also be at various local stores: Miss Sharon Rooney is their Leader. These troops are all planning educational trips and will receive an extra percentage of all their sales.

Junior College Art, Music Event To Be Held March 17

The second event of the Newton Junior College Art and Music Series, 1971, will be presented on Wednesday, March 17, at 8:30 p.m., when The Quadrivium Consort will perform. This program will be held in College Hall, Washington Park, Newtonville.

The Quadrivium Consort is a group of fifteen young Cambridge Musicians, ten instrumentalists and five singers, under the direction of Marleen Forsberg Montgomery. They have performed for many audiences in the Greater Boston area including Gardner Museum, Emmanuel Church, Boston College, and Tufts University.

Their new program, called A Prelude to Spring, includes French Renaissance theatre songs, German Renaissance music, songs and dances of Elizabethan England and Early American folk music, as well as a group of 13th century pieces.

The versatility of the instrumentalists in remarkable, and the range and uniqueness of the instruments they play are amazing: krumphorns, rauschpfeifes, lute, kortholt, rebec, psaltery, portative organ, viola da gamba, Irish harp, and every size and shape recorder known.

Many of the songs are sung directly to the audience as the singers wander up and down the aisles. They do a series of London street cries, and the audience is encouraged to join in the jollity.

A reception will be held following the program, when the audience may meet the performers.

This program is free of charge and open to the public.

The assembly which began at 1:25 p.m., lasted more than an hour and included a lively Question and Answer program.

In an effort to encourage teen age voters who are eligible to vote the Secretary is urging all voters to register at their local Town Clerk's office as soon as they become eligible.

Day Of Concern Rally At Newton City Hall Sunday

The greater Newton Jewish Community will sponsor a rally Sunday, March 14th, at 2 p.m. at the Newton City Hall as the climax of "A Day of Concern For Soviet Jewry". The program will include: A direct report from the Brussels Conference on Soviet Jewry; an address by Congressman Father Robert Drinan and folk singing and dancing led by the "Makor" Israel Folk Dance group.

The rally's purpose is to demonstrate that the citizens of Newton protest the unfair and inhumane treatment of Jews in the Soviet Union. All concerned people are invited to the rally. Alternate arrangements have been made in case of inclement weather.

This "Day of Concern" was initiated by Temple Emanuel of Newton. Mrs. Ezra Hershkovitz is Chairman of the event which is being conducted in cooperation with all the Newton-Chestnut Hill synagogues.

A large group of enthusiastic teenagers have been working diligently with their adult counterparts to plan this "Day of Concern".

U.S. PLANES BOMB ROYAL HEAVY COMMUNIST TANK FORCES
U.S. B-52 Stratofortresses Wednesday bombed a heavy Communist tank force that was chasing South Vietnamese troops deep inside Laos back toward the South Vietnamese frontier and the relative safety of American Artillery protection. The 1,000 South Vietnamese who Tuesday abandoned a hilltop artillery base called Lolo, 13 miles from the frontier, scrambled down a thousand-foot cliff carrying some of their own wounded and waded their way through thick jungle in an effort to reach safety. Warrant Officer Fred Few, 22, a U.S. Army helicopter pilot from Chattanooga, Tenn., reported. About 700 South Vietnamese had been lifted off Lolo by U.S. helicopters under intensive Communist shelling over the past three days. The pilot said the single battalion still guarding Lolo when the Communists attacked had called in American helicopter gunships.

DIPLOMATS SAY ROGERS HAS PUT ISRAEL 'ON THE SPOT'

WESTERN diplomatic sources in Cairo said Wednesday Secretary of State William P. Rogers has put Israel "on the spot" by calling for the restoration of the pre-1967 war Egyptian-Israeli boundaries. Egyptian political sources welcomed Washington's support, but with reservations. Israeli officials withheld comment on Rogers' news conference statement Tuesday in which he endorsed Cairo's demands for complete Israeli withdrawal from all occupied territory. Israel has said repeatedly it will never return to the pre-war borders. Reliable sources in Jerusalem, meanwhile, hinted Israel may adopt a new strategy in efforts to break the deadlock in the indirect Arab-Israeli talks under the auspices of U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring in New York.

BRITISH ARMOR MOVES IN TO PROTECT ST. PAT'S PARADE

BRITISH TROOPS moved in with armored cars Wednesday in Belfast, Northern Ireland, after Protestant hecklers hurled bricks and bottles at Roman Catholic marchers in a St. Patrick's Day parade. Catholics picked up the missiles and threw them back during the incident that disrupted the second of two parades that passed by Conway Street, near the "peace line" separating Catholic and Protestant areas. There were no injuries or arrests. Police sources said the trouble began when a group of Protestants let fly at a small number of the more than 5,000 marchers. A section of the Catholics broke off and pursued them up the street. "The troops moved in very quickly and broke up the confrontation," a police spokesman said.

CALLEY AWAITS VERDICT, EXPECTS ACQUITTAL

LT. WILLIAM J. CALLEY, who said privately he expects to be acquitted of crimes at My Lai, awaited the verdict Wednesday at Ft. Benning, Ga., of a six-officer jury working in a long, narrow room that was thoroughly searched for listening devices. While expressing confidence, the 27-year-old Calley—accused of murdering 102 villagers during an American infantry sweep through the South Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai three years ago—nonetheless went shopping for "personal supplies" in the event he is found guilty. "What kind of personal supplies?" Calley's attorney, George W. Latimer, was asked. "Well, you know, in case they come back with a finding and grab him right there and don't let him go. He will need some things... like toilet articles," Latimer replied. The case was turned over to the jury Tuesday night.

NIXON EULOGIZES WHITNEY YOUNG AT CEMETERY RITES

WHITNEY YOUNG JR. was buried Wednesday in Lexington, Ky., after a eulogy in which President Nixon urged fulfillment of the black civil rights leader's dream — "recognition of equality" for all Americans. Speaking at a pine-dotted hillside cemetery before several hundred friends, family members and high-ranking dignitaries gathered under a bright March sky, Nixon said: "To fulfill his dream is the responsibility of each of us. It is the commitment that each of us makes in our hearts... to help realize his American dream." Nixon, hatless and wearing a dark gray suit, placed a presidential wreath of red and white carnations at the graveside. After greeting Mrs. Young and other members, the President delivered his eulogy. And for the first time, Nixon confirmed that after he won the 1968 election he offered Young a Cabinet post, but Young turned it down.

EX-MENTAL PATIENT ARRESTED IN FATAL SHOOTING

A FORMER MENTAL PATIENT — released by court order against medical advice — was arrested Wednesday in the fatal shooting of a 17-year-old girl. Ruth Achorn was shot to death on the steps of her home at 39 Leslie Drive, Belmont, shortly after midnight Tuesday. She had been shot twice in the neck with a .45 calibre pistol, authorities said. Harry Mutina, 20, of 18 Beckett Road, was arrested a short time later as he tried to enter McLean Hospital, about a mile from the girl's home. An innocent plea was entered on his behalf at his arraignment in Waltham District Court on a murder charge. Mutina was ordered held without bail and the case was continued to Tuesday. Officials at McLean said later Mutina had voluntarily committed himself to the hospital Jan. 20 and asked to be released at the end of last month. The psychiatrist who was treating him said the youth needed further care and opposed the release, asking District Court officials to order him committed to the facility. However, the court went along with Mutina's request for freedom and he was ordered released March 3 following the court hearing.

GEORGE BRADY LEAVES NEWTON PRISON COLONY ON PAROLE

AN AILING George Brady, who pleaded guilty to stealing $450,000 in Boston Common Garage funds, walked out of Norfolk Prison Colony Wednesday on parole. He had $34.92 in his pockets. "Let's bury the garage," said the 65-year-old former chairman of the Massachusetts Parking Authority. "It died a long, slow death. Let the people responsible have it on their consciences," he said. Brady, sporting long sideburns, wore a mod blue shirt and bright tie under a pin-stripe suit as he was greeted by his wife, daughter and a cluster of newsmen and photographers. He clutched a manila envelope containing his possessions as he walked through the street door of the prison. He had the $25 gratuity which the state normally gives departing prisoners and $9.92 of his own cash. Arrested in November 1969 in Atlantic City, N.J., he promised to "tell all," naming participants in the scandal and revealing the scheme. He has since declined to go into the plot. Brady will enter a hospital Friday for tests before undergoing heart surgery.

Mandell Gives Support

Backs School Board Elections By Wards

Alvin Mandell, Newton School Committee member and member of the Newton Charter Commission announced today that he will support the principle of electing the Newton School Committee primarily by the voters of each ward.

Mr. Mandell stated that he will speak in favor of local ward representation at the Aldermanic Public Hearing at City Hall on Monday, 29 March at 7:45 p.m.

Mandell believes that the continuing increases in the costs of local education and considerable citizen dissatisfaction with many of the results have led to the present challenges to the fiscal autonomy of local School Committees.

Although philosophically in favor of the Constitutional principles of checks and balances, and personally not opposed to some form of well designed limiting legislation, Mandell believes that the problem could best be solved by making the members of the School Committee more responsible to local ward constituents.

OK Voting Machines In City; To Purchase 208

After more than three years of debate, study and experimentation, the Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night approved the purchase of 208 voting machines for the city.

The aldermen appropriated $38,612 from revenue and approved a $335,000 five year bond issue to pay for the machines.

The city has been leasing machines for past year on a trial basis. The rental fee will be applied toward the total purchase price.

A special ad hoc committee chaired by Alderman Elliot K. Cohen has been exploring the various alternative methods of voting since January and in a 28 page report recommended on a 4-2 vote the purchase of the Automatic Voting Machines.

The committee also suggested that if the board did not favor the five year bond issue as the best way of paying for the machines, they should also consider either a two year bond issue or outright purchase.

Voting against the machine purchase in committee were Aldermen Richard Bullwinkle and Peter Harrington.

Alderman Joseph McDonnell, a member of the committee, was not present at the committee vote or recorded.

Bullwinkle said he preferred the Shop machine, also an automatic voting device but one utilizing a vertical rather than the horizontal ballot of the Automatic Voting Machine.

Harrington reported that he favored trying the punch card system again, particularly since two companies have offered to let the city use their systems at no cost this year on a trial basis.

Without too much debate the aldermen voted 17 to 4 to accept the Automatic Voting Machine as the best overall voting device for this city.

However, it looked for awhile as though no money was going to be approved to pay for the machines.

On a first round of voting the proposed five year bond issue failed by two votes to receive the 16 affirmative votes required for passage of a bond issue.

Taxpayers Say:

Pay Hikes Are Well Ahead Of Living Costs

Partly because Newton's tax rate has increased 2.4 times as fast as the cost of living, Newton's city and school workers' compensation has kept well ahead of living cost advances, the Newton Taxpayers' Association reports in its current bulletin.

Noting that the new regional cost of living index is now based on 1967 and as of January '71 shows an increase of 20.1 percent the bulletin points out that during that period the pay of police and fire regulars went up 32.4 percent to $10,200, teachers with a B.A. only, went up 23.4 percent to $12,525, laborers generally went up over 40 percent to $3.69 per hour - and meantime the tax rate went up 48.3 percent.

"The fact that teachers' pay recently has been increasing at a rate slower than that of many city employees is partly because in the preceding period school pay had been rising."

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

Charges of Welfare Abuses Becoming Almost Incredible

Some of the charges and complaints about the administration of welfare in Massachusetts are so shocking as to be almost incredible.

A certain amount of fraud is inevitable in the welfare system in virtually any city or state, but there are claims that fraud is even promoted in the Bay State.

The latest allegation is that a group of ultra-liberal young social workers in the State Welfare Department are deliberately wasting public funds and paying out the people's money in a fraudulent manner.

This is a highly serious matter because welfare costs have climbed to such an extent that they have reached back-breaking proportions.

MTA President Durkin Will Meet Educators on Cape Cod

Arrangements have been completed for Massachusetts Teachers Association (MTA) president and Newton teacher Richard J. Durkin to visit educators in a number of Cape Cod school systems on Thursday, March 25.

Beginning at 8 a.m. the MTA leader will chat with teachers at the Bourne High School. At 9 a.m. he will stop at Falmouth High School, at 10:30 a.m. he will be at the Barnstable Junior High School, and at noon he will move on to the Harwich Junior-Senior High School.

The Dennis-Yarmouth Regional High School is on the agenda for 2 p.m. and at 3:30 in the afternoon Durkin will address the members of the Chatham Teachers Association at the Chatham High School Cafeteria.

The Barnstable County visit is part of a year-long fact-finding project begun last September by MTA Executive Secretary William H. Hebert and by Durkin in order to gather information about teachers and education in general throughout the Commonwealth.

They have visited Worcester, Pittsfield, Quincy, Salem, New Bedford, North Adams, and many other communities during the 1970-71 school year.

Arrangements for the Bourne visit have been made by Donald J. Mahoney, Presi-

WNTN, Newton's own radio station (1600 on the dial), located on Rumford Avenue, will be devoting its entire programming this coming Saturday (Mar. 20) to "Beginnings," a drop-in center located in the Eliot Church in Newton Corner.

The purpose of the radiothon is twofold: (1) to educate the public about the program's aims, activities, needs and future potential; (2) to raise money for obtaining materials, other incidentals and to pay staff members.

Form 10 a.m. until late in the afternoon personnel at WNTN will play music and auction off albums, donations from local merchants and articles made by "Beginnings" young people during the year.

There will also be interviews with the youths, adults, staff members and others who are involved in the program.

As one critic has said "When history reaches out for an understanding of the great men and women of our time, it will use Karsh's portraits." And "Yousuf Karsh transforms the human face into legend."

The first sports broadcast was aired Nov. 13, 1920, when the Union College radio station at Schenectady, N.Y. featured the Union-Hobart football game.

"Thus in the 1960-65 period while cost-of-living went up 7 percent, teachers pay went up 32 percent while laborers went up 22 percent," he noted.

"Another reason that city workers' rates had been closer to a minimum standard of living requirement, so there has recently been a 'catch up' effect. In such a situation the taxpayers as usual assume the load, but a 48.3 percent solid tax rate increase in three years - and before we even begin to talk about 1971 - seems excessive," Muther stated.

Appeal briefs were filed recently in behalf of five members of the original "Chicago Eight" case growing out of disorders at the last Democratic National Convention.

The briefs were placed before the United States Court of appeals, one year and two weeks after the five were convicted. The trial itself had dragged on for months. The jury spent five days in deliberations.

The alleged crimes occurred in 1968.

One of the original eight, Bobby Seale, was separated from the trial. The remaining seven were charged with contempt of court, as was the chief defense lawyer, William M. Kunstler, and another defense lawyer, William Weinglass.

While awaiting action on their appeals Kunstler and several of the others have had no trouble picking up lecture fees, steady bookings and even TV appearances. One, Jerry Rubin, has published a book.

In Montreal last week Paul Rose was convicted of playing a role in the kidnapping from the yard in his home of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte. Five minutes after the jury verdict had been returned, the presiding judge sentenced him to life imprisonment.

The kidnapping occurred last Oct. 10. Laporte's strangled body was found six days later on Oct. 16. On Dec. 28, Rose along with three others were arrested in a farmhouse outside Montreal. A month later, the prosecution was ready to go on trial. The trial was a fairly long one. It lasted seven weeks.

However, only a period of about five months intervened between the alleged kidnapping and the jury verdict. Rose's appeal will be heard, but until a judicial disposition of that is made he'll remain behind bars.

President Nixon, Attorney General Mitchell and others are bawailing our bumbling court machinery. Some experts are offering panaceas. It's possible a study of how our neighbor to the north is handling things might be a help, too.

Southern Exposure

You will not find a shop in Atlanta's Peachtree street where there is a Bruins' shirt or a Bobby Orr-model hockey stick on display. It's easy to figure out. There is no demand for either item in Atlanta at the present time.

Now, after seeing some hockey games on professional ice some distance from Georgia, a wealthy Atlanta family has persuaded the president of the National Hockey League to ask the organization's board of trustees to permit them to purchase the Pittsburgh Penguins.

If they can negotiate the sale, they plan to transfer the Penguins after building a stadium for them and installing an ice floor in it. The league president has agreed to send their request along to the trustees.

Right now the residents of Atlanta would be perplexed if a Bostonian asking them who holds this or that National Hockey League record became impatient with their lack of knowledge. Yet, imported baseball is now a long-established national game in Japan, and one of its professional teams is currently enjoying spring training in this country.

Italy puts in bids for American collegiate basketball stars as gate attractions, and every once in a while a team from some Latin country wins a title series from a top U.S. Little League team.

California has two professional hockey teams. They are not selling out their games, but that may be due to the fact that potential fans suspect they aren't over-blessed with talent.

Canada now holds almost exclusive export franchises on hockey players. Many parents on the other side of the border fit their male offspring to skates almost as soon as they show signs of climbing out of the crib. The market on this side of the border for hockey players is expanding.

The Atlanta Penguins could be joined in a few years by the El Paso Eskimos, the Ice-Cutters of Key West and even the Polar Bears of Mexico City.

Supports School Board

Editor of The Graphic:

The League of Women Voters of Newton is in full support of the position taken by the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts in opposition to proposed legislation which would limit the fiscal autonomy of School Committees.

For a number of years the League has worked in support of administrative and financial measures designed to improve the quality and equality of educational opportunity in this Commonwealth. The amendments proposed would only intensify the differences which now exist among the schools in the 351 cities and towns.

There are many pressures on local governments at this time and it is understandable that they must hold the line on many activities. The League is in full accord with those who seek to reduce the tax burden on property owners, but this must not be accomplished through diminished efforts to adequately fund educational needs.

Growing complaints are heard that a major part of all local budgets are school costs, yet control of increases in these costs is not within the power of the local governing body. Therefore increasing demands are being made to allow cities and towns to cut the school committees' budgets. Typically, 85 percent of the budget provides for salaries negotiated under the collective bargaining law of 1965.

Under the provisions of this act, the Newton School Committee has been negotiating with the Teachers' Association over a period of time in an effort to hold a reasonable line on teachers' salaries. Another part of school costs influenced by factors beyond local governmental control is debt service on bonds for school building construction.

To consider what has happened in recent years to school building needs, it is evident that growing public school enrollments have pushed class size and pupil-teacher ratios to the limits.

In countless communities the need for additional classrooms has been evident to all concerned, and still the two-thirds vote necessary to pass a school bond issue has been lacking. Local government control over school operating budgets would be equally devastating to quality education and would place education at the mercy of a variety of pressures.

The League of Women Voters of Massachusetts does not stand for wanton expenditures by any school committee. As an organization in more than 110 communities in the Commonwealth, the League encourages its members and the public to keep informed about the decisions made by elected school committees. School Committees are responsible to the same constituency as are local governing bodies.

They both have an obligation to determine the needs of that constituency and provide for those needs.

Locally elected school committees are charged with implementing state education laws as well as the standards set by the Massachusetts Board of Education. To carry out this charge the fiscal autonomy of school committees must be retained. The following petitions to repeal or amend fiscal autonomy (H921, H2018, H2194, H3191, H3763, H3969) will be heard by the Education Committee on March 24, 10:30 a.m., Room 480, at the State House. The League of Women Voters of Newton urges all concerned citizens and groups to contact their legislators and record their opposition to all of the above petitions.

Citizen Protests To Mayor . . . And Others

To The Honorable Monte G. Bashas, Mayor

Newton, Massachusetts
Dear Sirs:

This letter is the culmination of 5 years of frustration over the lack of adequate services with regard to our Department of Public Works.

Last Saturday, February 20, 1971, at approximately 10:15 in the evening, my husband, myself, my unborn child (as I am 8½ months pregnant) and another couple were just crossing over the Brookline-Newton boundary line proceeding toward Newton on Brookline Street near Audubon Road, at about 20 miles per hour on an icy, unsanded and poorly lit stretch of that street when our car hit a pothole approximately 1 foot deep and 2 feet wide.

Due to the extreme depth of the pothole, we skidded out of control, and when we finally came to a stop, we discovered that we had lost both the rims as well as the right front and rear tires of our car. I suppose we were lucky not to have lost our lives as well.

We phoned the police from a nearby home, and when they arrived, we were informed that the Department of Public Works had been contacted at least a dozen times to come to fill the potholes, but to no avail. We were not the only car to lose a tire (or tires) as the police had had many complaints that evening concerning this same stretch of road.

The police placed two flares at the pothole we hit after our experience, but we were informed by friends (who skidded through that same area at approximately 1 a.m. Sunday morning) that the roads were still unsanded and the flares were out. The next afternoon, my husband returned to this part of Brookline Street and found that the pothole which we hit was still not filled, and that Brookline Street itself was one huge mass of pothole after pothole.

I am writing to ask why the residents of this city have no right to expect our roads to be maintained in better condition than they obviously are? I have called the Street Department of the Department of Public Works many times due to the lack of sanding and the lack of plowing, and have been told that unless Mr. Bolduc personally instructs his men to sand and/or plow, they cannot and do not cover the Newton streets.

I travel Brookline Street particularly often and would like to know why it is that the moment I cross the boundary line into Brookline I find this same street sanded and plowed, no matter what time of day or night, while in Newton, it is not?

Why is it, that several times during recent storms our plows were not out until well after the cessation of the storm, and then in certain instances, plowing over bare ground, as by the time the plows were sent out, automobiles had already stripped the snow away?

Mr. Mayor, I believe you predicted an approximate $9.00 rise in our tax rate, before the inclusion of our coming school budget - are we to expect that some of this money will removal and street repairing services? May we expect additional lighting on many of our major streets?

Haven't we as residents of this city a right to know and to say how our tax dollar is to be spent? Have I not the right to expect that I can drive the Newton streets safely with the knowledge that our Street Department is giving us the best possible service for my tax money?

I suggest that if the Department of Public Works and the Street Department feel that it is not necessary for them to answer the reasonable telephone requests of both Newton residents and Newton police concerning safety hazards, then perhaps the entire staff of these departments should either resign or retire. I am sure that I am not the

A political columnist for a Boston daily newspaper reported recently that one social worker gave full welfare budgets to each of 11 hippies who were living together in the same apartment.

This bit of fraud was discovered after a month, during which the 11 hippies received $2600, but neither the social worker nor the hippies were prosecuted.

Young social workers reportedly have given welfare applicants more money than they sought and have added extra allowances for special diets which were neither needed nor followed.

These amazing disclosures came from veteran career employees in the welfare department who are stunned by what they see their fellow workers doing.

The welfare abuses, which have been detailed in news stories and columns, are unfair both to the people who pay the bills and to those legitimately in need of welfare assistance.

The people shortly will be called upon to pay more taxes, and it is becoming increasingly clear that one big reason they will be asked to dig more deeply into their pockets is the wasteful and fraudulent expenditure of welfare funds.

Tightening of welfare procedures could stop some fraudulent collection of money. For instance, it does not seem unreasonable to require that a mother seeking assistance for herself and her six children provide birth certificates to show she actually has six children.

Conscientious social workers trying to do a good job tell stories of women "borrowing" a couple of children from a neighbor in order to back up a fake statement on the number of mouths they had to feed.

Weeding out persons drawing welfare payments to which they are not entitled is a slow and expensive process. But when they are found, they should be prosecuted in court. So, too, should any social worker who knowingly expends public funds fraudulently. That's the only way the welfare abuses will be stamped out.

Vice President Is Too Busy To Aid GOP State Committee

"Why should Spiro Agnew do anything for Brooke or Sargent?" The question came from a prominent Massachusetts Republican who is an energetic supporter of President Nixon and Vice President Agnew.

He was commenting on a request by Governor Francis W. Sargent and Senator Edward W. Brooke that Mr. Agnew speak at an affair to raise some money for the Republican State Committee while he was in Boston this week to address the Middlesex Club.

The Vice President replied from Washington that he would not have time to attend a GOP State Committee fund-raising event.

Those who realize that Messrs. Agnew, Brooke and Sargent by no means are members of a mutual admiration society smiled knowingly at the Veep's response.

Then from Washington came a detailed statement by Vice President Agnew's public relations aide that Spiro had turned down the request because he really would be busy when he was in Boston and not because he was miffed with either Brooke or Sargent or anything either had said.

As if to convince himself, the aide added that Governor Sargent's name is on the letterhead of the Middlesex Club where the Vice President is to be the principal speaker.

An examination of the Vice President's Boston schedule left this observer with the impression that Mr. Agnew could have squeezed in an appearance at a fund-raising cocktail party for the financially hard pressed Republican State Committee without straining things too much.

Whatever the reason and motive, Vice President Agnew decided against extending a helping hand to the GOP committee during his trip here.

Many Questions Unanswered About Conservative Party

What political observers are wondering about Colonel John J. McCarthy and the Conservative Party he has organized is whether McCarthy and his followers will place a Conservative Party slate on the ballot in state elections.

If McCarthy's group limits itself to contesting for Republican nominations at GOP State Conventions and in party primaries, the most the organization could hope to achieve would be an occasional upset victory.

But if McCarthy and his adherents intend to obtain the necessary 60,000-plus signatures to place Conservative Party candidates on the election ballot, they really will muddy the political waters in Massachusetts.

At the moment the conservatives are setting their sights on the seat held on Capitol Hill by Senator Edward W. Brooke.

That probably is just wishful thinking. Brooke at the present time shapes up as unbeatable in either a Republican primary or a final election. And the junior Senator intends to do everything possible to remain in that comfortable condition.

McCarthy said he is ruling himself out as a candidate against Brooke next year, but one of his top associates in the new party predicted that McCarthy will carry the conservative banner against Senator Brooke next year.

Governor Sargent had no trouble whatever controlling his enthusiasm over the organization of the Conservative Party. He expressed regret that McCarthy cannot find room to live within the GOP, said that Brooke has his "total support" and that he will work for Brooke's reelection.

McCarthy battled former Republican State Committee Chairman Josiah A. Spaulding last year for the right to stand against Senator Edward M. Kennedy in the November election but was defeated in the primary.

In announcing the formation of the Conservative Party, McCarthy made one disclosure which caused political writers to sit up in attention.

"We did obtain a little White House help last time — too little and too late," McCarthy declared in an obvious reference to his contest with Spaulding.

That was the first admission that either President Nixon or his lieutenants had mixed into the fight between Spaulding and McCarthy.

It was understandable that they did so because Spaulding went to the 1968 Republican national convention and campaigned vigorously for New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller when Mr. Nixon for all practical purposes had the Presidential nomination virtually won.

Some McCarthy backers say the election of conservative James Buckley to the U.S. Senate from New York State last fall was one of the factors which influenced the organization of a Conservative Party in Massachusetts.

That leaves the implication at least that the conservatives will secure the necessary signatures to place a ticket on the ballot.

Every test of strength has indicated that the liberals outnumber the conservatives in the Republican party. But if the conservatives siphon some support away from Republican nominees, they will be dealing a hammer blow to the Bay State GOP.

Pols Propose Changes In Presidential Primary Law

Until 1968 the Presidential Primary in Massachusetts had no real meaning.

Regardless of what preferences the voters indicated, the Bay State delegates were free to go to the two national conventions, make their own deals and vote as they wished.

The law was changed to give additional meaning to the 1968 Presidential Primary voting.

It required the delegates to the Democratic and Republican national conventions to cast their ballots for the two presidential candidates for whom the voter had expressed a preference.

The experience with the new law in 1968 was not an especially rewarding one since the two presidential hopefuls tapped by Massachusetts voters — former Senator Eugene McCarthy and Governor Nelson Rockefeller — were never really in contention. It is not particularly satisfying to be bound to vote for someone who has no chance of winning.

Two bills are pending on Beacon Hill which would revise the Presidential Primary law. One would strip the people of the power they now have and allow the delegates to return to the old system of wheeling and dealing. That measure almost certainly will be defeated.

Another proposal is intriguing and seems to have some merit. It provides that the Presidential candidate who ran first in the entire state would be supported by the delegates elected from the Commonwealth at large.

But it also stipulates that the delegates chosen from each congressional district would be bound to vote for the candidate who carried that particular district. Advocates of that change say that it would result in the will of the people being followed more closely than at present.

A Tribute To Barry Wood From A Harvard Classmate

The death of Dr. W. Barry Wood came as a personal shock to this writer but at the same time stirred a flood of memories of a happy yesteryear. We were classmates at Harvard, graduating together in 1932.

Fabled Barry Wood was the Frank Merriwell of his day, a star in football, baseball and hockey, an outstanding scholar who achieved the highest academic honors. The writer was the Harvard reporter for the old Boston Post.

One memory concerns a football game in Michie Stadium at West Point in the fall of 1931 when Barry Wood, captain and quarterback, led the Crimson to a 14-13 victory over an Army team which defeated Notre Dame.

In those days, great athletes, who had starred in colleges, entered West Point after graduating and played football another four years for the Army.

That 1931 West Point team was studied with players who had made outstanding records on college grids. It was an older and more experienced team than the one Wood captained.

In the early stages of the game it appeared Harvard would be no match for the Army. The Cadets quickly swept to two touchdowns. Army was leading 13-0 in the first period when Wood called his players into a huddle.

A Resolution memorializing the President to bring the plight of the Soviet Jews before the United Nations was overwhelmingly approved this past week in the State Legislature.

Representative Theodore D. Mann presented the Resolution with the co-sponsorship of Newton's state house delegation, including Representatives Paul Guzzi, Paul Malloy, David Mofenson, and Senator Irving Fishman. They were joined by legislators throughout the state in support of Rep. Mann's presentation.

Representative Mann declared that "The Resolution is expressive of the concern felt by all people of goodwill who wish to put an end to political, religious, and racist discrimination." He concluded his remarks by pointing out that "If free men and women of the world had spoken out in time during the 1930s, millions of men, women, and children, of all faiths, of all colors, and political persuasion, might have been spared the horror of war."

The Resolution, Mann pointed out, is based on Resolution of the General Assembly of the United Nations adopted in 1948 and which called for the elimination of Racial Discrimination, defined human rights, and guaranteed equal protection before the law. The Soviet Union subscribed to this Declaration of Rights and voted to ratify the recommendations of the convention of 1965. "It is therefore appropriate for the Massachusetts House of Representatives to memorialize our President to take the action urged in an effort to remedy a deplorable situation."

Copies of the Resolution are also being transmitted to the presiding Officers of the House of Representatives and the Senate in Washington, and to all members of the Congressional delegation from Massachusetts.

RESOLUTIONS memorializing the President of the United States to prevail upon the Soviet Union to allow Soviet Jews to freely practice their Religion, maintain their Culture and to leave the Soviet Union on their own free will.

Whereas, Reports from Russia of the refusal of the Soviet government to permit Jews to leave the country and of the political and racist repression of these people is of great concern to all free men; and

Whereas, The General Assembly of the United Nations in 1948 adopted a resolution entitled "The Universal Declaration of Human Rights" and in 1965 adopted the recommendations of the International Convention on the elimination of Racial Discrimination which further defined these human rights, condemned racial discrimination, agreed to pursue by all appropriate means, a policy of eliminating racial and political discrimination, and to promote a better understanding of this problem and guaranteeing everyone equal protection before the law; and

Whereas, The Soviet Union subscribed to Declaration of Rights of 1948 and voted to ratify the recommendations of the convention of 1965; and

Whereas, Although the fate of an individual may still be at the mercy of his government, it is a matter of continuing and increasing international concern whenever such government is guilty of political and racist discrimination and of repression against any segment of its citizens; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Massachusetts House of Representatives hereby request the President of the United States to bring the question of the political and racist discrimination and repression of the Soviet Jews by the Soviet Union before the United Nations and to use the good offices of the United States government in urging the Soviet Union to allow Soviet Jews to leave the Soviet Union on their own free will and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted forthwith by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the President of the United States, to the presiding officer of each branch of Congress and to each member thereof from this commonwealth.

CCJ Conference Honors Work Of Woman Resident

Each year the National Conference of Christians, Catholics and Jews receives nominations from each region of several dedicated individuals. The recommendations are made on a basis where considerable work and effort have fostered better understanding between ethnic and religious groups in the Community.

This year's award went to Mrs. Malcolm Marshall (of Newton Corner) for her creation and perpetuation of "Community Ventures" in the Newton Corner Area. Her citation read:

"Your constant personal commitment to the children in the area, and your practical efforts in human relations are achievements which each of us should set as goals. Yours is an example of the enthusiasm and vitality on which our Nation depends."

Mrs. Marshall was honored at the Annual Meeting of the C.C.J. Brotherhood which was held in Boston last month.

The oldest reason in the world for buying a new one.

Meet Jim Freim, age 25. And his automobile, age 23. Now there's nothing unusual about a nice human being being 25. But you have to admit it's a bit unusual when a car is still running around at the ripe old age of 23. But then again, the car is a Volkswagen. You see, in this age of "New, Now, Wow" automobiles, we spend very little time making our little car look better. (Obviously.) But we do spend a great deal of time making it work better. Each and every one of the 5,115 parts in the VW has been improved and improved again since Jim Freim's automobile made its maiden highway journey back in 1949.

We, of course, mentioned this to him and suggested that maybe after 23 years, it was time he traded his old one in for a new one.

"Don't call me, I'll call you," he said.

Indian Culture Theme At Lydia Partridge Meeting

The American Indian and his place in our culture was the theme of the regular meeting of Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter, DAR, held recently at the home of Mrs. Philip R. Cook of Newton.

A 1:00 o'clock coffee hour preceded the meeting. Mrs. W. A. Hurley, Regent, presiding at the refreshment table. The center-piece was a miniature Indian village, copied by Mrs. Cook from the diorama of a Montana Blackfoot settlement.

On display about the rooms were colorful pictures of Indian chiefs, prints of Catlin and Remington portraits lent by Mrs. John L. Snider.

Also exhibited were an arrowhead and stone implements found in Massachusetts, as well as the large display of Indian artifacts belonging to Mrs. B. Abbott Cope of Belmont, a member of the Warren and Prescott Chapter, DAR.

The social hour was followed by a business session, after which Mrs. Douglas L. Eckhardt, Chapter Chairman of American Indians, read a paper, "The American Indian and His Contribution to Our Civilization." Mrs. Cook, pianist, played several Indian melodies, "Southwestern Melody" and "Indian Dance" arranged by Homer Grunn and "Approach of the Thunder God," arranged by Arthur Farwell.

Mrs. Cope then explained the various pieces of jewelry, clothing and pottery which she had brought. Of special interest was a string of genuine wampum, once belonging to an old Indian.

Guests present included Mrs. Howard D. Wood, Mrs. Ruby Haneline, Mrs. B. J. Grondal, Mrs. Hildegard Hovey, and Mrs. Gertrude Temple.

'University of Life' Program Starts Sunday

The first of three Lenten sessions of the University of Life will be held this coming Sunday (Mar. 21) at the Newtonville United Methodist Church in Newtonville Square, beginning with a snack supper and hymn sing at 5:30 p.m.

The first University of Life was introduced 24 years ago and, although many changes have occurred during the intervening years, the basic character of the series is the same. This year, for the third time, the Central Congregational Church of Newtonville has joined with the Methodist Church to make this a community activity.

In place of speakers, this year's program will feature a film to be shown each of the three evenings to support the subject being presented. This Sunday, the subject will be Anxiety and the film, "The Sixties".

Th second Sunday, March 28, the subject will be Hope and the film, "The Nature of Man"; and on the concluding Sunday, April 4, the subject will be Love and the film, "I Have a Dream".

Each evening there will be a brief portrayal of the subject from a Biblical perspective, followed by the movie and a discussion period.

It is hoped that those attending can plan to come to all three meetings, as there is continuity in the program.

During these three Sunday evenings, the children will be working on gifts to bring Easter cheer to members of the churches who are in nursing homes.

Hearing By Cong. Drinan For Unemployed Techs.

Congressman Robert F. Drinan, will hold a day long hearing Friday, March 26, in Lindsay Hall, Bentley College, Waltham, to fully explore the problems and solutions for the current unemployment crisis among technical personnel.

Congressman Drinan said, "I am most anxious to learn first hand from the people most affected what they feel the federal government can do to alleviate the present crisis and minimize future reductions in the essential scientific and technical research labor pool."

The Congressman hopes that from the hearings will come suggestions for specific ways of fully utilizing the technical talents of thousands of unemployed scientists and engineers in areas of great social need such as pollution control, health care and delivery, and transportation.

The hearing will be divided into morning and afternoon sessions. During the morning, statistical assessments of the current crisis will be presented along with testimony of unemployed scientists and engineers, and presentations from business and labor leaders. The afternoon session will deal with analysis of specific proposals for economic conversion and an evaluation of existing governmental machinery available to assist in bringing about conversion.

Police Discover One Break While Checking Other

Newton police responded to a homeowner's burglary-in-action call late Friday night in West Newton, and in the process of investigating that alleged break, discovered that a neighboring home was entered and ransacked.

William G. Wigod of 1350 Commonwealth Avenue informed police that when he got home at approximately 10:15 p.m. Friday he saw a truck, with its engine on, stationed in his driveway and spotted a person pulling a shade in the bathroom.

Police, with dogs, came to the scene but could find nothing, although it was ascertained that the truck, which had New Jersey license plates, was a stolen vehicle.

However, during their investigation of the Wigod call, police checked the Peter R. Noble home at 1356 Commonwealth Avenue and discovered that the front door was forced and the house thoroughly ransacked.

Mrs. Martha O'Brien of 20 Emerson Street in Newton is also represented with an oil painting entitled "Misty Meadow," an imaginative depiction in which billows of turquoise merge with others of buff.

Sunday Services At 1st Church of Christ Scientist

Newton residents are invited to the 10:45 a.m. service this Sunday at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, at 391 Walnut St., Newtonville. Theme of the lesson-sermon on "Matter" to be heard this week is that "Spiritual Receptivity is Vital to Progress."

These words of the Apostle Paul to the Corinthians will be included in the Bible selections: "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."

A passage to be read from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures' by Mary Baker Eddy states: "Willingness to become as a little child and to leave the old for the new, renders thought receptive of the advanced idea. Gladness to leave the false landmarks and joy to see them disappear—this disposition helps to precipitate the ultimate harmony. The purification of sense and self is a proof of progress."

Childrens TV Action Gets PTA Support

At a recent meeting of the BOWEN P.T.A. board, it was voted to endorse ACTION FOR CHILDREN'S TV, a Newton based group working for quality children's programming without commercialism.

The board also endorsed House Bill 1946, the school bus safety bill currently before the State Legislature. Mrs. Ernest Picard, President of BOWEN P.T.A. stated that ACT and the School Bus Safety bill seek to improve the mental and physical well being of children and therefore deserve the endorsement of P.T.A. groups as well as all concerned citizens.

Students Exhibit Work In Enamels At Library

Enamels by Mrs. Felice Kahn's adult education class at Newton High are on view at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre street, Newton Corner, now through late March.

Students at varying levels of expertise have contributed to the display of enameling, an art which starts with the fusing of glass to a metal base, such as copper. Pieces are then decorated by various methods, including the combining of colors and the application of glass lumps and threads, stencils and foils.

The display, arranged by Mrs. Kahn, a graduate of the University of Michigan with an M.A. in Fine Arts, also contains a simplified view of basic enameling techniques and principal decorating methods.

Among members of the class, which has been meeting every Monday from 7 to 10 p.m., are Pauline Barooshian, William Clancy, Mary Doucet, Bernice Gahn, Richard Husher, Hope Hynes, Myrna Doucet, Bernice Gahn, Richard Husher, Hope Hynes, Myrna Krutt, Diane LaPierre, Marion Levine, Muriel McKinney, Vernicia Stephens and Polly Sullivan.

Although some of the students are novices and have never shown their work before, it is difficult to distinguish their pieces from those of their more experienced classmates, because in enameling, at the very outset, pieces worthy of the most experienced enamelist can be created by a beginner.

NCE Opposes Limits On School Board

At their meeting this past Monday night, the Newton Citizens for Education Executive Board passed a resolution reaffirming "the legal right of the School Committee, as set forth in Chapter 71, Section 34 of the General Laws of the Commonwealth, to determine school budgets, free from interference of any other branch of city government; and we consequently oppose any and all attempts to limit, hamper, or terminate the power of the School Committee to set the budget for the schools."

Several bills now before the Massachusetts Legislature and two proposed city ordinances would give ultimate power over the school budget to other political bodies.

The NCE position challenges the assumption that shifting fiscal responsibility from the School Committee to the Board of Aldermen would mean automatic money-saving to the taxpayers.

A fact sheet written by Mrs. Jane Weingarten for the current issue of the NCE Forum points out that "expertise in matters relating to school policy, program, and fiscal planning is achieved by the School Committee through intense researching of problems. Members of this body devote as much as 20 to 30 hours per week to the needs of the schools. It would be impossible for the Board of Aldermen, already burdened with the problems of a city as complex as Newton, to match the thorough job done by the School Committee."

"In the case of the construction of Newton High, split responsibility for planning resulted only in delays and inefficiencies and consequent higher costs."

NCE believes that the tasks of the School Committee include responding to the educational needs of the children of Newton as well as responding to the educational needs of the children of Newton as well as responding to the problems of the taxpayer. They are duly elected for this purpose, and directly ac-

Growing Plants Under Lights Is Speaker's Theme

Members and guests of the Newton Centre Garden heard an interesting talk on "Gardening Under Lights" at their meeting on Tuesday morning, March 16, at the Newton Centre Woman's Club.

The speaker was Roger Dunn, a specialist in growing plants under lights. Mr. Dunn has had wide experience in this field as well as plant propagating and landscape gardening.

A coffee hour at 9:30 preceded the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Wilbur S. Roberts, Jr., of Dover. Hostesses at the coffee hour were Miss Esther Winslow of Newton Centre and Mrs. Thomas H. McCutcheon of Waban. Pourers were Mrs. John D. Fox of Wayland and Mrs. C. Wistar Wooldredge of Waban.

table to the people for the portion of the tax rate spent on public education.

NCE urges its members and other Newton citizens to be present on March 24 when bills will be considered by the Education Committee of the Mass. General Court. The hearing will be held at 10:30 a.m. in Room 480 of the State House.

The current bulletin of the NCE Forum, edited by Dr. Leston Havens, also contains informative articles on other proposals affecting Newton public schools.

Membership in NCE is open to students, parents and all other Newton citizens interested in education. For further information, call Mrs. Paul Mann, at 244-5660.

Newton Residents Promote Curriculum Change At Tufts

Two Newton faculty members at Tufts University and one student from Newton were instrumental as members of the Tufts School of Dental Medicine Curriculum Committee in the recent change to an accelerated program at Tufts whereby students entering Tufts Dental School will study 12 months a year and graduate in three years instead of four.

Richard W. Blagbrough of West Newton and Henry G. Mautner of Newton are faculty members of the TUSDM Curriculum Committee and Martin H. Zase of Newton, class of 1971, is a student member.

Jouis J. P. Calisti, D.D.S., M.P.H., Dean of TUSDM, says the accelerated program will produce more and better-trained dentists sooner than under the present curriculum, which will be phased out gradually by 1975.

TUSDM is one of the first dental schools in the nation to announce an accelerated program. Curriculum changes are being encouraged by various national agencies to help alleviate America's health care crisis.

"The prevention of oral disease, restoration of oral health and maximizing of oral health maintenance are rights, not privileges," Dean Calisti states. "Therefore, dental schools have an obligation to produce graduates who are educated in the detection, management and prevention of oral disease as well as being technically proficient," Dean Calisti is a resident of Westwood.

The sweeping changes were recommended by a Curriculum Committee of faculty and students, headed by Dr. Thomas W. Murnane, of Watertown, Associate Professor of Oral Surgery, and following an intensive and extensive review of dental education requirements.

In 1975, a double class will graduate — those who entered the new, three-year program in 1972 and those who entered in 1971, the last under the existing four-year program.

Implementation of the new program will be the responsibility of Dr. George Mumford, D.D.S., of Wellesley, TUSDM Associate Dean for Academic Affairs. Dean Mumford notes that the 12-month program has obvious advantages over a nine-month academic year. The school's facilities will be in use continually; the faculty will be able to select teaching time from a 12-month calendar; students will graduate and enter practice or begin postgraduate studies at an earlier date.

When the new curriculum becomes effective, Dr. Mumford points out, the dental clinic also will be operated on a 12-month basis. Patient care will be more efficient and continuous, again helping answer the demands for greater health care.

Dr. Murnane says the new curriculum divides the academic time into three unequal periods — 30, 65 and 35 weeks, respectively — rather than into years.

During the first 30 weeks, the student will devote himself to acquiring knowledge in the basic sciences, along with the introduction of pathology. He will be introduced to the practice of dentistry in the fifth week and many clinical subjects will be consolidated into one course, "Oral Health Science," to insure immediate clinical experience. That course, initiated this academic year, is a bridge between the basic sciences and the practice of dentistry. It is designed to teach sciences and the practice of dentistry. It is designed to teach the student basic dental procedures that he will be able to carry out independently at the end of that period of study.

The second phase, Dr. Murnane points out, will be almost exclusively clinical. Groups will be smaller than before, and the student will be exposed to as much clinical practice as possible during the 65 weeks.

Finally, in the third phase of the program, the student's last 35 weeks, he will have the opportunity to specialize in a field of particular interest. He can begin graduate work, improve his skills for general practice or begin a career of research. At any rate, a philosophy of continuing education already will have begun for the student who, during this period, will be allowed as much flexibility and independence as he desires.

The new curriculum aims to make dental education follow a more logical sequence, Dr. Murnane emphasizes, at the same time providing flexibility for students and faculty. It will avoid duplication in course work and give the student the opportunity to progress as rapidly as he is able, the professor adds.

Speaking of the changing role of the dentist in the growing health care crisis, and the importance of the new curriculum, Dean Calisti emphasizes:

"No longer can the dentist's primary concern be the patient's mouth. He must also have a real concern for the individual, his environment. If we are to fulfill this obligation, we must find ways to ensure that such a dentist is trained to assume his role as a member of the health care team, to be able to make the best use of parodontal personnel, and to be sensitive to the health care needs of both the individual and the community. The new curriculum, therefore, must be flexible enough to adapt itself to dental care needs both imminent and anticipated — and we believe it is."

Waban Youth Is Wesleyan Hockey Star

Phil Richardson, a junior forward from Waban, helped Wesleyan University's hockey team to one of its best seasons ever. The Cardinal skaters, playing in their own skating rink for the first time this winter, compiled a 6-8 record improving on their 0-9-1 record of 1969-70.

Richardson played in all 14 games. One of the fastest skaters on the team, he will provide valuable experience

2 Wins, 5 Losses, Chalk Up South's Track Record

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Newton South High's tracksters only compiled a 2-5 record in their first season in the Dual County League, but the team featured five competitors who scored more than 30 points each.

The Lions were a team of outstanding individuals, but lacked the depth necessary to win regularly. South conquered Lincoln-Sudbury and Lynnfield for its two triumphs.

Junior Howie Haines tallied a team-leading 37½ points. Haines was undefeated in dual meets in the 300 with a best of 34.0 and captured one 600 run. He was also South's anchor man on the relay team, which was victorious four times.

Haines was second-seeded in the Class B 300, but was tripped and knocked out of contention in the Boston Garden final. The speedster was injured in that tumble, but returned to earn a third-place award in the league meet and anchor the relay squad to its fourth place league finish.

Next in line was surprising junior Ken Green. Competing in track for the first time Green notched 35 points in the high jump and hurdles, posting individual bests of 5-5 and 6-4.

Senior Chuck Pottey was South's distance ace, scoring 31½ points. Pottey already the owner of the school cross-country standard, established two indoor marks in the mile and 2-mile in 4:41.3 and 10:25.3. He was second in the league in the mile and ran a leg on the placing relay.

Elliot Loew was right behind Pottey with 31½ points, totaling in the dash and the relay. He also earned two awards in the league meet.

Senior Dave Peters was undefeated in the hurdles, but missed a few meets with injuries, including the league championship. However, Peters, who collected 30½ points, was South's only state meet placer with a third in the 45-yard hurdles. He also scored in the high jump and the relay.

Newton South Track Statistics 1970-71:

Haines, 300, 600, shot, relay, 37½.

Green, hurdles, high jump, 35.

Pottey, mile, 2-mile, relay, 31½.

Loew, dash, relay, 31½.

Peters, hurdles, high jump, relay, 30½.

Linn, 300, 600, 1000, relay, 26½.

Seeler, 1000, relay, 26.

Applestein, shot, 17.

Nissen, dash, 600, shot, 14.

LeBlanc, mile, 2-mile, 13.

Cooper, shot, 8.

McDonald, 300, 4.

Edelstein, dash, 1½.

Paine, 600, 1.

Mason, mile, 1.

Brown, shot, ½.

Best events for Newton South this season were the hurdles with Peters and Green, whatever Pottey ran, and the 300 behind Haines. The 600, with co-captain Paul Nissen, Roy Linn, and sophomore Tom Paine was also strong.

The team will miss seniors John Seeler (co-captain), Nissen, Peters, Pottey, and Mike LeBlanc and will have a fair nucleus back. More performers are needed in every event for the Lions to have a successful season next winter.

Guzzi Appears Before Natural Resources Comm.

Representative Paul Guzzi (D-Newton) appeared before the Committee on Natural Resources to support legislation establishing a Youth Environmental Survival Corps.

The "Yes" Corps, as it has been nicknamed, would initially be made up of people between the ages of 16 and 26, working either full time or part time, under the direction of a director and commission appointed by the Governor.

In supporting the concept of such a group, Guzzi noted that two critical problem areas would be simultaneously attacked:

First, the problems of the environment — air, water, and land, would receive greater attention and more manpower; and, second, unemployment might be partially alleviated by creating additional jobs in a relatively new field of employment. Such jobs might also be offered to welfare recipients.

Rep. Guzzi concluded his testimony by stating that while the creation of such a service group would be only a first step in beginning to solve

South Hockey Season Ends With 5-5-4 Mark

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Defense was the forte this season for the Newton South High hockey team en route to its 5-5-4 mark in the Dual County League.

South rebounded from a 3-8 record in 1970 to secure fifth place. The Lions finished strongly with an impressive 4-3 win and a 2-2 tie with co-champions Wayland and Bedford in two of their last games.

Both senior co-captain goalie Paul Modern, who allowed fewer than two goals per contest and co-captain defenseman Clem Virgilio earned Dual County all-star mention for their heroics from in back of the blue line.

In 1970 the Lion pucksters managed a total of only 12 goals — an offensive production that did not instill fear in enemy hearts. This year the defense was indeed fabulous, but the offense is starting to come around. Though still far from overpowering, South doubled their offense with 24 goals.

Forward Bob Ronayne and Virgilio led the Lions with nine points apiece. Ronayne's total came on four goals and five assists, while Virgilio accumulated three goals and six assists.

College Relies On Pitching Of West Newtonite

When American International College's baseball season starts April 10, with a game against UMass, the only experienced pitcher the team will have is West Newton's Dana Westlund.

Westlund, a senior at the Springfield School, will therefore be called upon to carry the burden of the schedule with his arm, and against such opponents as Boston University, Holy Cross, Amherst and Assumption.

The Newton grad last year had a 3-4 record with a 3.60 earned run average.

We didn't make it any easier to look at.
Just easier to drive.

You'd never know it to look at it, but that's a Super Beetle without a clutch pedal.

What it does have is something called an automatic stick shift. "Automatic" because you can drive it up to 55 mph without shifting at all. "Stick shift" because you shift it when you go over 55. Once.

And that's just to help you save gas. (In keeping with a grand old Volkswagen tradition.)

As a matter of fact, this Super Beetle still gives you 25 miles to the gallon. It still takes only an occasional can of oil. And it still won't go near water or antifreeze.

If it were anything but a Super Beetle, you'd probably pay dearly for all this luxury.

Instead, the Super Beetle with an automatic stick shift costs a mere $2124.*

All of which reinforces what we've been saying for 25 years.

Looks aren't everything.

Budget-

In his statement Uehlein said, "The Finance Committee held their final budget session on Saturday, March 13, and completed their review of all department requests."

"Their review consisted of meetings with every department head in executive session, subsequent further conferences and reviews by the chairman and members of the committee with the department heads privately, and research into particular items requested at other sources."

"The Committee also requested advice and suggestions from aldermen not on the committee and met with several who had suggestions and recommendations which were helpful. The committee spent in excess of sixty hours in this review."

Uehlein, referring to the recommendations for cuts by the Finance Committee, said "the reductions were only made after a thorough review of its effect on the efficiency of the department. To make reductions without considering its effect on the overall services to the citizens and merely to effect a present savings is fiscal irresponsibility."

"In many instances the reductions were reluctantly made, however, we were acutely aware of the taxpayers increasing burdens and their requests to us to do all we could to keep the increased rate of 1971 down," he continued.

Mofenson Co-Sponsors Bill On Juvenile Court Actions

An impressive array of experts in the field of child welfare - some coming from as far away as St. Louis and San Francisco - testified Wednesday before the Legislature's Joint Judiciary Committee in support of a bill co-sponsored by Representative David J. Mofenson (D-Newton) which would revise juvenile court procedures and laws relating to neglected and delinquent children.

"The focus of the bill," Mofenson asserted, "is on children in trouble - not just the delinquents, but the near-delinquent, the mentally retarded, the neglected, the abused and the emotionally disturbed child."

"Some of the most important provisions of this bill," Mofenson stated, "provide guidelines for determining when a juvenile can be taken into custody, standards for determining the property and place of detention for both delinquent and neglected children and guidelines for availability and dissemination of juvenile law enforcement records."

Mofenson further stated: "In addition, it provides guidelines for the preparation and use of social, psychological and psychiatric reports, specifically delineates the powers and duties of probate office and abolishes the present classifications, stubborn child, wayward child, habitual truant, habitual absentee, and habitual school offender."

Aside from Representative Mofenson, among those testifying was William Aikman of the Massachusetts Law Reform Institute in Boston, Attorney T. E. Lauer, Deputy Director of the National Juvenile Law and Reform Center of St. Louis, Missouri, and Attorney Peter Bull, Staff Attorney of the Youth Law Center of San Francisco. "This bill, if adopted" in the words of Attorney Bull, "would give Massachusetts the finest juvenile code in the United States."

by the Charter Commission indicated that more competition occurs inward rather than at - large elections. Thus, a change to ward elections would also serve to stimulate more competition for School Committee positions.

As one of the authors of the Charter Commission Minority Report, Mandell stated in the section that dealt with electing School Committee members, "Under Massachusetts law, School Committees are completely autonomous in passing operating budgets and no City officials have the right of veto."

"Therefore, it was our desire to design some method for electing members to the Committee which would make it easier to provide for better minority representation. We attempted to provide a more responsive body by providing for some direct ward representation."

"This new Charter has strengthened the power of the Committee by putting budgetary control of building maintenance and repair under it without providing any other checks or balances. Since over 50 percent of the total city budget goes for schools we feel that this new charter is unacceptable."

The petitions to change the method of electing the School Committee will require approval by two-thirds of the Board of Aldermen and the Mayor in order to be placed on the ballot in the November 1971 elections. Mandell urged all civic minded citizens of Newton to contact their aldermen to let their voices be heard.

WORK AND STUDY — Miss Nancy W. Whitmore, of Newton, worked with Richard A. Gallant, at State Street Bank, Boston, as part of her executive secretarial training at Colby Junior College for Women.

Auburndale Players Rehearse New Show

Players with the Auburndale Club are rehearsing the famous Broadway production of "Arsenic and Old Lace" by Joseph Kesselring which will be their Spring Production this year at the Club, 283 Melrose St., Auburndale. This favorite of the 40s, which was made into a movie starring Cary Grant, will be presented on Thursday, Friday, Saturday (April 29, 30 and May 1) and Friday and Saturday (May 7 and 8) at 8:30 p.m.

The story deals with an extremely unusual Brooklyn family which consists, among others, of two maiden aunts who are systematically poisoning every lonely old man who comes their way, because they believe it to be their Christian duty to put these poor souls out of their misery. Also involved are their three nephews, one who thinks he's Teddy Roosevelt, one who looks like Boris Karloff, and one apparently normal.

Leading the large cast in the roles of the maiden aunts are Betty Schuff, who last year captivated audiences at the Auburndale Club with her portrayal of Penny in "You Can't Take It With You"; and Jackie Melly who also appeared in "You Can't Take It With You", and "Harvey", and who brings with her a long list of credentials (MIT and Harvard Gilbert and Sullivan, Boston Summer Opera Theatre, summer stock, to name a few).

The male lead, that of Mortimer, the same nephew, will be portrayed by Paul Masse who, last fall, won acclaim for his performance in "Voice of The Turtle." His two brothers, Teddy and Jonathan, each a little weird in his own way, will be played by Herb Melly and James Murphy. Mr. Melly has appeared in two previous Auburndale Club plays, and Mr. Murphy is a newcomer to the Auburndale players, from West Newton.

The part of Dr. Einstein, the plastic surgeon with the drinking problem, will be played by Ray Normand of Framingham — also a newcomer to the Auburndale stage.

Alicia Kerr of Newton Upper Falls, who comes to us from the Falmouth Playhouse, will play the role of Elaine, Mortimer's fiancée. Other members of the cast include Milt Copp of Andover, Robert Trumble, John MacInnes (Auby winner for his performance in "Harvey" last year), Jack Kavanagh, and John Head.

Directing the play and also taking part in a small character role will be Russ MacClure of Auburndale, who came away with an Aubly last year for his character part in "You Can't Take It With You"; and more recently was publicly applauded in Irving Forbes' column (Waltham News Tribune) for his superb direction of the fall production "The Voice of The Turtle."

Newton Girl In Colby College's Work-Study Plan

Miss Nancy Whitmore of Newton was one of 38 students at Colby Junior College for Women to participate in an unusual living and working study experience in a city recently.

Under Colby's 4-1-4 semester plan, she was able to spend the entire month of January working in a major metropolitan office and learning to cope with some of the problems which a secretary might face in urban living such as housing, food preparation, finances and transportation.

She lived in Newton and worked at the State Street Bank of Boston. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Whitmore, Jr., of 54 Carver Road, Newton.

An advisory group of Colby alumnae volunteers assisted with local arrangements and weekly conferences with her college instructors were scheduled in the city.

The students in this work-study program during the interim term are majors in four areas of secretarial training offered at Colby: executive, technical, bilingual or medical programs.

He talked quietly and confidently to them, steadilying them down. With Wood's inspiring leadership, Harvard roared back to tally two touchdowns. Wood kicked both points, and the Crimson led 14-13.

In the closing moments of that game a great West Point back named Ray Stecker broke into the open and appeared headed for a touchdown. But Barry Wood, with a flaming burst of speed, caught him from behind and saved the victory for the Crimson. Until that moment nobody believed that Barry could run that fast.

Barry Wood's Harvard team crushed a strong University of Texas team back in that autumn of 1931.

Wood first demonstrated his greatness on the gridiron as a sophomore at Ann Arbor against a Michigan team on which Tom Harmon was the star. Harvard was beaten 14-12. But on one play near the end of the game Wood passed to a Harvard player who was in the open, with no defenders between him and the goal line.

He just didn't turn around in time to catch Wood's pass. It hit him on the ear.

There are memories of Barry Wood playing first base on the baseball team, of his scoring goals for the hockey team. His best sport was tennis.

Yet, he wasn't considered a natural athlete. He studied how to be a great football player, as he later studied how to be a great doctor. He became a fine passer and kicker by diligent practise.

Barry Wood left his mark in the field of medicine, just as he did on Harvard's athletic history.

Machines-

After a confusing discussion on procedure, and a vote which turned down a proposal for a two year bond issue to pay for the machines, the five year approach was re-considered and the bare 16 votes necessary for approval were mustered.

The tide was turned by the late appearance of Alderman Harry Welen who was not present for the first round of voting and who voted in favor of the bond issue when it was reconsidered. In addition, Finance Committee Chairman Edward C. Uehlein switched his vote from "no" to "yes" on the second round.

Those who opposed purchasing the automatic voting machines through a five year bond issue on the final vote were Aldermen Richard Bullwinkle, William Carmen, Thomas Concannon, Peter Harrington, Joseph McDonnell, Andrew Magni, Arthur Sullivan and Pres. Wendell Bauckman.

Cohen reported that the total effect on the tax rate of Americans spent $42 billion on health care in 1969 — up 139 per cent over 10 years earlier.

Upper Falls Plan Given Money Boost

A recent grant for $176,000 from the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development will permit the Newton Upper Falls Code Enforcement program to deal with all those homes requiring consideration, according to the program director, Kenneth F. Collier.

The aid, which was requested by the enforcement unit last October, does not entail the need for matching city funds and will probably cover the cost of repairing close to 55 homes, Collier indicated.

The money grants to individual homeowners cannot exceed $3,500 and it is estimated that the average grant from the newly received federal funds will be $3,200. Up to now, $120,000 of federal funds have been given to area homeowners who either earn under $3,000 annually or spend more than one-quarter of their income on housing, and whose homes need rehabilitating.

Collier thinks the Upper Falls project should be completed close to its August 10, 1971 deadline.

Newton Woman Is Sponsor For 6th Antiques Market

Mrs. Virginia S. Clark of Highland Avenue, Newtonville, who has been fascinated by antiques since a child and bought and sold them all her life, will be one of the sponsors for the big Sixth Annual Antiques Flea Market sponsored by the Morgan Memorial Goodwill Centers, at the Topsfield Fair Grounds in May.

Mrs. Clark has a keen interest in all specialties and a special interest in marine antiques, which probably dates back to her great grandfather who operated a shipyard in Essex, on the North Shore, and built the famous "Gertrude Thebault."

The fabulous Flea Market, largest in New England, attracts thousands of people. It will be held again this year on Saturday, May 22, and for the benefit of sending the state's neediest children to summer camp.

Mrs. Clark uses the name, "Virginia S. Clark Antiques" for her long established business in Newtonville. She is married to Lt. Cdr. LeRoy M. Wires, U. S. Navy (Ret.) Commander. Wires served nearly two decades in the Navy, in all parts of the world, and on all types of ships.

From 1943-45, he was a member of the faculty at the Navy's Communication and Navigation at Harvard University, which trained 19,000 embryo officers. Commander Wires shares the deep interest his wife has in everything of earlier periods.

Mrs. Clark is a graduate of the Massachusetts College of Art, class of 1938, and New York University, in 1941. She recalls that she purchased antiques for her room at college and then sold the various pieces when she found customers.

She began collecting glass, copper and furniture "in earnest" in 1936 and some of her early possessions she still holds because of their sentimental value.

One of her many hobbies has been "rock hounding" and this led her for years into many mines and caves where she gathered precious and semi-precious stones.

The family's love of the sea has continued down through the generations and daughter, Susan, 17, already has painted and sold three marine scenes and plans to attend the Massachusetts Art School. Another daughter, Linda, 13, holds the same family interests.

Community Centers Plan For Summer Camp Season

The Newton Community Service Centers, Inc., serving Newton and other surrounding communities are under way in their planning for this summer season's Day and Kinder Kamp programming.

Anthony J. Bibbo, Executive Director has announced that the camps will be geared to serve youngsters from ages 3-14 years. The popular Kinder Kamp, which has functioned at Warren Jr. High School for a number of years, will be moved to the excellent facility of the Country Day School of the Sacred Heart located at 785 Centre Street in Newton.

The availability of this new facility made possible through the administration of the Country Day School, will provide youngsters ages 3-6 with an opportunity to participate in a program conducted within safe, clean facilities and offer the added advantage of an outdoor play area with a country atmosphere.

The Centers' camping program will be headed by individuals who possess a wealth of camping experience and youth work. Mr. G. Michael Gardner, will head the Day Camp Program and Miss Bonnie Algieri, the Kinder Camp Program.

Generally, the programs will both have bus transportation available from locations throughout the City of Newton to the camping facilities. Youngsters bring a lunch and are provided milk daily. Crackers and juice are served a mid point within Kinder Camp. Mr. G. Michael Gardner stated that the activity would be housed at the Center's private camp site located at Sever Hale Reservation in Westwood. The facility includes 30 acres of tree covered land, swimming facilities, cookout accommodations, and 300 acres of long winding nature trails. A large main cabin has been completed and will house numerous activities. A boating program initiated at the close of last season and responded to by youngsters in attendance in a most enthusiastic way, shall be continued.

Campers will leave from the Country Day School facility by bus each morning, Monday - Friday at 9:00 a.m. and return at approximately 4:00 p.m. Both Camps will end at 3:00 p.m. on Fridays. Activity is varied with swimming (free swimming and instruction) arts and crafts, hikes, sports, cookouts, boating, games and trips. In addition, occasional overnight campsouts will be offered as well as other special activities. A skilled and imaginative staff, with a camper-counselor ratio of 7 (or less) to 1, provides responsible and positive leadership for enjoyable programming.

The eight-week camp period is divided into four two week sessions, with each child obligated to enroll for at least one complete two week session. Campers may be registered for any number of sessions desired. Pickup and return service to and from designated elementary schools is available at a nominal fee.

Miss Bonnie Algieri stated that the program for Kinder Kamp, located on the beautiful grounds of the Country Day School, Newton Centre, makes Kinder Kamp an all-weather Monday through Friday program. Designed to give a rewarding and beneficial group experience to the three to six year old, it also generally serves as a vicarious learning experience.

During the "camp day," children participate in many activities in assigned areas: art, swimming, games, stories, music, and most important, those activities created from the imagination of the counselors.

Com. Relations Commission Meeting Airs Grievances

The Newton Community Relations Commission, in accordance with its policy of taking some of its regular monthly meetings into the villages, met Tuesday night, March 9, at the Sons of Italy Hall, Nonantum.

CRC's goal is to encourage active citizen participation in all of its meetings, which normally are held on the second Wednesday evening of each month at City Hall.

Chairman William M. Glovsky described this policy of Newton's human rights agency as an effort "to get people to express their thoughts about each other about institutions to which they have a relationship or against which they have a grievance so that, hopefully, we can take these objections and dissipate them where that is in order, or meet them by some kind of positive action, where that is in order."

Ultimately, it is CRC's hope, he said, to sponsor broad based, heterogeneous, small group discussions within the homes of residents and removed from any institutional confinement.

With careful selection of leadership, he stated, participants of differing ages, backgrounds, and occupations could benefit from exposure to each others thinking.

Service Center Member Drive In Third Week

The Sustaining Membership Drive of the Newton Community Service Centers moves into its third week headed by Mrs. Edward Uehlein of 217 Varick Road in Waban and Mrs. Augustus Costoldi of 38 E. Quinobeguin Rd. in Waban.

To date there has been some response to the appeal for financial support of the Centers' program, however, many more contributions are needed if the agency is to continue and/or expand its vital community program.

The search for financial help this year has been made through an appeal letter prepared by Mr. David B. Cooper, President of the Centers and a brochure outlining the agencies vast scope of activity.

In his letter of appeal Mr. Cooper comments on the work of the Centers, specifically in work with groups of all ages and community organization. The Centers have been serving the Newton community as a dynamic and relevant community organization through the years addressing itself to a variety of community needs.

Individuals interested in becoming sustaining members of the Centers may do so by phoning 969-5906 for additional information.

Camp Fire Girls Marking Birthday Week In Newton

This is Birthday Week for Camp Fire Girls throughout the United States. Sixty-one years ago, shortly after the inception of the Boy Scouts and in order to provide similar opportunities for girls, Dr. and Mrs. Luther Halsey Gulick laid the foundations for the Camp Fire program by providing a camping experience for girls on Lake Sebago, Maine.

The development of this program became the life work of the Gulicks; and Camp Fire Girls now has programs throughout the United States.

Camp Fire groups are small, with as few as six girls, but more usually 10 to 12; and never more than 20. The younger girls are called Blue Birds, and here in Newton may enter the program at the end of 2nd grade.

Blue Birds "fly up" to be Camp Fire Girls at the beginning of 4th grade; and as Camp Fire Girls work to achieve three ranks: Trail Seeker (4th grade), Wood Gatherer (5th grade) and Fire Maker (6th grade).

Honor beads are earned in each of the 7 crafts (Business, Citizenship, Creative Arts, Homemaking, Outdoors, Science, Sports and Games) as awards are presented.

Music Festival For Peace At Local Church March 28

The March 28th, second singer is the foremost featured personality of the evening. The Society for the Preservation of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America—SPEBSQSA will present some forty to fifty Barber Shop Quartet Ensemble Singers, appearing a second year in this music festival, as do YAMAKRAW, a folk duo.

The program will round out with the presentation of the Caldwell Winfield Band of pieces, to entertain. Arrangements for the Festival are being sponsored by Mrs. Judy Beram and Mr. Arthur Gilbert of the Peace Center, with ticket distribution in the hand of Chris Baros at Newton South High, Laurel Chiten at Newton North, and the Peace Center office located in the Elliot Church of Newton, 474 Centre Street, Newton Corner. Admittance to the Festival will be by ticket only. Tickets will be on sale at the door the night of the performance only up to a capacity audience, so advance purchase of tickets will assure entrance the night of the concert.

Patty Madfis is in charge of posters and publicity, and Laura Greene will be responsible for refreshments to be on sale the evening of the performance. Mr. Fred Taylor of the Beginnings staff and a stage hand crew will be on hand to help the evening program to move smoothly.

The Beginnings is desperately in need of financial support to keep their program afloat, to pay their two staff members, and a usage fee for the space they occupy. Newton citizens are urged to support this benefit money raising effort of the Music Festival for Peace the profits from which will be shared with Beginnings.

Paul Chiten, program chairman announced an interesting and worthwhile evening of music. Chris Smither, folk part of the requirements for earning rank. Girls in 7th and 8th grade are eligible for Jr. Hi Camp Fire Girls; and Horizon Clubs are for high school age girls.

The objectives for all Camp Fire groups are the same: to develop high ideals to live by; love of home, family and country; pride in being a girl; ability to care for self; to develop interests and skills to pursue alone and share with others; to make friends; to maintain good health; to develop a love and respect for the out-of-doors and skill in outdoor living; and to develop the capacity to find beauty and adventure in everyday life.

The slogan of the Camp Fire Girls is "Give Service" and service projects constitute an important part of the program. American Indian lore and symbolism is also a basic part of Camp Fire, the result of Mrs. Gulick's friendship with Ernest Thompson Seton.

After some study of Indian symbolism, girls today still choose their Indian names. Ceremonies are held periodically, both by individual groups assembled together, at which time ranks and other honors are presented.

Each group provided a birthday cake to be used as centerpiece for their table; and the square dance calling was supplied by Mr. Jack Evans of Waltham. In charge of planning the event was Mrs. Floyd Gilles of the Newton Town Committee. She was assisted by Mrs. Carl Shiffman, Mrs. Robert Conley, Mrs. Israel Abrams, Mrs. Matthias Comerford, Mrs. Gordon Vawter, Mrs. William Tompkins, Mrs. David Blau, Mrs. Edward Richmond and Mrs. George MacDonald.

Women Voters To Offer 2 Interesting Programs

Two interesting programs are being offered by the League of Women Voters of Newton both to its members and to the public for the remaining days of March.

An Olde Time Movie Night will be sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Newton on Sunday, March 28 at 7:30 p.m. at Newton South High School. Many of the favorite stars of former years—Charlie Chaplin, Laurel and Hardy, the Keystone Kops, Harry Langdon—will be featured in the film "When Comedy was King." Everyone is invited by the League of Women Voters to come to this event.

Refreshments will be served. For advance ticket information, call Mrs. Thomas Wolf, 332-8691. Tickets will also be sold at the door on the evening of March 28th, starting at 7 p.m.

As part of the National League of Women Voters welfare study this fall, criteria for social services were discussed by the Welfare Committee of the League of Women Voters of Newton.

Part of the resulting national consensus position states: "Supportive services should be available—but not compulsory—for participants in income assistance programs. Most important among these are child care, counseling, family planning, health and legal services.

Fees for supportive services should be based on ability to pay, free when necessary. Facilities and services for participants should be the same as for the general public."

For the discussion units on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, March 24, 25, and 26, the Welfare Committee of the League of Women Voters of Newton studied the availability of services throughout the state, and especially in Newton, both from public and private agencies.

Members of the Committee conducted interviews with the directors of such Newton agencies as the Newton Community Council, Family Counselling Service, Newton Community Service Centers, Newton Visiting Nurse Association and the Public Health Department, as well as the Newton Welfare Office.

They also studied methods of delivering services. The focus of the discussion units will be on how the Department of Public Welfare should provide services: through community service centers; through multi-service centers; by dispersal of services to public and private agencies; or in some other way, such as a combination of the above?

Members of the Welfare Committee of the League of Women Voters of Newton include Mrs. Charles Lipson, Chairman; Mrs. Daniel Brandel, Vice-chairman; Mrs. Jonathan Adler; Mrs. Melvin Darack; Miss Janet Kelly; Mrs. Joel Leighton; and Mrs. Martin Leinwand.

Discussion units will be held at the following times and places: Wednesday, March 24, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Newtonville Library, 345 Walnut Street; 11:30 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Roy Green, 28 Lenox Street, West Newton (Bring a sandwich; coffee will be provided); and 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Robert Dinsmore, 9 Crescent Avenue, Newton Centre.

On Thursday morning, March 25, the unit will be at the home of Mrs. Asger Asgerisson, 151 Albermarle Road, Newtonville, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.; and on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Jerold Young, 44 Brandeis Road, Newton Centre, 8:00 to 10:00 p.m.

On Friday morning, March 26, the unit will be at the Auburndale Congregational Church, 64 Hancock Street, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. A babysitter will be in attendance for the Friday morning unit.

Meetings of the League of Women Voters of Newton are free and open to the public. For further information on membership in the League please call Mrs. Jonathan Bard, Membership Chairman, at 244-7688.

Newton Dems Give Support To House Bill

In a resolution adopted by the executive committee of the Newton Democratic City Committee, it was voted last week to express support of House Bill 3021, a bill to revise the method by which Massachusetts chooses its delegates to the Democratic and Republican National conventions.

The Bill is patterned upon guidelines set by the McGovern commission appointed at the 1968 National Democratic Convention and is the product of efforts by a number of individuals, including those of Mrs. Betty Taymor, Democratic state committeewoman from Newton, who was appointed to head a special committee to draft a bill which would meet the guidelines of the McGovern commission.

Among other things, the bill provides for abolishing the "winner take all" effect of the current law, and provides that 80 percent of Massachusetts delegates be chosen from the various congressional districts rather than the present one-third chosen from such districts.

Testifying at the hearing on March 10th were Mrs. Taymor and State Representative David J. Mofenson (D-Newton) who conveyed the support of the Newton Democratic City Committee.

Representative Mofenson stated that "the bill improves voter participation, brings national conventions closer to the people, and insures that minority political views have meaningful representation."

SENATE DEALS STUNNING BLOW TO SST FUNDS

THE SENATE dealt a staggering if not fatal blow to America's supersonic transport plane by voting Wednesday to end the heavy federal subsidy for development of the 1800 mile-per-hour craft. On a roll call of 51 to 46 the Senate upheld the House action last week to deny the $134 million President Nixon needed to keep the controversial project alive for the last three months of the current fiscal year, ending June 30. The one-two punch delivered by Congress in the past week means that after spending $864 million toward construction and test flight of two SST prototypes, the government will run out of money for the plane next Tuesday, March 30. It was a stunning rebuff to industry, the AFL-CIO and to Nixon personally. All had urged an intensive lobbying campaign in behalf of the SST as a symbol of continued predominance in commercial aviation and as hopes for an economic recovery. It appeared unlikely that both Houses of Congress would reverse themselves on the issue when they take up Nixon's new request for $235 million in SST funds for the 12 months starting July 1. In any event, that decision is months away, and even the strongest SST supporters agreed that the Senate vote Wednesday virtually wrote an end to federal help for the plane.

NIXON PROPOSES PLAN TO MERGE GOVERNMENT AGENCIES

PRESIDENT NIXON Wednesday formally proposed his plan to merge the Peace Corps, VISTA and other government service programs into a super-volunteer agency to be known as Action. Nixon's plan, spelled out in a message to Congress, would bring all the government's volunteer operations under one bureaucratic roof. Peace Corps Director Joseph E. Blatchford would head the new agency.

CALLEY JURY'S DELIBERATIONS DRAG THROUGH 8TH DAY

DELIBERATIONS in the My Lai court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr. dragged through their eighth day at Ft. Benning, Ga., Wednesday and the military judge, nettled by defense criticism, praised the jurors for their painstaking but thankless effort. "They'll be damned if they do and damned if they don't," convict Calley, said Col. Reid W. Kennedy. "If these jurors acquit, there are bound to be accusations of whitewash. If they convict, there will be accusations of the other way." The six-officer jury panel heard a read-back of testimony from two more witnesses Wednesday and appeared to be moving more quickly toward a verdict, which some court observers believe could come by the weekend.

PRESIDENT RESCINDS PORTSMOUTH SHIPYARD SHUTDOWN

PRESIDENT NIXON announced Wednesday an order closing the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard by 1974 will be rescinded. The president, who made the disclosure in a letter to Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, said his decision to rescind an order issued by former Defense Secretary Robert McNamara in 1964 was based on a recently completed review of the Piscataqua River facility in Kittery, Maine. "On the basis of that review and the recommendations made to me, I am pleased to inform you that the McNamara order closing the yard in 1974 will be rescinded and the workload established at a level to be determined by the secretary of defense," the letter said.

OBSERVERS SAY SINATRA WON'T STAY IN RETIREMENT

FRANK SINATRA has decided to retire from "public life," but observers agreed Wednesday that a man considered the greatest popular singer of his time is unlikely to remain out of the public eye. Sinatra, 55, announced his decision in a letter to friends, saying, "I have no plans for movies, television, recordings or even politics." He intends to do some writing or teaching and spend more time with family and friends. No super celebrity, however, ever manages to retire from such status. Sinatra was in seclusion in the golf course home he shares with his mother in Palm Springs, Calif., and was not accepting calls.

SAN FRANCISCO MAYOR DENIES ANY WRONGDOING

MAYOR Joseph L. Alioto of San Francisco Wednesday mapped plans for the struggle of his career, against a federal grand jury indictment charging him with bribery and fraud. Calling the nine-count indictment returned against him and three former Washington state officials in Seattle Tuesday a "14-carate fake," Alioto said he would continue to serve as mayor and would seek to have the proceedings transferred to San Francisco. The indictment accused Alioto, former Washington State Attorney General John J. O'Connell and George K. Faler, a former O'Connell assistant, with nine counts of bribery, fraud and conspiracy. John G. McCutcheon, former prosecutor of Pierce County, Wash., was charged with one count of conspiracy. The charges involve a $23 million legal fee Alioto received in a huge antitrust case in Washington state, of which he paid O'Connell and Faler more than $800,000.

2000 SAIGON MARINES REMAIN INSIDE LAOS

THE SOUTH VIETNAMESE operation in Laos ended Wednesday, but military sources said 2,000 Saigon marines remained to watch over approach routes to the South Vietnamese border. Border defenses were fortified as U.S. planes attacked advancing Communist tanks. Waves of other U.S. jets attacked supply depots and troop concentrations in North Vietnam Sunday and Monday, military sources said, as well as Communist missile sites. About 200 fighter-bombers and B52s took part in the raids 15 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone that separates North and South Vietnam. The U.S. command has announced the raids only as "protective reaction strikes" against SAM missile sites in North Vietnam. But the source said primary target of the raids was a North Vietnamese supply and troop buildup that could have been directed at Saigon troops pulling out of Laos or against South Vietnam itself. The Laos campaign was the center of controversy and debate as the operation ended. Both sides claimed success and huge kill figures. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said the South Vietnamese task force "achieved its primary objective" of disrupting Communist supply lines in Laos but he also said, in a Washington statement that "tremendously vicious and violent attacks" by Communist troops forced it to end early. The Viet Cong said the Communists in Laos had "smashed" the offensive after 45 days of "sustained, fierce fighting."

184,600 JOBLESS IN FEBRUARY, INCREASE OF 6,200

UNEMPLOYMENT in Massachusetts rose from 7 per cent to 7.3 per cent of the work force between January and February, the state Division of Employment Security announced Wednesday. There were 184,600 out of work in February, an increase of 6,200 officials said. The division also said 600,200 residents held manufacturing jobs last month, the lowest total since 1940.

VINCENT P. STANTON

Stanton Will Quit Post On School Board

Vincent P. Stanton, School Committee member from Ward 7 announced yesterday this week that he would not seek reelection in next November. His decision to retire at the end of this term follows a similar announcement by Edwin Hawkridge, School Committeeman from Ward 5.

In announcing his decision, Stanton issued the following statement:

"At the end of 1971, I will have completed more than five years as a member of Newton School Committee. I have decided to retire. Not only will the change be good for me and my family, but I think the schools in the city will be better served by a new member who will bring fresh energy to the office."

Freedman Is Appointed To Probate Court

Former School Committee Chairman Haskell C. Freedman was nominated yesterday by Governor Francis W. Sargent to be a judge in the Middlesex Probate Court.

When confirmed by the Executive Council, Freedman will fill the position vacated by the resignation of Judge Joseph W. Monahan of Belmont.

Under the law, Mr. Freedman's nomination was tabled for one week.

Mr. Freedman resides at 118 Home street, Newton Centre.

He was born on Aug. 2, 1907, graduated from Cambridge High and Latin School in 1926, from Harvard College in 1930 and from Harvard Law School in 1933.

The former School Board head, noted for his interest in educational matters, is the general counsel for the Massachusetts Teachers' Association.

He is a member of the Boston Bar Association, the Massachusetts Bar Association and the American Bar Association.

$8 Tax Rate Hike Forecast ...

Aldermen Find Nothing To Cut in City Budget

The Newton Board of Aldermen met in an all-day session on Saturday to consider a city budget for 1971 amounting to more than $46.6 million, but in eight hours of deliberations the city fathers plowed through not even one-third of the proposed expenditure items.

At the end of the day the net result of the first of several anticipated marathon meetings was that the aldermanic Finance Committee's proposed budget was increased by approximately $1600.

A few minor cuts were made in various department requests, but the increase resulted from the aldermen's decision to restore to the budget an amount cut by Mayor Monte G. Basbas for the installation of plexiglass in the police station.

Several attempts at reducing the budget proposed primarily by Aldermen Peter Harrington and Richard Bulwinkle, were debated at length and defeated.

The reason for lack of any substantial cuts by the board may have been, as Finance Committee Chairman Edward C. Uehlein said, "The Mayor has cut the budget to shreds. In fact, I'm worried that the taxpayers may revolt because the amount of money being allocated to the various city departments could result in a cut in services. This is an austerity budget, but there is a point of no return."

Mayor Monte G. Basbas submitted to the aldermen a city budget of $46,963,501, of which $22,818,035 is for the School Department and, by law, not subject to change or reduction.

After a lengthy review of the city departmental budget requests the Finance Committee recommended a total budget of $46,633,225.51.

In 1970 the approved city budget was $43,834,409.61. The budget submitted by the Finance Committee for this year reflects an increase of $2,798,817.87 over last year. Of this increase $1,669,226 is contained in the school budget and $1,129,591.87 is for all other city departments.

Based on these figures, Uehlein pointed out, the projected increase in the city's tax rate for 1971 would be $8.23, which would mean a tax rate

Two Reports On Buildings Submitted To School Board

Two lengthy reports dealing with school buildings were presented to the Newton School Committee on Monday night.

One, prepared by a subcommittee of the special Commission on School Buildings which has been working on school building priority needs, outlined a lengthy, detailed planning process for programming and design of school facilities.

The report recommended the setting up of four new boards to facilitate and to improve the effectiveness of obtaining new and renovated facilities as well as to provide a method of procedure.

The second report, prepared by a group of elementary school principals and presented by Arthur Loughland, principal of the Hyde School in Newton Highlands, spelled out a great number of deficiencies in the city's school buildings and recommended that the School Committee take over the school maintenance budget so that progress could be made in correcting the deficiencies. With regard to the report on the planning process for school construction the School Committee voted to adopt in principle the report

Policy Statement For Schools Held

A vote by the Newton School Committee on a policy statement on social and political activities in the schools was deferred for two weeks on Monday night so that parents may have an opportunity to read and react to the document. The statement, drawn up by a committee of 24 teachers and administrators with the consultation of about a dozen other persons, essentially reiterates the basic constitutional rights of freedom of speech, press, peaceable assembly and petition guaranteed to all American citizens by the constitution.

However, Peter Scott, president of the Newton PTA Council, told the School Committee that he felt the document was deficient in "what it left out" more than in what it states.

Signs New Law Limiting Gas Station Hours

Mayor Monte G. Basbas yesterday signed an ordinance limiting the hours in which gasoline filling stations may remain open in Newton, effective May 24.

These hours are Monday, through Saturday from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Sundays from 7 to 6.

The new law provides the right of appeal by gas station operators for longer hours, if they can prove that such extension is in the public need.

Spiro Intimates Nixon May Pick Different Ticket Mate

During Spiro Agnew's recent visit to Boston he appeared to confirm published reports that he might not be President Nixon's Vice Presidential running mate in next year's election.

His remarks in this regard were not as clear as was his insistence that CBS is not infallible, but that was the interpretation this listener placed on what Mr. Agnew had to say.

The Vice President first declared that he had not decided whether he wants to stand for reelection.

Then he asserted that President Nixon has not yet made up his mind whether he wants Spiro or someone else as his ticket mate in 1972.

Finally, he said that if Mr. Nixon should pick another Vice Presidential candidate to team up with him on the Republican national slate, he (Spiro) would support the ticket vigorously and forcibly.

The guessing here is that Mr. Agnew will be President Nixon's choice for the Vice Presidency a second time next year.

Howard Ferguson Day

Mayor Monte G. Basbas, seated at right, shakes hands with Howard Ferguson after signing proclamation designating today as Howard Ferguson Day in Newton. Standing, left to right, are Recreation Commissioner John B. Penney, School Superintendent Aaron Fink and Alderman Sidney T. Small. Mr. Ferguson, who will be honored at a testimonial tonight, retired recently after serving as a teacher and coach at Newton High School for 37 years.

Howard Ferguson Day Today in City

On most 1971 calendars, Thursday, March 25, has no significance attached to it, except in Newton.

For today is Howard L. Ferguson Day in the city, proclaimed last week by Mayor Monte G. Basbas as he urged all citizens of Newton to join in the tribute to long-time teacher and coach at Newton High School, whose absence this spring from the diamond will mark the first time in 37 years that the school's baseball staff does not include an active Howard Ferguson.

For 23 of those years, during his tenure as head coach, Ferguson's baseball squads compiled a brilliant 334-117-7 record, won 12 Suburban League titles, four Eastern Massachusetts championships and one State crown.

The official proclamation of March 17 honoring Ferguson states, "Howard Ferguson has been an inspiration to the youth of Newton both on and off the athletic fields." His overall record, listed above, helps demonstrate his impact on the field, as does his membership in such organizations as the Massachusetts Coaches Association, the Newton Coaches Association, the Massachusetts State Baseball Coaches Association and the Baseball Umpires Association.

(Ferguson's talents have been expended in other sports as well, as is evidenced by his years as coach of Newton High's junior varsity football team and his membership in the Basketball Officials Association.)

Off the athletic field, Ferguson's impact can be seen in the thousands of teenagers he has taught in his history classes at Newton High and, it can be added, the many more he will continue to teach, since he has elected to stay on in the classroom, if not on the ballfield.

The official proclamation also reads that, "Howard Ferguson's work has brought many tributes from his colleagues in all sports." An example of the regard in which he is held is his considered place as the dean of high school baseball men in the Commonwealth.

Another example of Howard Ferguson's stature in the community is the testimonial dinner being held tonight (Thursday) at the Marriott Motor Hotel, at which will be present his many friends from the schools, players he has coached, city officials and many other Newtonites who have heard the Mayor's call to join in the tribute.

The man they named Howard L. Ferguson Day for is the father of two married children and lives with his wife at 133 Lowell avenue in Newtonville.

Drinan Works To Aid The RFK Action Corps
Congressman Robert Drinan, S.J., is one of the sponsors of a dinner which will be held next Tuesday night (March 30) at the Parker House Roof to benefit the Robert F. Kennedy Action Corps. The Action Corps operates two large child welfare programs, Wellington Hall in Salem and the Robert F. Kennedy Home in Jamaica Plain.

Louise Bruyn Nears End of Peace Walk

Mrs. Louise Bruyn of Newton, who is now well past thirty days of her peace walk to Washington, plans to arrive there by Friday of next week (April 2) when she will post her five foreign policy alternatives along with the People's Peace Treaty on the doors of Congress. Groups in every state in the nation are organizing peace actions in conjunction with her march.

She has appointments with Senators Kennedy and Brooke, and Congressman Robert F. Drinan, but has not yet received confirmation of letter which she sent to President Nixon before she started her walk on February 17th. Her husband, Professor Sebryn Bruyn, telegraphed the President last Sunday asking him to please meet with Louise when she is in Washington.

Two weeks ago, a small group in the Boston area decided that the most effective way they could support Mrs. Bruyn's cause was to contact individuals across the country, tell them the story of her courageous walk, and encourage them to initiate peace actions in their own states.

As of last Saturday, this small group of friends and supporters had sent Mrs. Bruyn five theses, letters and news stories to fifty states in addition to making personal calls to at least one person in each state.

This group of Mrs. Bruyn's supporters, only one among the many that have been formed in the wake of her walk, now have contacts with 50 states, 30 of which are confirmed for some type of peace action, while the remainder are in the process of talking and organizing. In many state capitols, groups are planning to hold actions coinciding with Louise's action in Washington.

In April, they will walk through the downtown area of their capital cities to the door of their state houses in silence, wearing black armbands and carrying placards as requested by Mrs. Bruyn. They will post the five theses and the People's Peace Treaty, collect signatures, talk with the governor if possible, and with bystanders and state employees.

Mrs. Bruyn's supporters began by calling friends, but the effort soon grew and with the help of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Jones, friends of the Bruyns, they began to con-

Land Exchange Plan May Keep Housing Alive

A suggestion made by the Aldermanic Land Use Committee to the Auburndale Development Corporation Monday night, to have the latter exchange land it owns on Stanford Street for a city-owned parcel in another part of Newton, might yet enable approximately 100 needed housing units to be constructed here.

The corporation was told its request for certain zoning changes, which would allow it to proceed with its present plans to build town houses on its Auburndale property, could probably not be approved by the Land Use Committee because of the already congested traffic situation in the area as well as the overcrowded conditions at the Burr Elementary School.

Alderman Peter F. Harrington, the one who suggested the land exchange, noted that there is general agreement on the city's need for town house-type residences but the Stanford Street location is an unwise choice. The corporation's attorney,

Appoint J. J. DeMarco Director Of Finance at Bryant & Stratton

Joseph J. DeMarco of Business Administration and other related programs, Mr. DeMarco feels that "progressive thinking in education must necessarily reflect that student needs are uppermost in our minds."

"Mr. DeMarco brings a wealth of sound financial planning and budgeting to this new office," noted College president Donald G. Hanson. In addition to these duties, Mr. DeMarco will organize and develop a team responsible for implementing the administrative reorganization of the College's recently announced five-year expansion program.

British-born and educated, Mr. DeMarco has started to develop new curricula utilizing the latest computer teaching techniques.

Prior to joining Bryant & Stratton, Mr. DeMarco's international experience on a top management level in business administration includes service with the British Transport Commission, Guest Keen and Nettlefolds of London, and as vice-president of the European branch of Educational Enterprises, Inc., Washington, D.C.

With 1600 students at Bryant & Stratton, majoring in Lawrence Shubow, reacted favorably to the idea and indicated he would begin investigating substitute city-owned sites very soon.

The estimated monthly rent for a three-bedroom town house is $249. The project's builders are John and Joseph McIsaac of Boston and a quarter of the units in the project, being financed by the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency, are to be leased by the Newton Housing Authority to low-income families.

The concern over aggravating tight conditions at the Burr School, located at 171 Pine Street, became more factually-based at the Monday meeting when Shubow pointed out that 70 children would come from the 100 town houses.

High School Youths Visit Nurs. Home

Fifteen Newton High School students from Central Congregational, Newtonville United Methodist and St. John's Episcopal churches, headed by Reverend Jay Hanke of the Newtonville Youth Fellowship, met on Sunday (March 14) at the Chetwynde Nursing Home to visit individually with the residents and to distribute many hand-made gifts.

The elderly people enjoyed their enthusiastic interest, requesting a return visit. Due to the success of the goodwill visit, Rev. Hanke and Mrs. Phyllis Jacobs, activity director of Chetwynde, are formulating future plans.

Wanted: 400 Members Of Class Of '46

Officers of the Newton High School class of 1946 are looking for about 400 persons. Those sought are all about the same age. They include males who are no longer capable of 10 second, 100-yard dashes; and an equal number of the fairer sex who were given to reading Dr. Spock in the days before he became a philosopher.

The Newton High class of 1946 held its commencement exercises in a storm which some of its members put in the tornado class. There were 750 graduates. Last September a questionnaire was sent out to the last known address of each member. To date about 350 have replied. That leaves 400 to be heard from.

The current search is underway because class of '46 is holding its 25th anniversary, on Saturday, May 22, at the Blue Hill Country Club. The missing 400 are urged to contact Champe A. Fisher, 24th Floor, 225 Franklin Street, Boston, Mass. 02110.

Notes From Auburndale Garden Club

On Monday, April 5, members of the Auburndale Garden Club will tour the Lexington Gardens. The group will meet at the Auburndale Congregational Church at 9:30 a.m. Following the tour, the club members will gather at the home of Mrs. Edgar M. At the annual meeting of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts, Metropolitan District, on February 3rd in Boston, the Auburndale Garden Club received a District award. This award, in the form of a check, was granted for dedicated leadership and creative civic action in the Environmental Improvement Program sponsored by the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc. and Sears Roebuck and Company.

Early American Clocks At Jackson Open House

The fascinating world of early American clocks will feature the Spring Open House of the Jackson Homestead this Sunday afternoon, March 28. The stately old mansion at 527 Washington Street in Newton will be open to visitors from three to five o'clock. There is no charge for admission.

Mrs. Orin E. Skinner, Co-chairman of Exhibits with Mrs. John D. Fox has arranged unusual displays of "old-time" clocks and watches loaned to the museum by friends of the Jackson Homestead.

According to her notes for the exhibit, "William Davis is listed as the first clock maker to arrive in Boston. He came here in 1683 with surety provided by a David Edward because he had such a large family." She further noted that "clocks of the earliest colonial times until about 1800 were of course all made by hand, using handmade tools, usually to order and in size and design to please the buyer so no two were exactly alike."

The exhibits will have examples of the works of several of the early craftsman's clocks made in America.

As part of the Open House exhibit on early American clocks, The Friends of the Jackson Homestead will sponsor a lecture on the "History of Time Recording and 'Behind the Face'" explanation of the works Tuesday evening (March 30) at 8 p.m. at the Homestead. Clendenning Smith will be the lecturer. The lecture is open to the public for a small guest fee.

More SS Money For Elderly Has Drinan Support

A bill seeking to raise the minimum monthly payment under Social Security for Senior Citizens and the retired is being championed by Congressman Robert F. Drinan of the 3rd Congressional District of Massachusetts.

The new legislation is an alternative to one now under consideration in the House of Representatives and is being co-sponsored by Drinan.

Under the legislation, the minimum monthly payment would be raised to $100.00, and would increase the allowable retirement income to $2,400.00. Presently if a person earns more than $1,600.00 annually their benefits are deeply affected to a point of no allocations.

Congressman Drinan, who has pledged his strong support to legislation for the elderly, said, "The time is past when we can afford to treat elderly citizens with a meager pitance. At present there are some 20 million citizens in the United States over age 65, and many of them live on or below the poverty line. Retirement for these persons is not the well deserved joy that it should be. Financial woes plague many elderly people. I wholeheartedly support this legislation as part of a comprehensive 'Bill of Rights' for our Senior Citizens."

Now It's Fire

To a degree that must shock every sane person, the lighted match and torch have been added to the destructive implements of the despoilers we call vandals. They've replaced flooring and the smashing of furniture and physical properties of schools. Chelsea and Norwood will be obliged to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars for the replacement of school-houses. Boston school principals report repeated discoveries of fires in occupied buildings which thus far have been extinguished before gaining headway.

Schools, playgrounds and parks have been the popular targets of despoilers for years. Axes, sledges, crowbars have been favorite tools. Before a new fiscal year starts, school authorities now know that public money, which could go for books, will be spent for glass to replace broken windows. Installers can name in days the useful life expectancy of drinking fountains set up in some playgrounds. We have yet to produce a design or materials for a park bench which can't be ripped apart.

All that has become almost inevitable — something to be unhappily borne in this over-permissive era.

Fire is something else. Fire destroys inanimate property. It kills humans as well. Its victims can and does include children and firefighters.

A few years back, when insurance companies began refusing or placing extremely high premium rates on policies for public property, the fire risk was, of course, considered a principal factor, but actuaries also recognized the steady increase in the number of vandals-at-large and the ever-broadening scope of their activities.

Today millions of dollars worth of public property is uninsured. Public treasuries can't afford the premiums even when they find an insurance firm willing to meet the risks at vastly increased rates.

Yet, it is imperative that society protect human life. To do so it must use every resource at hand, and if the adoption of the sternest measures are necessary, such measures may be undertaken.

Whether these vandals are young or old, insane or just motivated by a desire to destroy, they must be taken out of circulation.

Post facto recriminations or assessments of blame never bring back needlessly sacrificed lives.

As April Looms

Between now and the 15th of April millions of Americans will sit down to the task of making out what the Internal Revenue Service describes as the most simplified tax form it has yet devised.

Some will tackle the job with reluctance; many with fear and trepidation that despite the built-in simplicity and all the instructions, they may get the wrong answers on the wrong lines, and many will feel the government could find a less irksome system for collecting its income.

Few other nations would trust the taxpayers themselves to make out their own tax bills every year. Of course, the trust is supported by a carefully drawn set of rules and regulations by which Uncle Sam is able to tap the services of employers and banks to help him keep cheating to a minimum. Yet, over a long period of years, the average American comes pretty close to meeting his obligations.

In the last few years dissenters, exercising what they proclaim is their constitutionally-guaranteed right of free speech have tried to mount demonstrations at IRS offices on April 15. For the most part they have fizzled.

Boston is accredited with being the birthplace of a movement to withhold federal telephone taxes to keep those taxes from getting into the hands of the Defense Department and supporting operations in Indo-China.

The IRS makes no fuss about the movement; nor does it express any public concern as efforts are made to spread it across the country. The reason is simple. It knows it will get the money.

The conscientious taxpayer — and that means most of us — might be puzzled and ask: "How do they get away with it even for a short time?" They don't. If there is a little bookkeeping expense involved in tracking them down, fines and penalties take care of it.

In a letter to one of his cronies back in 1784, Ben Franklin wrote: "Our Constitution is in actual operation; everything appears to promise that it will last; but in this world nothing is certain but death and taxes."

Ben's views of the Constitution and those telephone tax holdouts would be interesting today.

Political Highlights

It's difficult to see how the President could gain any votes by dumping Mr. Agnew, and he might lose some by doing so.

Vice President Agnew would be a bigger and better attraction on the banquet circuit, at fund-raising events, political rallies and other places. Mr. Nixon can't go than any other emissary Mr. Nixon might send.

In the final analysis, of course, President Nixon will be reelected or rejected on the basis of his own record, not on the esteem in which Mr. Agnew is held by the voters.

The two big issues on which President Nixon probably will stand or fall will be the status of the war in Indo-China and the national economy and degree of prosperity, or lack of it, in the United States.

If the war in Indo-China has not been wound down to the extent most Americans expect and the national economy has not brightened greatly, President Nixon might as well forget about standing for another term in 1972. People out of work don't vote for the "ins."

If President Nixon has achieved those two goals, he will have a good chance of gaining reelection next year although he by no means would be a sure thing. The big factor in Mr. Nixon's favor at the present time is that the nearest thing the Democratic party has to an outstanding candidate to match against the President is Senator Edmund Muskie who isn't really very outstanding.

Reports Persist That Volpe Will Leave Nixon Cabinet

Reports and rumors persist in Washington that former Massachusetts Governor John A. Volpe will be the next one to leave President Nixon's Cabinet.

Attempts to run them down and determine their basis and substance, if any, leave a reporter with the impression that they have none. Yet, they do not die.

Newsweek Magazine declared recently in its perspective column that "betting on who will be next to leave the Nixon Cabinet puts Transportation Secretary John Volpe in the lead."

As far as this writer has been able to ascertain, there is no disposition on the part of President Nixon to ease Secretary Volpe out and no dissatisfaction with the job Volpe has done as head of the Transportation Department.

It could be that Volpe himself is planning to leave the President's Cabinet when the opportunity presents itself, but Volpe has given no intimation or indication of any such plan.

However, Volpe is an extremely proud man whose boiling point is not a high one. He may not be completely satisfied with his role as Secretary of Transportation, a position which does not seem to this observer to be on a par with that of the Governor of Massachusetts.

He also has been the target of what we would consider unwarranted criticism for his action in giving priority to public transportation systems over the construction of new highways.

There must be some middle ground, but automobile traffic cannot be allowed to strangle the United States, as it is on its way to doing.

But whatever Volpe's personal feelings may be, the fact is that he cut his ties and burned most of his bridges when he resigned from the Governorship to become Secretary of Transportation.

There is no public office he can seek in the immediate future unless he chooses to become a candidate for Mayor of Boston which is possible but not probable.

Collins, Donahue, Graham To Make Debuts in TV Show

Television Channel 7 will introduce an intriguing panel show at 3 o'clock this coming Sunday afternoon.

The panelists, who will discuss and argue issues of public interest, will be former Boston Mayor John F. Collins, former State Senate President Maurice A. Donahue and former State Senate Republican Leader Philip A. Graham.

Donahue is a liberal Democrat. Graham is a conservative Republican. Collins, who has been building a following as a commentator for Channel 7, is a middle-of-the-roader somewhere in between Donahue and Graham.

Graham and Donahue served together in the Senate. Both are colorful, as is Collins.

Donahue made a strong bid last year for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Graham would have been the last Republican to serve as president of the State Senate except that John E. Powers in a political coup delivered the Democratic Senators to the late Newland Holmes who had the backing of only a handful of GOP Senators.

The forceful, hard-hitting Graham was the overwhelming choice of the Republican caucus. But when Holmes was able to get the backing of a few GOP Senators, Powers swung almost solid Democratic support to him and cut down Graham.

Collins, Donahue and Graham have one thing in common. They say what they think and let the chips land where they fall. Their show should be worth watching.

Start Move to Give Single Persons Better Tax Break

One of the theories behind the deductions allowed on the federal income tax return obviously is that a wealthy playboy, a well-to-do bachelor or even a single girl drawing a good salary are all able to pay a higher percentage of taxes than a married couple with children.

They undoubtedly are, but, as has been repeatedly pointed out, the system imposes a hardship on the widowed mother of three, treating her less kindly than the mother of three who also has a husband.

A bill has been filed on Capitol Hill by 93 Congressmen, some of them from Massachusetts, seeking to eliminate what they consider a tax discrimination against unmarried persons.

Statements have been made by sponsors of the measure that single persons should not be penalized because they do not choose to be married.

Spiro Shows Sense of Humor In Gridiron Club Address

In a speech to members of the Gridiron Club in Washington recently, the Vice President told his

Waban Man to Federal Post

A Waban man, Robert S. Fuchs, has been appointed director of the Boston regional office of the National Labor Relations Board.

Mr. Fuchs is the son of the late Judge Emil E. Fuchs, former president of the Boston Braves.

He resides with his wife and their two daughters at 140 Oliver road in Waban.

One daughter, Janice, is a senior at American International College in Springfield. The other, Carolyn, is a freshman at Fairleigh Dickinson University in Madison, N. J.

Mr. Fuchs began his career with the NLRB, which administers the nation's principal labor law, in 1948. He started as a field attorney in the Boston office and has steadily progressed through a succession of more responsible positions, including supervisory attorney, assistant to the regional director and assistant regional attorney.

Born in New York City, Mr. Fuchs was educated in the public schools in that area. In 1934, he received his A.B. degree from Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla. In 1938, he received his LL.B. degree from Boston College.

An army veteran of World War II, Mr. Fuchs enlisted as a private in the Yankee Division in 1941. He rose to the rank of Lt. Colonel while serving in the China-Burma theatre of operations.

As director of the Boston Regional Office, Mr. Fuchs will direct the handling of unfair labor practice cases and employee representation matters under the National Labor Relations Act. This office covers the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and all of Connecticut except Fairfield County.

listeners it was untrue that he would be replaced by Secretary of the Treasury Connally as the No. 2 man on the Republican national ticket next year.

"After all," declared Spiro in explaining why Mr. Connally could not be picked as the candidate for Veep, "who ever heard of a Texan who can pronounce 'pusillanimous'?"

GOP National Chairman Is Proving a Deft Name-Caller

How well Senator Robert J. Dole will be able to do in his relatively new role as chairman of the Republican National Committee remains to be seen. But he either has a faculty for coining a name-calling phrase or has a ghost writer who can do so.

While blasting Ramsey Clark's decision to defend Father Philip Berrigan, Dole referred to Clark as a "left-leaning marshmallow."

White House Vetoes Debate Between Ted and Richardson

Elliot L. Richardson, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in President Nixon's Cabinet, is a pretty potent politician in his own right.

If he had not decided to shift his sights to the Attorney Generalship in 1966 instead of standing for reelection as Lieutenant Governor, Richardson probably would be Governor of Massachusetts today instead of Francis W. Sargent.

He automatically would have stepped into the Governorship, when John Volpe went to Washington at the start of 1969 if he had been Lieutenant Governor instead of Attorney General at the time.

But Richardson never second-guessed himself for yielding to the arguments of those who told him in 1966 he was the only Republican who could hold the office of Attorney General for the GOP.

He made the best of the situation and followed Volpe to Washington, accepting a position as the No. 2 man in the State Department and subsequently moving up to his present post as head of HEW.

Richardson was equally philosophical back in 1962 when former Senator Leverett Saltonstall, who presided over the GOP State Convention that year, made a questionable ruling which cost Richardson the Republican nomination for Attorney General.

Richardson had worked for Saltonstall as his administrative assistant, and it appeared that Salty leaned over backwards so far that he ruined Richardson.

However, Richardson never actually agreed that was so. He never criticized his old boss. The most he would say was that Saltonstall had been in a tough spot and had to make a difficult ruling.

Richardson, of course, returned to the political wars in 1964 to win election as Lieutenant Governor and went on to stamp himself as one of the Bay State's top GOP figures.

He was considered a liberal Republican, and it came as a bit of a surprise when he became a member of the Nixon Cabinet.

Richardson didn't hesitate when he was asked by CBS if he would engage in a nationally televised one-hour debate with Senator Edward M. Kennedy. Confident of his ability to battle it out verbally with Ted Kennedy or anybody else, Richardson readily accepted.

Subject of the debate was to be two federal health insurance plans, one proposed by President Nixon, the other sponsored by Ted Kennedy. Richardson, of course, was to argue for the President's proposal.

It probably would have been an interesting debate between two highly capable adversaries, but a White House aide stepped in and vetoed the entire idea.

A variety of reasons have been reported for his action. One is that the White House felt the one-hour show would provide too much exposure for Ted Kennedy and his bill.

A second was that White House advisers thought Ted's plan would lend itself to discussion better than would the President's. A third reason suggested was that it is too early for such a wide-scale debate of the health insurance issue.

Community Council Gathers Data On Day Camps, Nursery Schools

A number of publications have been compiled and are available for distribution by the Newton Community Council to Newton parents on day camps and nursery schools and also available are a few copies of the current Directory of Newton Agencies and Organizations. A small charge is made for the directory with the other publications free of charge. For information call the Newton Community Council office, 12 Page road, Newtonville (527-5120).

A brochure on 17 private and non-profit local Day Camps in Newton and surrounding areas contains the following information to assist parents in planning for the summer: name and location of the camp, name and telephone number of the camp director, ages eligible, hours and dates, fees, provisions for transportation and lunch, and maximum enrollment. Information on 28 nursery schools in Newton and surrounding communities is contained in a brochure to help those planning for pre-school children this fall: name, address and telephone number of the nursery school, name of director, hours, ages, provisions for lunch, snack and children enrolled and the fee. Both private and non-profit nursery schools are listed.

The latter explanation would suggest that the Richardson-Kennedy debate may be staged later in the year.

The real reason probably is that President Nixon considers Kennedy as potentially the strongest Democratic candidate who might stand against him in next year's election and is not disposed to let Ted get any nation-wide publicity if he can avoid it.

Sources close to the President say that Maine's Senator Muskie doesn't exactly cause any shivers and shakes at the White House.

Mr. Nixon, they indicate, would much prefer Muskie as an opponent than engage in a test of strength with Ted Kennedy who, of course, still insists he will not be a candidate for the Presidency next year. Richardson evidently is not convinced.

Bing Crosby's Group Merits Praise in POW Ransom Try

We must express our accord with those who have been ridiculing the action of a group of self-styled diplomats who have been trying to negotiate a peace treaty between the peoples of the United States and North Vietnam.

Leader in this endeavor was a traitorous kook named David Ifshin, president of the National Students Association, who attracted some notoriety a few months ago when he assailed American soldiers as murderers in broadcasts over radio Hanoi.

We find it difficult to understand why youths who refuse to be drafted are sent to jail while persons such as Ifshin are allowed to remain at large.

But we certainly would voice our dissent to articles and editorials which seem to relate Ifshin's strange collection of treaty-seekers with a group of wealthy patriots headed by Bing Crosby who offered to pay a ransom to Hanoi in order to buy the freedom of American prisoners of war held captive in North Vietnam.

The State Department unquestionably had reason for objecting to the plan. Admittedly, there is merit to the argument against rewarding an enemy for the prisoners it captured.

Nevertheless, we would applaud Bing Crosby and his wealthy associates for their willingness to place their money on the barrelhead to obtain freedom for American prisoners of war.

What they proposed did not conform to international protocol, but neither does the war being fought in Indo-China. It also is unlikely the North Vietnamese would barter prisoners for dollars.

However, Bing Crosby and his group had the highest and noblest of motives. We wish they could have bought those pawns out of jails. As far as we're concerned, this is one instance where the end would justify the means.

We do have difficulty accepting the reasoning of those who criticize Bing Crosby and his associates but defend the right of pickets to demonstrate their desire for peace by throwing rocks at the heads of police officers.

State Official Talks Monday to Rotary Meeting

John McGlennon, special assistant to Lieutenant Governor Donald R. Dwight, will be the featured speaker at next Monday's (March 29) meeting of the Newton Rotary, to be held at the Braeburn Country Club, beginning at 7 p.m.

McGlennon, former state representative and candidate for Congress, will discuss the government reorganization plan that is scheduled to go into effect April 20 in Massachusetts. The Concord resident is assisting Lt. Governor Dwight in screening applicants for the 10 cabinet posts created under the reorganization plan.

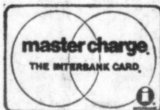

As a state representative, McGlennon was a member of the advisory board which drafted the original reorganization legislation. He will explain the cabinet system and will outline the progress that has been made in implementing this plan, considered to be the most sweeping in the Commonwealth's history.

HS Stage Band In Festival At Berklee College

The Newton High School Stage Band directed by Jerry Gardner has been accepted as a participant in the Third Annual High School Jazz Festival sponsored by the National Association of Jazz Educators and hosted by the Berklee College of Music in Boston. The Festival will be this Saturday.

The Festival is an all-day event which is expected this year to include sixty participating high schools from eight or more states. The event last year featured individual group performances by all participants, several electronic workshops and concert demonstrations, an arranger's workshop, an improvisation clinic, and a series of group and individual instrumental performance clinics with such well-known members of the Berklee Faculty as: John LaPorta, improvisation specialist who was saxophonist-arranger for Woody Herman and a 1970 ASCAP Award Winner; Phil Wilson, Berklee trombone head who did the award-winning ar-

MRS. MICHAEL E. NORMAN

Michael Norman And Bride Will Live In West Roxbury

On Saturday, March 20th, at Green Manor in Sharon, Miss Rhonda Gail Spiegel became the bride of Michael Edward Norman.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Spiegel of Brighton. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Norman of 2756 Woodcliff road, Newton Centre, are the groom's parents.

Cantor Harold Lew of Sharon officiated at the pretty March nuptial which was followed by a reception.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length white peau de soie gown. Richly embroidered motifs marked the bodice, which had a square neckline enhanced with a matching collar. Her organza puffed sleeves were designed with

She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and wore an embroidered cap which held in place her bouffant elbow length silk illusion veil.

Miss Betsy Hamburg of Brookline was maid of honor, while Mrs. Steven Pyenson of Otis, Mass., was matron of honor. They were dressed alike in yellow organza gowns.

Similarly attired, the other attendants were Miss Sandra Cogelin of Winthrop and Miss Karel Newman of Newton.

Burton Norman of Newton, brother of the groom, served as best man. The ushers were Martin Spiegel of Brighton, brother of the bride, Robert Spiegel of Newton, Steven Prenson of Otis, Steven Smith of Brockton, Herbert Buchine and Russell Lightman, both of Newton.

Mr. Norman and his bride are now in Acapulco, Mexico, on their honeymoon. They will live in West Roxbury.

Judith Alberto Is Bride Of Richard James Maybe

Miss Judith Ann Alberto of Newton Highlands, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Dunbar of Mendon, and Richard James Maybe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Maybe of Newton Highlands, were married recently at Boston University's Marsh Chapel.

Following the 5 o'clock single ring ceremony a reception was held at Lakeview Ballroom in Mendon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown made of satin and lace. A double cathedral length illusion veil was fastened to her jeweled lace crown. She carried a cascade of gladioli accented with ivy.

Mrs. Arlene Burns of Waterbury, Ct., was her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Sharon Cutler of Mendon, sister of the bride, and Miss Margot Donnelly of Montreal, Canada. Junior bridesmaid for her aunt was Miss Sharon Ann Alberto of Milford.

Robert Maybe of Newton Highlands, brother of the groom, served as best man. Donald Cutler of Mendon, brother-in-law of bride and Charles Stewart of Needham, cousin of the groom, were ushers. Master Kenneth Stewart of Needham was ring bearer.

The couple, who are now living in Newton Highlands, plan a trip to Spain and Portugal in September.

Both the bride and groom were graduated from Boston University, class of 1965. Mrs. Maybe is administrator at the Mount Auburn Research Associates, Inc., Cambridge. Her husband is an accountant for Rover Dental Supply Company in Boston.

Memories Of Recent NHS Alpine Skiing

"Fantastique!" was the only word which members of the Newton High Ski Club could think of to describe their recent ten-day ski holiday in the Mont Blanc area of the French Alps. The trip, organized by Stuart Rist, a chemistry teacher at NHS and advisor to the ski club, left Boston Friday, February 12th aboard a Pan Am charter flight and flew directly to Geneva, Switzerland. The one hundred and seventy three passengers disembarked from the 707 to find armed Swiss combat troops surrounding the area. It seems the Swiss are determined to prevent any further sky-jacks from their airports.

After a brief ride, the four busloads arrived in the center of Geneva for a few hours of sightseeing, gift-shopping and eating. The bare ground and green grass of Geneva gave the group more than a little surprise since they would be skiing just 70 kilometers from the city.

Boarding busses again, the entourage moved through rustic countryside to the French boarder and eventually into the Mont Blanc-Chamonix Valley to beautiful condominium apartments in the picturesque town of Argentiere.

A large cable car took the groups up the Grand Montets to ski at about the 10,000 foot level... in cloud cover. There was plenty of snow and a great deal more skiing (as the French define it) than we bargained for. Most of the group settled down to ski instruction and a lesser slope for the next couple of days. It is interesting to note that the French technique involves a heavy use of the poles when making turns. This is essential when you need to turn on a loose surface (they rarely groom the slopes).

Other sources of entertainment entailed visiting the various shops, talking to everyone who would reply to the somewhat strange French pronunciation, and generally trying to dispel the "Ugly American" image which tourist generally leave behind. The good wishes of the restaurant owners, the concierge and the local travel agents seemed to indicate that Newton High skiers had added a plus to Franco-American relations.

Scott Bianchi and Bill Wise, President and Vice President of the Ski Club undertook a project designated the "Stu Rist Fund" in order to show the groups appreciation for the ten months of planning Mr. Rist had put into this trip. On the last night, as a complete surprise, Mr. Rist was presented with a pair of Dynastar skis and Look-Nevada bindings. He was visibly moved by this presentation, thanked everyone for their cooperation and managed to remind them that there was still a 12 o'clock curfew... he never let up.

The flight back found a weary, but ecstatic group of travelers landing at Logan Airport, Sunday, February 21 amid sworn oaths that Newton High would be back next year.

Report From Beethoven PTA

The Creative Arts Program at the Beethoven School, headed by Mrs. David Lewis, has been active in the celebration of the composer Beethoven's 200th birthday.

On Dec. 17, the actual birth date, room mothers along with the Camp Union kitchen provided cakes for parties in each class room. The historical aspect of the celebration has seen the library adding to its reference material about the composer and each class learning about Beethoven's life.

Many classes listened to records and encouraged students who were playing Beethoven pieces in their music lessons to perform in school.

Also on Dec. 17, Channel 4 visited the school and televised the children participating in the Beethoven celebration.

Policy

He asked for the delay in the School Committee's approval of the policy statement so that parent groups such as the one he leads could also evaluate it.

His sentiments were echoed as far as the request for delay was concerned, by John Weber, president of the F. A. Day Jr. High PTA.

At the conclusion of the five page statement a broad provision is made for disruption or violence.

It states: "In a period of dissent, which may conceivably result in temporary disruption of the educational process, the school has a responsibility to protect the rights of all students. While seeking to return to the primary purposes of instruction as quickly as possible, the administration and faculty must take whatever steps are essential to prevent violence, whether it be directed toward those who dissent or those who take issue with the dissenters. Finally, the school community is obligated to protect itself from those forces of revolution and reaction which may seek to destroy the school as a forum where all ideas are examined and where a decent regard for the rights of others is practiced. Anything less constitutes a failure to the school and to the community."

The responsibilities as well as the rights of students and faculty are outlined in the policy statement.

In a general statement regarding the responsibilities of students, the document says: "We recognize the students' right to freedom of speech, freedom of press, to peaceful assembly, and to petition for the correction of grievances. Accompanying responsibilities for the flow from the exercise of these rights. Equal in value among these are: (1) respect for one's self; (2) respect for others and their rights; (3) respect for individual dignity; and (4) respect for legally constituted authority."

In outlining the political rights of faculty members the policy statement endorses a statement by the American Civil Liberties Union: "The teacher is free to participate as an individual in political activities. He should be free to fulfill his duties and responsibilities as a citizen by participating actively in the affairs of the political party of his choice, by attending party functions, contributing to the support of the party, campaigning in the community for its candidates, serving as an official in the party, becoming a candidate of the party for public office and holding such offices . . . This political activity, however, must not compromise his professional integrity. He must not misuse his professional position to subvert the academic process in the interests of his own political ambition or those of the political group."

With regard to the academic freedom of teachers, the policy statement notes: "When a controversial issue is explored, efforts must be made to expose the students to all viewpoints, thus permitting them to make their own decisions relative to the merits of the issue. As the National Council for Social Studies has recognized: 'Democracy is a way of life that prizes alternatives. Alternatives mean that people must make choices. Wisdom with which to make choices can come only if there is freedom of speech, of press, of assembly, and of teaching . . . In defending freedom to learn and freedom to talk, we are defending the democratic process itself.'"

Responsibilities of teachers are outlined as follows: "Specific responsibilities

Babson To Host Oregon Senator

U.S. Senator Mark O. Hatfield (R-Oregon) will deliver an address at 8 p.m., Tuesday, April 6, in Babson College's Knight Auditorium. His speech is open to the public and is sponsored by the Babson Forum, a student organization.

Co-sponsor of the McGovern-Hatfield Amendment To End The War, Hatfield sought to end the flow of funds, except economic aid, to South Vietnam and Laos in the absence of a congressional declaration of war. The amendment provided for the withdrawal of troops from Vietnam after December 1970 and for the curtailment of aid to Cambodia.

An Oregon State Representative from 1950 to 1954, Hatfield served in the State Senate from 1954 to 1956. Elected Governor of Oregon in 1958, he won election to the U.S. Senate in 1966.

Hatfield has served as an elected delegate to the Republican National Convention since 1952. Chosen to deliver the nominating speech for Richard M. Nixon in 1960, he seconded the nomination of President Nixon in 1968.

Hatfield serves on the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, the Aeronautics and Space Sciences Committee, the Senate Select Committee on Small Business and the Select Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity.

Stephen F. Fusi, son of Mrs. Henry T. Fusi of Waban has been named to the Dean's List at Wentworth Institute where he is a Mechanical Design Engineering major.

of the teacher include the obligation to avoid proselytizing, to guard against the possible undue influence that working with a captive audience can lead to, to assist in the protection of the rights of all students, and to protect the school from appearing to assume an institutional position in political matters."

"Teachers have the right to express their own judgments on burning issues. To do so is more honest than hiding one's viewpoint under the pretense of neutrality while deliberately manipulating students to a particular point of view."

"As is noted above, however, staff members are also responsible for maintaining a climate of free and open debate on all issues and for planning class activities that will help students make their own decisions. Materials made available to students should be relevant to the course, as well as appropriate to the students' level of maturity and intellectual capacity."

Soccer Talk

By PAUL ELDRIDGE

The new season is drawing closer each day. Teams have been practicing indoors and out the past few weeks. Some, like the Dedham Jets, started indoors in a gym and for the past two weeks have moved outside.

The BAYS open up on April 17 with the "B" and "C" divisions. This year the BAYS will play on Saturday and Sunday because there are not enough referees. Also the BAYS will have a new division this year, the double A. This division is for boys 17 and 18 years of age.

Any man who is interested in becoming a Soccer Referee, please get in touch with either Mr. John Weil at 846-1205 or myself care of this column. Just for fun this year, when you are outside in the backyard or at the playground try playing Soccer. You don't need a Soccer ball, any type of playground ball will do. Girls can have as much fun with this game as well as boys. It can not only be great fun but equally great for Physical Fitness.

Some playing tips from Chris Williams, coach of the Boston Astros. In kicking the ball, try to get your knee over it. Put the other foot next to the ball and square to your target. You don't have to kick the ball too hard if you use your knee and not your whole leg. This is the same principal as when you're batting in baseball, you can get more snap into the swing if you use your wrists. When your foot comes in contact with the ball, it should be across the laces. If you put your whole body into it, swinging your arms and trunk of your body over the ball, keep your head down and eyes on the ball, your shot will go faster and surer.

Trapping the ball is very important in controlling the ball. If the ball comes to you on the ground, the second it hits your foot, pull your leg back in a swing motion keeping contact with the ball until you have it under control. You can trap the ball not only with your foot but also with your knee, chest and head. Trapping with your head is the hardest way. There are as many ways of trapping the ball as there are players. Each player has to find out for himself the best way he can trap the ball.

But the principal is the same no matter what part of the body or the way you use. The second the ball touches you, that part of your body should go limp, so the ball won't bounce away. In the weeks to come, there will be more playing tips from Coach Williams.

Musical Theme To Annual Conference of PTA Council

The Annual Spring Conference of the Newton Council of PTAs will present a "Kaleidoscope in Sound" which will spotlight the community a sampling of what is happening - musically - to students in Newton Schools today, the philosophy of music education in Newton, and some new directions it will be taking.

The program will be held Tuesday evening, April 6th, at the Meadowbrook Junior High School in Newton Centre. Dinner (by reservation) is at 6:15 p.m. The program is open to the public at a nominal charge and will start at 7:30 p.m.

John Harper, Assistant Coordinator for the Arts in Music for the Newton Schools, will moderate the program which will present demonstrations and performances by various age groups of students. This is Mr. Harper's first year in the Newton schools. Uppermost in his aims is to share with the Newton community the "exhilaration and importance of music in the lives of their children."

In preparing for the program, Mr. Harper commented, "Environmental concerns in education have become paramount in educational philosophy. Environmental science, history, language, and all academic subjects are the arts. Music has an innate response from life itself, and is invited to attend."

Mr. and Mrs. S. Wendall Kravitz of 11 Valleyspring Road, Newton Centre are in charge of reservations for the dinner, and reservations may be sent directly to their address. The community at large is invited to attend.

C of C Stand On West Newtonite Control of Signs

The Newton Chamber of Commerce has stated its reservations with respect to Articles 29 and 30 of the Town Warrant, which call for stricter control over signs.

The Chamber's Planning, Zoning - Redevelopment subcommittee on Needham studied the matter prior to the policy decision taken by the Board of Directors which favors restrictions for new signs only.

All efforts designed to make Needham a more attractive community in which to live or do business are favored by the Chamber, but it feels that the mandatory removal of existing signs within five years would be unjust and is unnecessary.

West Newtonite Squad Position

Joseph Picariello, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Picariello of 56 Talbot Street in West Newton, is a candidate for the varsity lacrosse team at Springfield College.

The squad, which had an 8-3-1 record last year, is looking forward to another successful season.

Picariello, a Newton High School graduate, is a sophomore at Springfield.

Stormy Effect of Troubled Youth On His Parents

"Eye of the Hurricane", a contemporary play about the stormy effect a troubled youngster has on his happily married parents, will be featured at the annual meeting of Family Counseling Service (Region West), Inc., on Tuesday, April 6, at 8 p.m., in the Conference Room of the Visiting Nurse Association, 764-A Main Street, Waltham.

L. Thomas Linden, president of Region West, has extended an invitation to anyone interested in their work to attend the meeting, which is open to the public.

The evening will begin with a brief business meeting, and then Russell W. Wood, director of drama at the Rivers Country Day School, Weston, will introduce the play by Nora Sterling, which shows how social casework enables a couple to understand their ten-year old son who has begun to cheat and steal at school and has not responded to discipline.

A family caseworker, like the quiet "eye" at the center of a hurricane, helps the family chart a new course. Charles N. Shane, Associate Dean, Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University, will lead a discussion of the play after the performance.

Region West has offices in Brookline, Natick, Newton, Waltham, Wayland and Wellesley, and also serves Sherborn, Sudbury and Weston.

Other officers of this United Fund agency are Mrs. Robert G. Hall of Sudbury, Vice-President; Charles N. Shane of Wayland, Vice-President; Mrs. Guerdard H. Hawkins, Jr. of Newton, Secretary; and Mr. Fletcher C. Chamberlain of Sherborn, Treasurer.

Heart Fund Head Thanks Police

Norman W. White, chairman of the Newton Community Heart Fund Campaign, has sent a letter to Police Chief William F. Quinn expressing his thanks for the help given by the members of the city's force to the 1971 Heart Fund drive.

Mr. White's letter to Chief Quinn follows:
"In these days when the topic of law and order is foremost in the minds of our citizenry, most of us tend to think of our Police Department merely as a means of maintaining this law and order. There are probably not too many of our citizens who are fully aware of just what tasks are a part of a police officer's routine."

"As chairman of the 1971 Heart Fund Campaign for the City of Newton, it was my job to raise money and obtain workers in as many different directions as possible. One of these was to place coin collection boxes throughout all the villages in the city. My first thought was to enlist the help of the Police Department, although I was a bit hesitant to ask for their time."

"I was most pleased when you told me that the Police Department would be more than glad to assist the Heart Fund; and I would like to take this time to thank you personally, Officer John Coffey, and all the officers in your department who helped — above and beyond their call of duty."

Traffic Agency Turned Down On Two Proposals

The Newton Traffic Commission received notice last week that it would not be able to proceed with a couple of proposals it had hoped to implement.

From the Boston Commission of Traffic and Parking, the Newton agency got a letter which reads that its (Newton's) plan to make Washington Street one-way in a westerly direction from Oak Square in Brighton to Park Street in Newton Corner cannot be accepted.

The letter did include a suggestion acceptable alternative, however.

On the matter of excluding trucks from Winchester Street, the State Department of Public Works wrote the Traffic Commission that the city should not go through with the idea.

The DPW cited these statistics to support its recommendation: (a) in the past year, only one heavy commercial vehicle has been involved in an accident; (b) trucks make up less than one percent of Winchester Street's vehicular traffic; and (c) the proposed alternate route — Dedham Street — is residential in character and has an elementary school and playground as well.

Wrestling Lions...

South High Grapplers Compile Finest Record of Sports Teams

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

Newton South High's always incredible wrestling squad solidified its position as the number one Lion winter sports team this season.

While the other sports floundered either below or at the .500 mark, the grapplers established many new records en route to compiling a 15-1 slate, which incidentally, is a school record for most wins.

The wrestlers also scored more points (44) in the state meet than any previous squad, recorded the best finish in the states, (second) and won more places in the states (five).

Individually, the Lions were amazing. The 134-pound co-captain, Steve Etkin, posted the identical record to the teams and notched 11 pins for another South standard. Etkin was first in the sectionals and second in the state.

Bill Hurwitz, Etkin's co-captain, compiled a 12-0-1 mark in the 114-pound class for the Lions' only unblemished slate. He also was first in the sectionals and second in the state, while collecting seven pins.

John Frieze, 121-11 in the 157-pound division in his first year of varsity competition, wound up third in both championships. He scored nine pins, second on the team to Etkin.

Mike Forman, 107-pounder, won awards in the same places as Frieze in each match and put together a won-loss mark of 12-2 with six pins.

Areman Kojoyan, son of Coach Aredis Kojoyan, was the other Lion grappler to score in the state meet. The 188-pounder was fourth after a third-place finish in the section. He earned a 9-2-3 record.

Paul Arduino, 101, and Larry Feldman, 158, seconds, Dave Smith, 121, fourth, Bob Staulo, unlimited, fifth and Gerry Berkowitz, 140, sixth, placed in the sectional championships, but not the states.

Staulo and Arduino also had impressive pin marks with six and five, respectively.

Coach Kojoyan was "quite pleased" with the season and felt that the team did an outstanding job. He had special praise for departing seniors Etkin, Hurwitz, Arduino, Smith, Berkowitz, Feldman, Frieze and his own son Areman for their "fantastic season", and Skip Singer, who when injured helped coach and work with some of the younger, inexperienced wrestlers on the team.

Kojoyan must be doing something right himself. In four years at the helm he has had successive seasons of 10-1, 11-2, 12-1 and 15-1 for a fabulous 48-5 record. But a good coach must never rest on past laurels and Kojoyan is already looking ahead to next season.

"This is my best team and a lot of guys are going to be hard to replace. However, there are a lot of boys back with varsity experience, most notably, Forman and Hill, plus Dave Lelehook, who was 6-0-1.

Dave Berkowitz (Gerry's brother), Alan Backer, Paul Murphy, John Ramirez, Lenny Adelman, Howie Frutkoff, Al Gird, Mark Frankel and Jon Sack," the coach said.

"In addition, this year's JV was very strong and has a number of people who will help like Steve Bucavale, Mike McDonald, Adam Nissen, Rick Hyman, Brian Corcoran, Wayne Vespa, Steve Lanes and Rich Sullivan."

There will be a lot of new faces wrestling front-line varsity for Newton South next year, but inexperienced or experienced, the grapplers always seem to come out on top.

the state and county which resulted in an increase of $2.34 in our tax rate," the Finance Committee Chairman added.

In a statement made when he presented the Finance Committee's recommended budget to the aldermen, Uehlein also said, "Having in mind the present impasse between the Governor and Legislature on the tax program, I am skeptical as to whether or not we will get any substantial help this year. Prior to 1970 the 'Cherry Sheet' often helped reduce our rate by $2.00 to $5.00."

"Our increase in assessed valuation this year is approximately $2 million. Last year it was approximately $5.5 million. This could reduce our rate by 60 cents; it is of interest to note that the increase in the city budget—excluding the school budget, of $1,129,591.87; 77 per cent is accounted for in the cost of personal services; the balance of 23 per cent is in costs of bond retirement, pensions, and other fixed expenses. These figures clearly point out where the costs of running a city lie. Certainly salary and wages will not be reduced, but will increase. Therefore, saving on this major item can only be effected by increased efficiency."

"Another cost of which you should be aware, and one that is not often considered by the personnel involved is the cost of employee benefits in this 1971 budget. For the City Departments, exclusion of school, the total costs is $4,017,008, covering vacations, special leave, retirement pensions and insurance. This means that for every $1,000 in salary and wages paid an additional $291.55 is expended for employee benefits."

"Or to put it another way on the average it costs the city $2,701.41 annually for each employee on the payroll to cover fringe benefits. We had 1487 employees as of Feb. 20, 1971. Bear in mind this is over and above their salary or wage and is a non-taxable item to them."

"Coming now to our School Budget of $22,818,035, an increase of $1,669,226 over 1970. Again, of this increase 81 per-

Learn to Swim Program at 'Y'

The Newton YMCA announces its annual Learn to Swim Campaign, free of charge for the non-swimming children and adults of Newton and the surrounding communities.

The Campaign will be held during the April school vacation on Tuesday, April 20, through Friday, April 23. Non-swimmers age seven and older are eligible. The only stipulation insisted upon is they be NON-SWIMMERS.

This Campaign serves a useful purpose for those who are swimmers. They will only take the spaces that rightfully should go to the non-swimmer. Parents are urged to cooperate and not send their child if he can swim 30 feet.

The goal over the four days is to teach the enrollees to swim 30 feet. This is basic, to be sure; however, it is a beginning and serves as an introduction to further swimming instruction for the children and adults.

The lessons will be one-half hour in length, beginning at 8:30 a.m. and continue each half hour until 12:30 p.m. The following is a time schedule for boys and girls, men and women: 8:30-9 a.m., boys 7-9 years old; 9:30-10 a.m., boys 12-16 years old; 10:10-10:30 a.m., boys and men 17 and older.

10:30-11 a.m., girls 7-9 years old; 11:11-11:30, girls 10-12; 11:30-12 noon, girls 13-16 years old; 12:12-12:30 p.m., girls and women 17 and older.

Due to limited space in the pool, each class will be limited to the first 20 applicants. You may register in person, or by mail, or by phone. Registration will end at 5 p.m., Wednesday, April 14. You may register in the Physical Education Department of the NEWTON Y.M.C.A., 276 Church St., Newton, Mass., 02158, or call 244-6050.

I hope that several of my fellow citizens will take advantage of my early announcement and seriously consider the possibility of public service. The office is elective and in that sense political. I think, however, that one of the proud boasts of the Newton School Committee is that politics ends on election night. At least that is the way I have seen it.

"I regret that my successor will inherit at least as many problems from me as I did when first appointed to the office five years ago. It is this variety of problems, however, that has made the position such an interesting and fulfilling one. Moreover, he or she will also have the benefit of working with an experienced and dedicated Committee and a really gifted Superintendent."

"In closing, I want to express my appreciation to the voters of Newton for having granted me the honor of serving on the Committee over the past few years."

cent is due to salary increases. This again indicates where our resources are spent. Please note that although a 4 per cent increase is allowed for in the budget the demands by the school personnel in their present negotiations for this year are far in excess of this amount and could cause a substantial further increase in the 1971 budget."

"It is to be noted that the School Committee members this year have shown some commendable restraint in their overall budget. They have reduced their staff by 12 teachers and also reduced other requests by $300,000. There is a difficult task for it must be remembered that our citizens do demand a first-class school system. It is to be hoped that the Committee will continue to review their needs and make further reductions in their overhead in 1972."

"We do hope that the overburdened taxpayers will understand that this budget is an austerity budget, that the services they demand are costly and that this budget reflects the cooperation of all departments of the city to perform with a minimum of cost."

"Thirteen months of work have gone into this. In some ways it includes a review of the complexities of putting up the F.A. Day Jr. High and the new Newton High School. The Clinch I Title...

Electronics Shock Gadabouts for National Division Championship

After dropping the opening game of the final playoff series, Silver Lake Electronics stormed back in clutch fashion to capture the National Division Championship, clinching it with a 58-56 win over the Gadabouts last Friday night at Warren gym.

Mark Lennon was the hero; he fired in 15 points and scored the winning hoop with only 27 seconds shining on the clock. Lennon, a 5-10 senior from Newton High, made a driving layup to narrowly give Electronics the crown.

Bob Scheiser almost turned the script around as his driving layup bid went around the rim and out at the buzzer. Richie Wadman was on top of the scoring parade with 21 points and rival center Pete Welanson tallied 18 for the Electronics.

In action Wednesday night, Ritchie Watts hit on a 15 footer with only one second remaining to give Silver Lake a clutch one point victory. Scheiser had a fantastic playoff series for the Gadabouts and almost single-handedly pulled off an upset.

Silver Lake and the Gadabouts beat K.O. Club and Kahunas in the semi-finals. On the regular season Silver Lake posted an unblemished 12-0 mark for the regular season title. K.O. Club finished second at 10-2, Boys Club, Kahunas and Gadabouts all had 9-3 slates but, Kahunas were awarded fourth on a coin toss and the Gadabouts upended

Bob Bainbridge Wins Hockey 'A' At Amherst Coll.

Robert H. Bainbridge of Chestnut Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Bainbridge of 10 Spooner road, has been awarded his first varsity Hockey "A" at Amherst College.

Bainbridge, a 1968 graduate of St. George's School in Newport, R.I., was an outstanding wing and was instrumental in Amherst's 10-6 record, the first winning hockey season at Amherst since 1959-60.

According to Lord Jeff head coach Ben McCabe, "Bob's presence on the team was a real plus for us this year and his hustling style of play was really appreciated."

"Unfortunately, he broke an arm in the Vermont game, but we expect a lot from him next season."

In the eight games he played before his injury, Bainbridge had six goals and nine assists. His best games were played against Holy Cross (four assists) and Hamilton (two goals).

At St. George's, he was active in student government and earned varsity letters in hockey, sailing and soccer. At Amherst Bainbridge is a member of the Chi Phi fraternity and also has won a varsity letter in soccer.

Committeeman Douglas agreed that the inadequate level of the maintenance budget would produce a continuing growing backlog of problems and unmet needs.

"We've got a monster on our hands in difficult times," concluded Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith. "It's the maintenance budget that always gets cut."

The 14 page report, submitted to the School Committee by Harry Portnoy, a member of the sub-committee and a member of the staff of the MIT School of Architecture, concluded, "It is our judgement that the Planning Process delineated can result in more economical, functional, and appropriate school facilities."

The purpose of the report is to outline a process which will enable the city to prepare for building programs, explained School Committee member Mrs. Eleanor Rosenblum, who is also chairman of the Special Commission on School Buildings.

"Thirteen months of work have gone into this. In some ways it includes a review of the complexities of putting up the F.A. Day Jr. High and the new Newton High School. The

Lettuce Boycott Meeting Is Hosted by Newman House

The Newman House Social Concerns Committee hosted a meeting last week to consider support of the lettuce strike by which the United Farm Workers, founded by Cesar Chavez, are attempting to bring legitimate union recognition and social justice to the impoverished field workers of the California and Texas lettuce industry.

The Social Concerns Committee is composed of high school students who are searching for meaningful involvement in the area of human needs. To date they have heard speakers on NCDF, both pro and con (Mark Slotnick and Albert Lebel); poverty in northeast Brazil (Paul Chapman from Packard Manse); the program of the Newton Non Violent Direction Action Group (Steven Murphy); as well as the plight of the farm workers in the lettuce industry (Laurel Weinheimer).

As a result of their interest, they have set up an office at Newman House, and have undertaken to serve as a resource group in support of the UFW in the Newton area. "The young men and women involved in this program," stated Mr. James McGourty, Staff Coordinator for this project, "are not merely studying an issue. They are committed to doing something about our Community so that it more truly reflects our belief in justice and brotherhood for all men."

At their most recent meeting, which centered on the current lettuce boycott, students were present from Newton High Schools north and south; from the Country Day School of the Sacred Heart and from Seton Hall. Among those attending were Martin Hollady, Mary Martin, Richard Kolow, Laurel Houghton, Dianne Blue, Beth Donovan, Paul Cavanaugh, Joe Reidy, David Vogel and Laura Fanger. Other students active on this project are Clair Molner, Laura Hein, Chris Bernhard, Brian Casey, Dan Melville, Tom Medlar, Paul Mischler, Buddy Sheehan, Steve Murphy, Claudia Lebel, Ellen Sanders and Beth Carleo. Staff Assistant is Mr. Dana Albano, who is Youth Representative of Saint Bernard's Parish Council.

"We are seeking concrete actions which answer the real needs of our time," asserted Dianne Blue. "We have spent many long, cold hours handing our leaflets which explain the issues involved in the lettuce boycott. This past weekend we made well over 100 phone calls gathering participants for the rally held Sunday at the United Farm Workers headquarters in Dorchester." Added Beth Carleo: "We need more help, and certainly hope that many others will join us in this important work."

Interested persons are encouraged to visit the student Social Concerns Center at Newman House. Notice of their activities are listed in the weekly "Newman House News" report; and they can be reached by phone at 969-8074 or 527-9016.

Many Shortages Plague The East German Planners

By JOSEPH FLEMING

UPI — When winter comes East German leaders get cold feet. They're probably doubly cold this year because in addition to the usual troubles caused by shortages of power and food, East German Communists have been shocked by the riots that erupted in neighboring Poland in protest against faulty economic planning.

There is no thought here that East German workers will take a page from the Polish book and revolt as they did in 1953. Despite persistent food shortages and power cuts East Germany has the highest standard of living in the Soviet bloc and the conditions do not compare to those in Poland.

But there is widespread grumbling and even questioning by some party members whether Marxism is capable of solving the complicated economic and technological problems of a modern industrial society.

"We certainly have trouble keeping warm in winter," one East Berlin source said ruefully.

Shortage is Chronic

This was a reference to the chronic shortage of fuel and energy caused by reliance on brown coal. Two-thirds of East Germany's power is produced by brown coal. Severe cold this winter as it did last winter is cutting brown coal production. The result is power cuts which cripple factories.

The early cold wave this year has produced front page stories in the East German press that resemble

Seek Homes to Host Students

The Newton Chapter of the American Field Service (AFS) is seeking host families for AFS students who will come to Newton for a year's stay and attend one of the city's high schools.

The AFS - sponsored program is aimed at furthering international understanding by bringing foreign students to the United States and sending American high school students abroad.

This year, there are two AFS students in Newton. These "ambassadors of goodwill" are providing themselves and their host families with an opportunity for close exchange of friendships and ideas.

"Offering a home for an AFS student is a rewarding experience," according to Mrs. Philip S. Belson of the Newton Chapter of AFS.

"These outstanding foreign students come from one of 50 or more countries and have been chosen after being tested in highly selective competition," she continued, also noting that "family backgrounds and interests are carefully examined for proper placement."

The prime financial responsibility for the host families is to provide food and shelter. The overseas transportation, school costs, medical care and an allowance are provided through the American Field Service.

Interested families with children of junior and senior high school age are urged to contact: Henry Shor, 90 High Rock Terrace, Newton Centre, or to call him at 244-4860.

dispatches from a front in wartime.

The Neues Deutschland, official Communist party newspaper, on an average day devoted one-third of its front page to the power situation with its main story headed, "Work in coal and energy industries very complicated."

In the press, on radio and television East Germans are urged to use electricity sparingly.

Horst Hilbert, chairman of the East Berlin Energy Commission, appealed to East Berliners to cook in flat, bread pots, use small flames and eliminate use of irons, washing machines, electric heaters and similar appliances during peak hours.

He said if every one of the 470,000 households in East Berlin would put out one 60-watt bulb during the peak hours there would be a saving for industry of 28,000 kilowatt hours.

Other Shortages

And other nagging shortages seem to continue year after year despite the funeral rise in the standard of living.

Paul Verner, member of the Communist party politburo, the top executive body, told a meeting of the central committee last month that there are shortages of warm clothing, shoes, stoves, athletic equipment and even toothbrushes.

This winter, as past winters, anti-freeze for automobiles is scarce. Automobile owners who cannot get anti-freeze are told to drain their radiators every night.

As a result of bad harvests in 1969 and 1970 there are difficulties in the food supply although there certainly is no hunger.

Here and there periodic shortages of meat, fish and butter crop up.

In the food sections of most department stores the shelves are empty before closing time. The windows of butchers are filled with canned goods instead of meat.

Pfizer Award to Newton Druggist

Richard W. Reynolds, owner of the F.A. Hubbard Drug at 425 Centre Street in Newton, today (Thursday) received an award from Pfizer Laboratories for having filled one million prescriptions or more.

Pfizer Laboratories will present similar awards to each pharmacy in the United States as it fills 1,000,000 prescriptions.

The award is in the form of a specially designed plaque which bears on it a barometer, a thermometer, and as a symbol of the pharmaceutical profession, the "Eye of Horus" believed to be the oldest existing pharmacy symbol and the origin of the "Rx" prescription mark.

The raised bronze "Eye of Horus" on the plaque is a replica of one designed for the medicine and pharmacy mural in the Pfizer World Headquarters building in New York City. Mr. Reynolds was graduated from the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy in 1933 and has been involved in the field of pharmacy for the past 38 years. He is a member of the American Pharmaceutical Association, N.A.R.D., Newton Drug Association and the Massachusetts Pharmaceutical Association. He resides with his wife at 7 Walden Street in Newtonville.

Criticizes Meeting

Editor of The Graphic:

Last Tuesday evening I blundered into an Executive Board meeting of Newton Citizens for Education. Approximately 16 public officials were there. On the agenda was fiscal autonomy of School Committees. Mrs. Norma Mintz, ex-School Committee member, chaired the meeting. Haskell Friedman, ex-School Committee Chairman and Florence Rubin, Charter Commission Chairman, expounded on the virtues of fiscal autonomy.

A gentleman raised the issue of changing the method of electing the School Committee, which will be heard by the Aldermen at a Public Hearing on March 29th. He was ruled out of order.

Yet a Charter Commission member was permitted to speak against the petitions and implied that those who seek changes of this nature will somehow help eliminate vital programs for minority groups that are now in the schools. Then an Alderman was allowed to discredit the people of a ward. This is democracy at its finest?

I left this meeting as the alienation of the average citizen from the "intellectual" was being explored. I left assured that the Newton Citizens for Education will continue to be the self-appointed guardians of education and will continue "talking to themselves." It reminded me of the French royalty discussing peasants before the onslaught of the French Revolution.

"Stop-Smoking" Team To Appear Here Next Week

SmokEnders, an independent teaching and research organization concerned with getting people to quit smoking, will hold two free public explanatory meetings soon, the first next Thursday (April 1) at the 1200 Beacon Street Motel in Brookline, and the second, Tuesday, April 6 at the Jewish Community Center in Cleveland Circle. Both meetings will begin at 8 p.m.

The SmokEnders approach to smoking cessation is non-medical. It assumes all smokers are aware of the health hazards of smoking and works from the premise that smoking is a learned habit. Therefore, one aspect of their program is that smokers are required to smoke as many cigarettes as they like during the first half of the 10-week series while learning how to stop.

SmokEnders' attempts to teach smokers how to stop and continues with a thorough and intensive follow-up program, so when the smoker reaches the "Cut-Off" meeting he is well prepared physically, mentally and socially to cease smoking.

Dinosaur Seen On Hamilton School Yard

A dinosaur measuring seven feet tall and approximately 40 feet long was seen on Friday (March 12) on the playground at Hamilton Elementary School in Newton Lower Falls. The children at the school estimated its weight at ten tons—before the sun put it on a crash diet.

The monster was the result of a full day's work by the 4th, 5th and 6th year students in Mr. Heller's science classes, hence will not be added to the roster of unexplained phenomena such as the Loch Ness Monster or the Abominable Snowman.

Montessori School Adds Music For Preschoolers

The Montessori School of Newton announces the addition of music to its preschool program. Music is taught using Orff and Kodaly approaches twice a week by Betsy Northrup, of the Dana School of Music at Dana Hall in Wellesley.

Miss Northrup received her training in music at Cornell University, SUNY at Fredonia as well as several summer courses and has taught at Dana Hall for three years. During the Montessori School's monthly meeting held for parents, Miss Northrup gave a lecture-demonstration of her approach to early childhood music education.

She explained that Carl Orff, Austrian composer well known for his Carmina Burana, and Zoltan Kodaly, a noted Hungarian composer, each evolved a system of basic music training in their own countries. Their two methods have much in common and often have been combined for use in the United States. Since many people feel that one complements and supplements the other.

Both men felt that the "experience" of music - in the body, the voice, the emotions should come before intellectualization. They found great similarities in folk and children's music throughout the world, indeed, they found certain chants that were almost universal. The songs generally had a small range and a similar pitch pattern built on a pentatonic scale (a simple scale of all black notes). Children are introduced to music with these pleasant pentatonic melodies (such as Mary had a Little Lamb and Swing Low Sweet Chariot) and taught to thoroughly match proper pitch.

Orff realized in giving mature musicians rhythmic training that training in rhythm should begin with the very young child. Once children get a basic feeling for both rhythm and pitch, they are gradually introduced to a simplified method of reproducing music in abstract patterns which eventually will lead to reading music.

Airman Stephen Hall Assigned to Westover

Airman Stephen R. Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hall, of 30 Plainfield street, Newton, recently was graduated at Chantute AFB (Ill.) from the technical training course for U.S. Air Force protective equipment specialists. He is a 1970 graduate of Newton South High School.

Airman Hall was taught to maintain oxygen units and survival kits and is being assigned to Westover AFB (Mass.) for duty with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

Many of these teaching approaches are similar to those evolved by Dr. Maria Montessori, in that they involve the whole child. It is a natural addition to an already enriched Montessori program for children from 2½ to 6 at the Montessori School of Newton. Interested parents may observe the school at 11a Highland Avenue in Newtonville by calling 969-1757 between 11:30 a.m. and 12 p.m.

Newton Solons In Protest Of Laos Fighting

Four Newton legislators, Sen. Irving Fishman and Reps. Paul Guzzi, Paul F. Malloy, and David J. Mofenson - have sent the following resolution to Senators Edward M. Kennedy and Edward Brooke and the Massachusetts Congressional Delegation:

We deplore the incursion into Laos as an act without moral or legal justification.

The use of American men and material in this action represents an extension, not a diminishing, of our involvement in Indo-China.

It represents a continuation of the ill-conceived policy which led to our original involvement.

It represents a continuation of the tragically flawed view that beyond the next assault lies the final victory.

It represents a continuation of the notion that the security of the United States is endangered by a civil war fought on a far-off continent.

We strongly dissent from this view.

Can you find the Volkswagen hidden in this picture?

If you can, you'll make us very sad. Because we've troubled ourselves no end to hide it from you.

Our quest for the invisible Volkswagen took us all the way to Turin, Italy.

Where we asked the famous Ghia Studios to design us a sporty Italian body. They did.

Then we secretly prowled about Europe for the best coach builder we could find.

Success. To the Karmann Coachworks of Osnabrück we handed over Ghia's sketches with the injunction: "Make it beautiful." (Or else.)

They did.

They welded. And burnished. And sculpted. And sanded. And pointed. Until they had shaped in steel what Ghia had shaped in pencil.

Smug in the knowledge that nobody could ever mistake this beautiful car for a Volkswagen, we concealed our air-cooled engine in back. (For better traction.)

And made it go about 26 miles on just one gallon.

Then we gave this Volkswagen its final disguise:

We named it the Karmann Ghia.

Jo Brewer's Butterfly Article In April Issue

The April issue of YANKEE magazine contains an article on New England butterflies written and illustrated by a author-lecturer-photographer Jo Brewer of Auburndale.

The story delves into the devices employed by butterflies to protect themselves from natural enemies such as birds, earwigs, parasitic wasps and flies. Also northern butterflies must survive in a climate which for half a year offers them nothing to eat and makes it too cold to fly.

Mrs. Brewer, who has made a lifetime study of butterflies, writes that butterflies have been a part of the balance of nature for over 50 million years. They are second only to bees in the pollination of flowers, are harmless and beautiful and add color to the New England woodland during Spring, Summer and Fall.

Her book "Wings in the Meadow" has been chosen as book-of-the-month by the Christian Herald Family bookshelf.

Newton, State, MDC Policemen Guarded Agnew

During Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's stay at the Newton Marriott Motor Hotel last Friday morning to honor the Hellenic Chronicle, the task of providing security for the visitor was handled by more than 125 Newton police (including 60 Tactical Patrol Force members), 50 state troopers and another 50 MDC officers, as well as a contingent of traveling Secret Servicemen.

Police were located throughout the parking lot, at certain places on the hotel roof and in unmarked cars around the site. Inside, over 700 guests were attending the luncheon reception which billed the vice president as featured speaker.

Although Newton police had been notified earlier that demonstrations would be occurring outside the hotel, the morning was generally peaceful - in sharp contrast to the violent police-protester confrontations of the night before in Boston's Back Bay, during Agnew's address to the Middlesex Club at the Sheraton Boston Hotel.

Mann Named to Hospital Costs Sub-Committee

Other members of the sub-committee and Senator Daniel Foley; Representatives Edward J. Dever, Jr., Dennis Duffin, and James E. O'Leary.

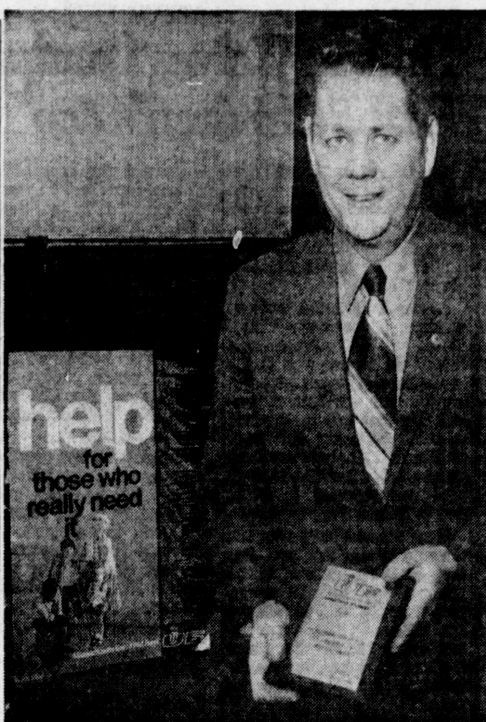

Representative Mann, a sponsor of a study bill, stated he was "particularly pleased to be appointed to this committee since has been deeply concerned with the spiraling cost of medical service for many years and that he has urged studies for the determination of the factors responsible and for the purpose of setting the direction of programs undertaken."

"The problem of medical costs," Mann said, "merits top level consideration. We are all feeling the impact of rising costs and my hope is that our study will direct some constructive thinking to the matter so that it will be possible to deliver competent medical service at reasonable cost to the average person."

Crepe Care

(UPI) - Crepe is a very serviceable fabric if it is given reasonable care, says the National Institute of Drycleaning.

The majority of crepes dryclean satisfactorily but pressing must be done very carefully so as not to flatten the creped surface. Bias-cut crepe garments are more difficult to press than garments cut with the grain or straight of the fabric.

Leonard Rittner

Leonard R. Rittner of 37 Maplewood Avenue in Newton was honored recently by the Hearststone Insurance Company of Massachusetts — of which he is an assistant vice president — for coordinating the construction of the firm's new five - million dollar home office in Brookline, which will be dedicated today (Thursday).

Gordon A. Dancer, executive vice president of the accident and health insurance company, paid tribute to Rittner for his attention to every detail in the building, from the clearing of the site to moving day.

Dancer said that, in addition, Rittner provided liaison with town officials in the construction of the new building and worked closely with the general contractor and designer.

Hearststone Plaza, a business park incorporating a plaza area, a bank, restaurant, movie theater and shops as well as a variety of office space, also serves as a transportation and communications hub in Brookline Village.

Rittner, 47, is a graduate of Boston University, which awarded him masters degrees in both business administration and education. His regular duties at Hearststone call for supervision of data processing, auditing and purchasing. He joined the company in 1962 as an executive trainee, and a short time later was placed in charge of systems and procedures.

A native of Boston, Rittner and his wife have two daughters, ages 9 and 13.

Student Editors Parley April 7, 500 Expected

Newtonites will play a prominent role when over 500 student editors as well as faculty and administrators will attend a statewide conference of high school newspaper editors. It will be held Wednesday, April 7 in Lyons Hall of Boston College.

David Freeman and Janice Kaplan, both students at Newton South High, are co-chairmen of the conference. As co-chairmen of the Mass. Association of High School Editors, they originated the day - long event "to provide student editors with the objective insights into the role of the student press."

Richard Durkin, a foreign language teacher at Meadowbrook Junior High, is president of the Mass. Teachers Association, and both David and Janice were students under Mr. Durkin.

David, a senior, is editor-in-chief of Denebola, the Newton South newspaper. Janice will take over next year as editor-in-chief. The students have been planning the conference for several months. The topic of the conference centers on the rights and responsibilities of the mass media and its implications relative to the student press.

Newton GOP's Hear State Deputy Wylie

One of the best attended GOP meetings in recent years greeted Richard Wylie, Deputy Chairman of the Republican State Committee when he visited the city Tuesday evening.

Wylie frankly conceded that the program he is undertaking "will take a great deal of hard work, time, and much more money than has been available to date."

The meeting also heard Alan W. Licarie, Executive Secretary of the Newton Election Commission, in an earlier session, discuss the city's new ward lines for municipal elections.

The group voted to create a new "study committee" to review the Charter Commission's report and report back to the membership at its next meeting. Members of the Study Group are Mrs. Eugene M. (Charlotte) Hirshberg, Chairman; Mrs. G. Nicholas Dawson, and Julius L. Masow, Chairman of the Newton Republican City Committee, who presided, announced that the next full Republican City Committee meeting would take place Tuesday evening, May 18.

David Aronson Exhibit At Novack Gallery

Novack Gallery at 424 Langley road, Newton Centre, is presenting a collection of fine sculpture in bronze by David Aronson. Preview Showing to be Thursday (April 1), 7 to 10 p.m. sherry hour.

If it is the task of art to make spirit visible, it may be truly said of David Aronson that in his work he makes the world of the soul palpable and actual. His figures exude both a vigorous comedy and an unsentimental warmth that bespeak a serious view of man as a creature at once finite and forever seeking to transcend his limitations by means of exaltation and mystery.

The limited editions of the sculpture of David Aronson are produced by a modern version of the painstaking metal-casting process known as "cire perdue" (or lost wax). It is an ancient method for casting molten metal, used today in a form virtually unchanged from that invented by the Chinese 4000 years ago.

A partial listing of Aronson collection: Art Institute, Chicago, Museum of Modern Art, Whitney Museum, Worcester Art Museum; Carnegie Institute; Smithsonian Institution; Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, Corcoran Gallery, DeCordova Museum.

The exhibition will continue through April—hours are 10 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

Honor Eddie Lyons For Charity Work

In the last two months, Eddie Lyons of Newton Corner has received several award plaques, including one from Governor Francis W. Sargent which reads: "In recognition of his 30 years as volunteer in hospital services, as an entertainer which is deserving of recognition by all citizens of Massachusetts."

There is also the one from the Veterans Administration, recognizing Eddie Lyons' volunteer service to hospitalized veterans, presenting them "monthly lively entertaining shows during the past 25 years," and the Citation for Distinguished Service from the Disabled American Veterans was awarded "for 30 years of giving to the disabled."

For Eddie Lyons, the plaques bearing these phrases came as 80th birthday gifts. However, for Eddie Lyons, the best gift remains his own ability to give - to bring countless moments of diversion and good humor to those in hospitals and nursing homes.

Also, to give hope to those who have lost almost everything else, as he and his vaudeville troupe did last December 5 at Hanover High School, when Eddie Lyons and his group presented a 31-act variety show to benefit the survivors of a burned-out family.

For this gesture, he received from the Hanover Lions Club, the event's sponsor, a Certificate of Appreciation for "the invaluable services and cooperation extended." It is similar to numerous others awarded him over the past three decades, during which time something like 300 performers have played benefits with him.

Eddie Lyons, who notes that he was "stagestruck as a kid," was a nephew of the burlesque comedian Toby Lyons. In 1918, while serving in the armed forces, he was known as the "Camp Devens Nut." He formed his vaudeville troupe in 1941, and for the stretch of time spanning late 1942 to early 1944 alone, he presented 125 free shows in every hospital, camp and service organization in New England.

In those years, he performed in the acts (now he appears as emcee only), doing a routine and singing tunes like, "I Met Her at the Morgan Memorial". In those years, he also ran in the BAA Marathon, managing to complete 18 of 21 attempts, with his best finish being 12th.

For the past quarter century, Eddie Lyons and his players (who range in age from 12 to their early 20s) have appeared at Brighton Marine (Public Health Service) Hospital the first Wednesday of every month. On the fourth Wednesday of every month, for the past 18 years, they have entertained at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Jamaica Plain.

He has resided in Newton for 40 years, and now lives at 56 Eldridge Street. Until 1955, Eddie Lyons put in 38 years with the Post Office Department, working a Brookline (his former home) beat as a letter carrier. Then, from his retirement to 1966, he was employed at Suffolk Downs, where he was in a position to get a lot of hot tips on cold losers.

Eddie Lyons does not plan on ever stopping to make available his form of public service. In addition to his regular hospital visits, there will undoubtedly continue to be reasons which compel him to do special benefit shows.

Like the one planned for April 18 in Roslindale, to help a family there whose home was destroyed by fire last Christmas.

Or like the one he presented April 28, 1948, at the Newton High School Auditorium in behalf of the Newton Paraplegic Fund, the one in which the program was led off by the Wolcott Family of Newton, doing song and dance specialties.

'Gourmet Cooks' Featured At Woman's Club Meeting

The American Home Committee of The Newton Centre Woman's Club had a surprise luncheon at the Clubhouse at 1280 Centre St., this past week with elegant casseroles prepared by the Club's "Gourmet Cooks."

Mrs. Victor D. Baer of 325 Brookline St., Newton Centre, Chairman of American Home, reports that about 60 of the American Home Committee attended. The Newton Centre Club is a Club with Committee Clubs in it. Many of Mrs. Baer's Committee cooked and served. It was noted that Mrs. William E. Bailey of Newton Centre made all the desserts! Miss Ruth Burns with a broken hip was on deck as co-chairman of the event, and Treasurer, Mrs. William R. Martineau was present.

The program following the luncheon was most unusual and put on by a Club member and 12th District Director of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. George J. Brookhiser of Windsor Rd., Waban.

An expert on glass, Mrs. Brookhiser educated the group on old and new glass with exhibits of her own, and she also commented on glass brought in by club members. The interesting thing about this program is that Mrs. Brookhiser is offering any donations received, such as those from the two co-chairmen, to the Juniors of the Mass. State

Federation of Women's Clubs for their two-year project called "Touch and See Trail."

The Juniors are building a "Garden in the Woods" for the blind. It is being located between Westwood and Norwood. They are buying an acre at a time aiming for the 50 acres available on their all-over plan.

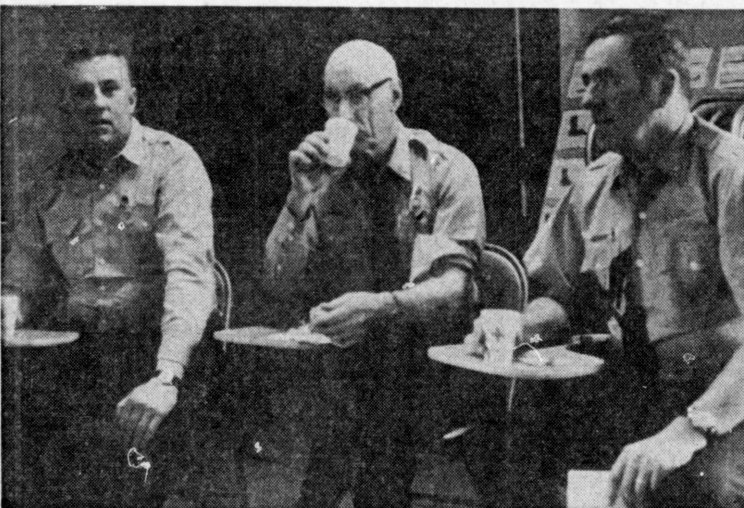

This most unusual community-service project will finally evolve with paths through the woods, ropes to guide the blind on trails, markings on trees, etc. to identify this much-needed natural experience in braille. Can you imagine what it will be like for someone, who cannot see, to feel rough or smooth bark, leaves and get the feel of the outdoors? The Newton Centre Club is proud to have a part in such a project.

Members on the Board: please note a change in time for the April Board Meeting. It will be on April 20 at 11 o'clock instead of 10 a.m.

Senior Play In April
